HOW TO DO THINGS.

One Must Always Keep His Eye on the Thing to Be Done.

An originator and a man of unique ideas, Lincoln J. Carter is perhaps unlike any other person in the theatrical world. Novel, to the extreme, is the manner in which he secured, or rather engaged, a general manager for his many attractions.

Mr. Carter has always argued, "if you want to do anything, start out and do it, always keeping your mind on the thing to be done." Gathering several applicants in his private office he abruptly broke the silence with, "Good morning, gentlemen. I want to tell you a little story." Proceeding, Mr. Carter related the following incident: "A little squirrel sitting on a tree contentedly cracking nuts, when a hunter passed that way, seeing the little animal, raised his gun to his shoulder and fired. The gun missed fire and the squirrel scampered down the tree and into a barn filled with hay and straw, with the hunter in hot pursuit. In the barn were some boys who had carelessly thrown a lighted match in the straw and the flames soon destroyed the barn and all its contents." Hesitating for a moment, Mr. Carter asked the assembled managers what they thought of his story. One ventured to question, "was there any insurance on his barn?" Another asked "were the boys burned?" and so until it came to John B. Hogan,

LEWIS AND CLARKE

COMMITTEE OF PORTLAND MEN IN PENDLETON.

To Discuss the 1905 Exposition and Centennial in Portland—Meeting at Commercial Association Rooms—All Are Invited.

There arrived in Pendleton this morning F. E. Beach, president of the Portland Board of Trade; E. W. Rowe, mayor of Portland; J. M. Long, city attorney of Portland; A. J. Capron, of the Chamber of Commerce committee.

These gentlemen are here in the interests of the Lewis and Clark centennial, to create an interest in Pendleton in the exposition and to secure the support and co-operation of this part of the state.

This evening at the Commercial Association rooms there will be a meeting of the business men and property owners of Pendleton to discuss the great fair that is to come off in Portland in 1905, which means so much to the Pacific Northwest.

These gentlemen were interviewed by an East Oregonian representative. J. M. Long, as spokesman, said:

"Double the population of every county in the state of Oregon by the closing of 1905, is what we have set about to do. How are we going to do it? We answer by the 1905 fair. Each county may advertise as much as she wishes, yet the result is unsatisfactory for the want of concentration. Let every part of the state join with us, and by united and concerted effort reach the million mark in population, rather than undertake to scatter.

"We must adjust ourselves to changed conditions, rather than to continue our old methods, which have been so fruitless. We have wheat, wool, minerals, fruit, timber, climate, rail and ocean transportation equal, if not better, than any other country under the sun.

The Northwest states can support a population equal to that of the British Isles. Why should we not let the world know something about this great country?

The legislatures of all the Northwest states and British Columbia will join with us. Are we to help ourselves? We say yes. People in the east are restive. All we have to do is to call their attention to what we have and our reward will be many fold.

"Umatilla county is one of the finest wheat, fruit and stock counties in the world. Pendleton is recognized as having as many enterprising citizens as any other city in the state. Join with us and no community will reap a greater benefit. We have great confidence in your business sagacity. You never have let a good thing pass and we do not believe you will let this superb opportunity to benefit your county go by. We want you to appoint a live committee. We want you represented on our board of directors. We have a common purpose to subservise. If you will help Portland we can bring a million people to the state and show them something they have never yet seen—the best state, country and people in the Union."

The meeting at the Commercial Association rooms this evening will open at 8 o'clock. Every business, professional and workingman, property owner, all are invited and will be made welcome, as the matter under consideration is as much interest to one citizen as the other.

PERSONAL MENTION

G. Stansberry, of Echo, is registered at Hotel St. George.

Clem Marker, of Baker City, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Katie Hacker.

James A. Howard leaves for Portland on tonight's train on a business trip.

C. W. Gates, a prominent business man of Athena, spent Tuesday night in Pendleton.

Collin V. Dymont, Spokesman-Review correspondent, spent Tuesday night in town.

R. B. Stanfield and Harry Rogers, prominent Butter creek stockmen, were in town Tuesday.

Mrs. W. C. Shults, of Spokane, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Nye, at their home on the corner of Water and College streets.

Dan Thompson is in town from Palouse, looking over the country for a location. He is an old friend of E. M. Lyons, of the St. Joe store.

T. T. Nelson, the blacksmith, has moved his residence, on West Court street, back and is going to build a neat new residence in its place.

Jim Foley, who was employed with the Pendleton baseball team during the early practicing months, is in La Grande, reported to be dangerously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Dillon, of Echo, and Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Miller, and Earl Morrow, of Portland, are being entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Nye.

W. A. McGehe, of Corvallis, was the guest of Otis Loveridge, Tuesday, on his way home from Idaho. Mr. McGehe is a pioneer of Umatilla county, having taught school at different places in the county more than 220 years ago.

C. C. Hendricks has the stone foundation finished for his new residence, on the corner of Court and Cosbie streets, and will commence erecting the house in a few days.

The Academy students and faculty are preparing to take a day off, next Saturday, driving out to the picnic grounds, east of the agency, to spend the day among the hills and trees.

The friends of George Lash, who has been ill since last winter, have made up a purse of $150 for him and he will leave on this evening's train for Phoenix, Ariz., in the hopes of regaining his health.

Ed Dupuis has accepted the position as pitcher with the Pomeroy baseball team and will leave for that place Friday. Mr. Dupuis is hard to beat at twirling the ball and he will undoubtedly give satisfaction.

William Sturgis arrived home Tuesday evening from Berkeley, Cal., where he has been attending school. Mr. Sturgis stopped several days in Portland. He will spend the summer vacation months at home.

Ralph Folsom, of the furniture firm of Baker & Folsom, is quite ill at his home on Bush street, on the north side of the river. His condition is much improved today. He was attacked with severe cramps in the stomach.

Mrs. J. P. Faul, of Baker City, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. P. Bushee, on Thompson street. Mrs. Faul is on her way home from New York, where she spent the winter. She will remain here until the last of the week.

Mrs. Wesley Matlock expects to leave on the 22d for her old home in Missouri, to spend the summer. Mr. Matlock will leave at the same time for Alaska, where he will spend the summer, looking after his mining and business interests.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Morgan arrived in Pendleton this morning from Portland, on a visit to friends at Pendleton and Weston. They left on the Walla Walla train for Weston, stopping at Pendleton on their return. Mr. Morgan was chief of police of Pendleton years ago.

Thomas Scott gave a very delightful social party at his home, on East Court street, Tuesday night, in honor of Miss Ethel Frances, of Hartford, Conn. Music, dancing and cards were the features of the entertainment. Refreshments were served. Quite a number of Tom's friends were present.

M. C. Seek and G. F. Slatter, of Walla Walla and Marcella, and Jerry Gagnon, of Athena, are on their way by pack train for Thunder Mountain. They crossed the Blue Mountains Saturday. Augustus Benoit, also of Athena, is avant courier for the party. At La Grande the party were photographed.

D. Kemler, accompanied by W. R. Dibblee, of Walla Walla, returned last evening from Portland, where the latter has been receiving treatment for his eyes. Mr. Dibblee joins his wife here, she having been the guest of her mother, Mrs. Kemler, and this morning they left for their home at Walla Walla.

Gurney Hays has accepted the position of advance agent for the "Too Rich to Marry" company, and left Monday night on his duties. Mr. Hays has been stage manager at the Frazier for the past seven years. While his many friends will regret to know of his departure, they will wish him unbounded success. Manager J. B. Welch has not yet decided who will take Mr. Hays' place, but he expects to secure a man from Baker City.
