THAT ENGLISH CAPTAIN.

History repeats itself. The story of the boy who stood upon the burning deck until he was stricken down by the flames has been eloquently told in verse. The imagination colored that story with such effect devil. Its skirts are getting clean. that it is stamped upon the memories of young and old.

A repetition of that story has just occurred in connection with the terrible disaster at St. Pierre. It is the story of how that English captain · steered his ship Roddam to safety and escaped out of the rain of fire from Mount Pelee.

The Roddam had barely cast ancity in flames and the shipping in the they are lacking in spirit and action those who have had the same expeharbor ablaze. Before his order to that should inspire a democratic slip the cable could be executed, the democratic party flames were upon his ship and the crew in a state of panic.

before his eyes like gnats in a flame, others sought safety in her Hanna and his methods; he knows hold, but that English captain never the republican party and its mafaltered, but stuck to duty, and with chine-like workings, better than Hanthe aid of the engineers, who were protected by her iron sides, steered helmsman! her straight to sea, out of the jaws of the hell of ount Pelee.

Flames were all around him, for at his post, suffering the torture of the damned as the skin was burned from his hands and his clothes were constantly on fire. He reached safety with his ship and those on board who had found protection below. Those remaining on deck to share the fortunes of that brave captain all perished. He alone, that helmsman, survived, but he had to almost eat fire in doing it!

This is a sequel to the story of Casabianca, and a fine sequal it is Some one will rise to the occasion and record it with such eloquence over Martinique.

But the democratic party needs a helmsman. It had Brother Jones, of Arkansas for a term of years, a good man but he was not fit. The stuff was not in him to match and outmatch Mark Hanna. To pit Jones THE against Hanna was to pit Br'er Rabbit against Br'er Fox. Uncle Remus Mrs. Eckis Stevenson of Salt can appreciate the comparison.

With Tom Johnson at the helm of the democratic party it would become a real party of the people, a the rain of fire had signified the clean implement with which the wood work of his ship, but he coolly voice of the people would be law faced the raging element, remained in every nook and corner of the land! Others would make the democratic party as much alike the republican party as one blackeye pea is alike another. But Tom Johnson would make it different, so much so, that what a human eye is to a burnt hole in a blanket the democracy under Tom Johnson would be to the republican party! That's the party the people want-a party really of the people.

SITUATION IN MULTNOMAH.

Portland, May 14.-The situation in Multnomah county is strengthening and word painting as that Captain every day. The forces are being lined Hero's act deserves and inspires! His up solidly and we note no losses of name is even not known to the thou. any consequence. The same is true sands that applaud him for the news cally no exception. Wherever there in all parts of the state, with practidispatches failed to mention it, but may have been losses, there have It will be known and for all time to been gains more than offsetting come. It is written with fire, in the them. I believe that today, in Oreblood and torture of the thousands gon, a republican state, having upwho perished on that dreadful day Chamberlain has the majority of in the flaming torrents that poured votes and that it is only necessary for his supporters to hold their ground in order to make him the next governor. This is not to say that efforts shall cease, or can be allowed to cease. It is appropriate here to The democratic party has a fu. Quote that trite saying that eternal ture! Oh, if it only would be in vigilance is the price of liberty and to record that in this instance eterwould only undertake the real work Mr. Chamberlain is making a magnificent campaign. He is gaining votes every day. His campaign is unique. It is the rule that those of the dominant party usually to take the lead, but in this case the oppositite has been true. Mr. Chamberlain has gone before the people of the state with a definitely outlined program and has told the voters explicitly what he proposes and promises to do. Furthermore, he has opened the book in which is written the record of his official life, and he has had no hesitancy in pointing with pride to that record as an earnest of what he expects to do in the future. This is having good effect and people are turning out en masse everywhere to listen to his arguments." He makes his fight upon state issues, but he has not hesitated to discuss other matters, such as the trusts and the Philippines. I have been with him during a part of his canvass and I can personally testify that he is enthusfastically-received by the people with whom he lived and whom he served in various positions of trust. A man who would go into that region to question his official integrity would last about as long as a snow ball in that other country over which the theologians quarrel,

Mr. Chamberlain will soon visit Eastern Oregon, and I am sure that the people of Umatilla county will give him a splendid reception. He is worthy of it. If anyone has a desire to hear discussions of the issues of the day, he should hear George E. Chamberlain when he speaks in that section. He has some things to say that will interest the taxpavers who bear the burden of state government. His official record is such as to warrant the belief that he will carry into effect as governor of Oregon all that he promises upon the stump. He has done this as district attorney in the old third judicial district, as a attorney for Multnomah county. Having in each instance more than realized his every promise, having having made his office a more efficient instrument for the securing of good government and the saving of expense than he led the voters to pected as governor of Oregon to repeat his previous performances.

Again, let it be stated that our advices are encouraging and that we believe Mr. Chamberlain will be JOHN E. LATHROP.

rience. Hundreds of dollars went to the doctor and the druggist. I was simply a walking medicine chest and a phyical wreck. My sister residing in Ohio wrote me that she had been cured womb trouble by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and advised me to try it. I then discontinued all other medicines and gave your Vegetable Compound a thorough trial. Within four weeks nearly all pain had left me; I rarely had headaches, and my nerves were in a much better condition, and I was cured in three months, and this avoided terrible surgical operation." - Mrs. ECKIS STEVENSON, 250 So.
