CURRENT POLITICAL DISCUSSION.
The Questions at Issue before the People of Oregon Today.

"THE DEADLY PARALLEL."
"The chief source of such republican support as the fusion receives is the Mitchell-McBride faction, with its office holders and affiliated gang. This is the closest, the most selfish and the most exclusive ring ever known in our politics. It has always been unscrupulous and always corrupt. It has ruled with a high hand for thirty years till now, turned down for its infidelity to the great principles of the republican party, which the republican party has found it necessary to proclaim and maintain, it sets up for 'reform.'"—Oregonian June 4, 1900.

It is only necessary to remember that the "Mitchell-McBride push" was "always unscrupulous and corrupt for 30 years," and that during the last 20 years of that time the "Simon sub-bosses" had been "abusing their power by stuffing the primaries!" But during all that time Mr. Scott was claiming that one side or the other was fighting for honest government, and for the last 15 years of the "last 20 years" he has been hand in glove with these sub-bosses, whom he now says were using all their power to "stuff primaries." Wonder which will be the "honest" side two years hence?—Salem Capital Journal.

DEMOCRATIC PROSPECTS.
How the Jacksonville Times, a Southern Oregon Paper, Views Politics.
It is peculiarly gratifying to the managers of the democratic campaign that, in spite of the abundant funds at the command of the opposition, such an encouraging situation is presented at this time.
It is confidently believed now that the nominee for governor, George E. Chamberlain, will be elected. He is the straw which indicates the direction in which the wind blows. One of the shrewdest political betters in Oregon was understood to have arranged to place a large amount of money, taking the furnish end of the wager. He has received information from 22 counties from such sources as can be depended upon, and has drawn down his money, at least for the present. There is not the slightest tinge of politics in this action; it is a business proposition with him. Careful inquiry among other men, who find recreation in staking money on elections, reveals the fact that the original odds offered on Mr. Furnish at the beginning of the campaign are now wiped out, and what small bets are being placed are on the basis of dollar against dollar.

Reports coming into democratic headquarters are of a very favorable tenor. The organization is especially strong in every county, more so than it has been for years, and the enthusiasm that has been manifest for Mr. Chamberlain and which has guaranteed his election, is now communicating itself to the rest of the state ticket. An immense body of independent voters have made up their minds to rebuke political methods that tend to place official preferment upon the basis of willingness to throw large sums of money into the conduct of the campaign, even to those who are conservative in their views regarding the manner in which Mr. Furnish and his associates have used their campaign funds. It is noticeable that distinguished citizens of moderate means are disposed to resent the new regime that it is now proposed to inaugurate, and which will make it impossible for all but wealthy men to be honored by the state elections, unless it be some man who is willing to be the tool of another power behind the throne.

It is possible that this issue will take precedence over all others, inasmuch as it goes to the very essence of our representative form of government. The splendid reception that was accorded Mr. Chamberlain and his associates on the state ticket in Eastern Oregon, it is believed, will be duplicated in the counties south from Portland.
It is hinted quite generally that the people of Douglas county are especially interested in the fight over attorney-general. There is no doubt that in nominating Colonel James H. Raley, of Pendleton, the ticket was greatly strengthened. That he will carry Multnomah county against a heavy republican majority seems to be assured, and as to Eastern Oregon there is no question. Douglas county, the home of the republican nominee for attorney-general, Mr. Crawford, is depended on to give splendid support to the man from Umatilla.—Jacksonville Times.

Political Notes.
The democratic state committee had hoped to have the service of C. E. S. Wood in the campaign, but it is understood that Mr. Wood cannot arrange his business to return to Oregon from New York until the latter part of May.
Hon. R. A. Booth, of Eugene, hold-over senator from the district consisting of Lane, Douglas and Josephine counties, and chairman of the late state republican convention, says Lane, Josephine and Douglas counties will give republican majorities.
A great many traveling men out of Portland are outspoken in their expressions for Chamberlain for governor.
W. M. Colvig, who was a democratic candidate for presidential elector in 1892, and who left the democratic party in 1896 because he could not indorse its platform, has arranged with the republican state committee to stump a large part of Southern and Western Oregon. He will be heard first at Lebanon, Linn county, May 22.

Most Effective Advertising.
That advertising is the most effective which attracts the eye and appeals to the brain. Strong adjectives may be as much out of taste in an advertisement as in a bit of more aspiring literature. Exaggeration is always to be avoided. People nowadays demand sincerity in all matters of business. It is observable that all the big and successful advertisers are most careful as to their statements of fact. They realize that confidence is the key-stone in the arch of trade. Their success came of their jealous regard for their work

A COLONIAL RESIDENCE.
Pleasing Exterior and Well Arranged Interior Features of This House.
Neatness in design and convenience in plan arrangement, two important items, have been successfully carried out in this design. The exterior is very pleasing to the eye. It is ornamented by a large piazza across the front, and the roof is broken by a gable on one side, the gable being shingled and ornamed with mullion windows. The bay windows on the front and side are also very attractive features.

The foundation is of hard brick laid in cement mortar and pointed on the outside below grade with pure portland cement to make a perfectly dry cellar.
The building is framed in a substantial manner with a mortise and tenon frame with spruce timbers, all well seasoned. The filling in studs are of good, sound hemlock. These studs doubled around all openings are covered with hemlock sheathing boards one inch thick, placed diagonally and covered with XX red sheathing paper to make a perfectly airtight job. Then a white pine bevel siding is put on the boards, being six inches wide and having two drawers below the counter shelf and two glass doors above, with shelves.

The kitchen has all the modern improvements, such as galvanized iron sink, range, soapstone tubs, etc.
The house has outside and inside cellar stairs. The cellar floor is concrete and is partitioned off in coal bins and storerooms.
The attic contains a servant's bedroom and a large open room for storage. The second story has four large bedrooms and a bathroom, with an iron enamel bathtub and nickel plated trimmings. The wash basin is a china bowl with marble back and slab and nickel plated fixtures and legs. The floor is tiled, and the side walls are blocked off to imitate tiling five feet high.
Cost to build complete, including furniture, $2,000.

Wrath Disarmed.
A little Cambridge girl was discovered whispering in school, and the teacher asked:
"What were you saying to the girl next to you when I caught you whispering?"
The little culprit hung her head for a moment and then replied:
"I was only telling her how nice you looked in your new dress."
"Well, that—yes—I know—but we must—the class in spelling will please stand up."—Christian Register.

A Skinning Process.
"This," said the fond father to the dermatological expert, "seems to be a pretty big bill for the treatment you have given my daughter."
"It was a difficult treatment," explained the skin doctor. "You see, we had to remove all the cuticle from her cheeks and graft a new epidermis upon them."
"Well," said the father, reaching for his checkbook, "I don't know which one of us you skinned the most."—Baltimore American.
