Martin Compton has purchased two lots and a house on the corner of Tustin and Garden streets and commences today to build two more houses on the lots. Mr. Compton says his visit to California proves that is the country to winter in, but Pendleton is the place to invest and spend money in.

The College Place Reaper: While en route to Walla Walla last week, Elder Martin stayed a day in Pendleton in the interests of the camp meeting. He finds that good pasture for the horses can be had at reasonable rates. This will be only a short distance from the camp ground. There will also be plenty of good hay on the ground for those who do not choose to take their teams to pasture.

CHARLIE GRAVES' TROUBLES

HIS WIFE ACCUSES HIM OF POLYGAMY.

It is Said She is Trying to Get Rid of Him and Makes the Charge With That Purpose in View.

The following from a Portland paper will be read with some interest: C. H. Graves, a colored porter in the employ of the Southern Pacific, is confined in the city jail as he is unable to furnish $2000 bail to insure his appearance at the police court to answer a charge of polygamy.

In the complaint filed the wife Mollie Graves, alleges that she married Graves in this city five years ago. At that time he told her he was all alone in the world, and there was nothing to prevent the marriage. Now she has discovered differently and she wishes him put in a place where he won't be able to marry women as fast as they come along.

Graves denies all the allegations of the complaint. He says that he married the other woman in 1897, and when she did not live up to his expectations, he secured a divorce from her. He then married Mollie and at that time the other had no legal right to him. He says the charge is a trumped-up affair and that there is nothing to it.

Graves says that his first wife is married again. According to his story she married a Chinaman in Seattle several years ago.

The above was shown to E. N. LeRoy, a friend of Graves, and proprietor of the restaurant on Main street, near the O. R. & N. depot, and Mr. LeRoy says that he is satisfied that the charges made against Graves is a trumped-up business between his wife and some of the colored porters at Portland who want to get him out of the way. He says that Mrs. Graves has been trying to rid herself of her husband for some time and that she is just the kind of a woman who would do anything to accomplish her purpose. Several others who are acquainted with the allegations made against Graves by his wife and who are also acquainted with her, say that she is a bad one and has been working Graves for all there was in it since their marriage.

They were married in this city something over two years ago, instead of in Portland five years ago, as Mrs. Graves says. Mr. Graves was running the lunch counter where Mr. LeRoy is now located, until last January, when he sold out to please his wife, who wanted to move to Portland.

The senate committee on military affairs completed the army appropriation bill. Increases recommended by the committee bring the total up to about $100,000,000.

A SURPRISE TO ALL

EX-CONSTABLE JAMES CHARGED WITH ROBBERY.

Policeman P. H. Fee Does an Excellent Piece of Detective Work in Discovering Who Robbed Brock and McComas Drug Store.

Tom James, 60 years of age, a member of the G. A. R., ex-constable and well-known here where he has spent the past several years, is in the county jail with a charge of breaking into a business house and robbing it, against him.

One week ago tonight Brock & McComas' drug store was broken into and the till tapped for about $4, and $30 worth of morphine and a half dozen bottles of liquor were taken. Entrance was made at the back door by boring holes with an auger, in the panel and splitting out a piece of the door large enough so that the hand could be passed through. This done, the spring lock on the inside was reached and a brace, that was against the door, removed, which let the door swing back and admit the thief.

The matter was kept very quiet and Policeman Fee placed on the case. He has been steadily working it up since, and, connecting the circumstances that the robbery had been committed by some one who was familiar with the interior of the store, and that James was janitor of the establishment, and the further fact that he saw James on the street about 1 o'clock the night of the robbery, which was something unusual, the officer's suspicions were directed toward him.

Mr. Fee knew that James was a great friend of some women of questionable character, who reside on West Alta street, and who he knew to be morphine fiends. Taking this cue, Mr. Fee went to the home of one of these women and after considerable questioning, she divulged the fact that a friend of hers, Mrs. James Morgan, had a lot of morphine that James brought her. Then Fee went to the home of Mrs. Morgan and searched the house. About $5 worth of the drug was found in a tin can at the head of her bed. After questioning her she told him who gave it to her and then Mr. Fee summoned Policeman Scheer to go with him and they placed James under arrest. This was between 11 and 12 last night. When they knocked on the door where James rooms, on West Alta street, he came to the door and asked what was wanted. The officers walked into the house and told James he was under arrest. The room was searched and the rest of the morphine found, besides several of the empty liquor bottles.

When the officers began to search James' room he became very wrathful, but when the stolen goods were found he cooled off, and refused to say anything more than that he had been "worked by the gang" and that he would "turn them all up before it was over."

Water Spout South of Pendleton. Word has been brought in from south of Pendleton to the effect that a water spout occurred at the head of the Coombs gulch, Wednesday afternoon, and the water swept down the canyon, taking everything before it. It was stated by one who came from that section that the water was eight or 10 feet deep in the gulch, and that every fence, culvert and bridge along the road up the gulch was washed away. In addition to this several bands of sheep were in the road of the water, and it is reported that several head were drowned.
