

DIRECT FROM OLD ENGLAND

We have just received the first direct import order of ever brought to Pendleton. They are made of the finest English bristles, with wax back (a new idea) which makes it impossible for the bristles to come out, as is the case with most brushes. Every brush has our name and guarantee stamped plainly on it, and is not only backed up by ourselves, but the manufacturers as well. Should any brush prove unsatisfactory, a new one will be given in its place or money refunded. They come in hard, medium and soft bristles. Where can you buy a brush like them for the money? We are making a leader of them at 35 CENTS.

THE PHILIPPINE PROBLEM.

What the American people have accomplished for themselves or the Filipinos in the Philippines could be put in a nutshell, at least it would not fill a book with its recital.

In short our military administration in the islands has approached the danger lines of national disgrace and shame. Public sentiment is on the eve of becoming a hostile force to it and those back of it. President Roosevelt will have to act quickly to avert the blow that is about to fall. It is doubtful if he will be equal to the occasion.

The current of popular opinion is about to run counter to the administration's policies, as expressed by the military in the Philippines. The people are beginning to suspect that "benevolent assimilation" has not been made to prevail and what has been accomplished was more in the interests of the masters than of the slaves, of the whites than the "niggers."

Profit from our exploitation in the Philippines has been preached freely, but no profit, unless it be that of brutality, is in evidence. Our plans of pacification have been carried out with "fire and sword," slightly assisted by administration of the "water cure" and other civilizing amusements.

There is a growing bitterness against our military despotism in these islands, which is not alone confined to the anti-imperialists or the nobby-pambys.

The country is to see whether Rooseveltism is a remedy or cure for Funstonism, Smithism, Wallerism and Glennism. The American people are becoming sick and tired of the Philippine muddle, for which they hold the republican party and party leaders alone responsible.

DEATH OF ADMIRAL SAMPSON.

The death of Admiral Sampson causes profound sorrow throughout the nation. He was not a popular hero or one well understood by the people, but he was respected and admired by a large body of his countrymen. His end, so soon after his earthly victories, was particularly sad. Affliction and disease destroyed the pleasure and gratification, which should have been his after the Spanish-American war.

Possibly, the unfortunate controversy of which he was the principal, hastened his death, at least it saddened his last days and squeezed out about all the cheer that was in his heart. His mental health was such that he could not be held responsible for his acts for several years before his death. He was sick in mind long before his friends suspected it, and possibly, some of his performances and short comings were due entirely to this condition.

Admiral Sampson was a man of excellent strength of character, which is shown by the fact that he rose from the lower ranks of life to one of the highest positions in the gift of the American people. He served his country faithfully and death relieved him of all afflictions and sorrows, of which he had fully his share. He lies at rest with the honors of his country entwined around his good name.

REPUBLICAN PRESS SILENT.

There are indications of dissatisfaction with the republican machine and its ticket in many parts of Oregon. These evidences are not on the surface, but a little below. The surplus strength of the party in the state threatens to be exhausted by the time election day comes around.

From a multitude of directions signs come of revolt against the party and the silence of the "insurgents" is portentous. The republican newspapers of the state are almost free from reference to the issues of the campaign or mention of the candidate, who make up the ticket.

With the exception of the Oregonian, the republican cause is ignored by the republican press, at least to such an extent that the observer cannot resist inquiring, what is the matter?

OUR DOMESTIC ANIMALS.

Census bulletin No. 156 purports to give a more complete enumeration of livestock in the United States than was ever before authorized by congress or undertaken by any census. It says: "Not only were previous census reports deficient with respect to the number of domestic animals on range and in barns and enclosures elsewhere, but the statistics of livestock and of livestock values were too general to be of practical value to either breeder or shipper." The present report aims to be free from these defects and the statistics were carefully collected with that end in view.

A summary of the numerous detailed tables of statistics contained in the report shows that on June 1, 1890, the value of all livestock on farms in the United States was reported as $2,208,767,573. The estimated value of all livestock on ranges was $100,000,000, making the total for farms and ranges $2,308,767,573. The corresponding total on June 1, 1900, was $2,981,722,945, a gain of 29.1 per cent.

The gain of course was far from being uniform throughout the census divisions of the country. In the North Atlantic division the value of livestock declined from $313,902,504 to $305,360,856, or 2.8 per cent. This decrease was caused by losses in the number of meat cattle, horses sheep and swine, the increase in average values and in the number of other animals having been insufficient to balance the same. In the South Atlantic states the value increased from $161,631,801 to $184,152,273, a gain of 13.9 per cent; in the North Central states, from $1,195,704,262 to $1,529,975,317, a gain of 2.8 per cent; in the South Central states, from $392,155,328 to $598,255,687, a gain of 52.6 per cent, and in the Western states from $245,373,678 to $361,453,453, a gain of 47.3 per cent.

After giving those figures the bulletin goes on to say: "No reports were secured concerning the value of animals not on farms and ranges. They probably have average values somewhat greater than the animals on farms and ranges, since the greater number are located in the states having the highest average values for animals on farms. Allowing the same average values, however, the animals not on farms have a value of $215,192,928. It is probable, therefore, that the domestic animals in the United States June 1, 1900, had a value of at least $3,200,000,000, of which amount the value of animals on farms and ranges constitute over 93 per cent."

In this connection it is worth noting that the discussion of the responsibility of the beef trust for the high price of beef has led to a careful calculation of the amount of beef controlled by the trust, and while the figures may not be strictly reliable they are at least interesting. The National Provisioner says: "There are killed in this country about 11,000,000 cattle, including calves; about 5,000,000 of these are killed at the fifty odd official or inspected abattoirs, while about 6,000,000 are killed at the other 900 unofficial abattoirs and by farmers and small slaughterers over this country. The whole of the cattle and calves as well as the hogs and sheep slaughtered by the five packers in question are killed at the government inspected abattoirs, and are among the 5,000,000 head given out by the secretary of agriculture as our official slaughter. Assuming that the five concerns cited kill 3,000,000 of the total, there remain the other 2,000,000 and the 6,000,000 of outside cattle—8,000,000 head in all—to hit the market in competition. With so much beef and veal for competition the outside concerns would kill any such combine if it existed."

If the figures stated are reliable it is evident the complaint against the trust is unfounded. It is further to be borne in mind that there was a heavy shortage in the corn crop last year, and consequently the farmers did not raise so many hives as usual for the market. In any event there is no reason for any excitement over the matter. We have only to conserve the pastures of the west that are now being ruined and provide for irrigation of the arid lands to provide us with a supply of beef ample for our own needs and extensive export for generations to come.—San Francisco Call.

TRUSTS AND COMBINATIONS.

Soon "the party" will be openly defending and championing trusts, instead of pretending to oppose the destruction of silver as standard money and then flopped over as soon as it felt able to throw off the mask. The advance guard are already at work and have organized a society called "United States Export Association," with headquarters in New York. They are sending out literature to the papers all over the country and asking them to publish it, defending "Trusts and Combinations" and giving Rev. Sam Jones as an authority to prove that trusts are just the thing to make the people happy and prosperous. They also quote the Washington Post in support of trusts. In a little while any person who refuses to support the trusts will be bitterly denounced and slandered by the organs as having "left the party" that made them, and all that sort of thing. Nobody but a trust magnate or defender will be a "good republican."—Oregon State Journal.

In Girlhood

There is a great need of motherly watchfulness and care. A growing girl needs all her strength, and if she is nervous and melancholy, and loses appetite there is surely something wrong. This is especially true as the young girl approaches that important period of change when the womanly function is established. Timely care and proper treatment at this period may save much after suffering.

The best medicine for young girls who are nervous, melancholy, and irregular of appetite, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures nervousness, dizziness, and melancholy, promotes the appetite, and gives the body robust health. There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

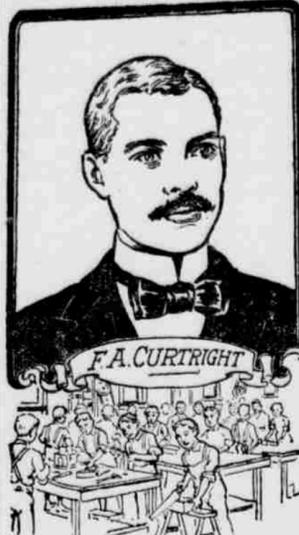

"My daughter was troubled with dizziness and constipation and was very nervous for five years," writes Mrs. M. Carter, of 1545 4th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. "I tried several doctors but they gave her no relief. At times she would eat nothing, had green and purple circles under her eyes, and was melancholy. A woman friend of mine told me to try your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets' which I did. After taking one bottle of each she began to improve and is still improving. People said she looked as though she were going into a decline. She is twelve years old. There are no circles around her eyes now and she is healthy and robust, eats as much as any child, and is growing fatter every day."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets regulate the bowels.

A COLLEGE PROFESSOR.

One of Georgia's Useful Educators is Grateful For What Pe-ru-na is Doing For Suffering Humanity.

F. A. Curtright, A. B., Principal of the Georgia Normal and Industrial Institute, and editor and proprietor of the "Georgia Helping Hand" writes the following glowing words concerning Peruna, and its efficacy in the cure of catarrh.

He says: "I was induced to try Peruna by the advice of a friend, and certainly believe that suffering humanity would be relieved if they only gave Peruna a fair trial. Would that I could frame words sufficient to express my gratitude for the benefits derived from its use."—F. A. CURTRIGHT, Greensboro, Ga.

Hon. W. N. Roach, United States Senator from North Dakota, in a letter written from Larimore, North Dakota, says:

"Persuaded by a friend, I have used Peruna as a tonic, and am glad to testify that it has greatly helped me in strength, vigor and appetite. I have been advised by friends that it is remarkably efficacious as a cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh."—W. N. Roach.

Senator Roach's wife recommends Peruna also. She says: "I can cheerfully recommend your excellent remedy, Peruna. Indeed, I know of no other remedy as good as yours. It is a grand tonic, and many of my friends have used it for catarrh with good results."—Mrs. W. N. Roach.

The most common phases of summer catarrh are catarrh of the stomach and bowels. Peruna is a specific for summer catarrh.

Mr. Wm. Hebley, Duquesne, Pa., writes:—"I am cured of catarrh of the stomach of two years standing. I had it so bad that I could not eat anything but milk. I doctored with several doctors and they could give me relief for a short time only. I saw Peruna recommended and thought I would try it, and I now think I am cured of catarrh. I have worked two months and did not lose a day."—Wm. Hebley.

Mr. Moses F. Merrill, Columbus, Cherokee Co., Kansas, Rural Route No. 3, writes:

"I had been troubled with systemic catarrh, which affected the lower bowels especially. I was troubled with running off of the bowels and troublesome catarrh of the bronchial tubes which caused spitting of thick mucus. Since taking Peruna my improvement has been wonderful. My bowels are regular as clock-work. I can now eat like other people and my vitals digest."—Moses F. Merrill.

Hon. Willis Brewer, Representative in Congress from Alabama, writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman:

House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.
Gentlemen—"I have used one bottle of Peruna for lassitude, and I take pleasure in recommending it to those who need a good remedy. As a tonic it is excellent. In the short time I have used it has done me a great deal of good."—Willis Brewer.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.
