WOMAN'S WORLD

SHIRT WAISTS OUT IN GLORY AND VARIETY.

Fluffiness is the Rule and Chiffon is Plentifully Used in Making Summer Neckwear; Variety of Belts and Buckles.

New York, May 17.—The wide latitude allowed in details of dress this year makes it possible to affect a very choice appearance through the medium of neckwear. Never before has dame Fashion so accommodated her taste to that of her disciples. Individuality is the goal toward which the energies of the well-dressed woman are concentrated and it possible for her to gain this end through Puritanical simplicity or extravagant elaboration.

Shirt waists are out in all their glory and variety. The tailor-made design is in great demand for two reasons; it is extremely smart in cut and finish, and is adapted to so many different modes of finish about the neck. Most recently it is shown with what is termed the belt stock. This stock is composed of narrow bands of ribbon or taffeta arranged upon a wired frame, pointed back and front and graduated until it is very narrow and high, reaching almost to the ears. The collar is not warm, as the description might suggest, because only enough bones are used to hold it aright and the ribbon bands are stitched over the sheerest of foundations.

It has the advantage of being soft in pouch and effect, and there being no stiff lining, one avoids the inevitable marks of the tall linen collar.

No matter how plain the stock it may be completed at the front or back with a bunch of daintiness in the form of a tulle rosette. For ties and cravats, fluffiness is the rule and chiffon is plentifully used in making summer neckwear. A charming feature of this year's creations is that they are so distinctly feminine. Every touch of "mannish" has been eliminated. The short, stiff bow which finished the front of neckties last season is displaced this year by long streamers depending from big bows and known as the coronation tie.

The Shape of Stocks.

Stocks are seen in the most unexpected of shapes. One that would attract a second notice anywhere is clerical in cut, being in form similar to the neckpiece worn by an abbe. It is carried out in white pique, with a double row of stitching in colors, between the lines of which French dots are embroidered. White and green is one of the freshest combinations of the moment and dashed with a bit of black is quite the prettiest design a body could select.

Among the expensive models are stocks of Irish lace for bodices and blouses for dressy wear. These are finished with four-in-hands of silk crepe de chine edged with lace and caught with jewelled pins.

In the last of collars that may be laundered are very dainty stocks of lawn, mull and madras. These are wound around the throat, the ends crossed behind, then brought back and pinned across the front, having lace inserted and bordered lapnet ends.

Almost any shirt waist that lends a broad effect to the shoulders is fashionable. The summer girl of 1902 is athletic and the result of her training is shown in the cut of her gowns. To be ultra-smart it is necessary that the contour of the figure be well-defined. The popularity of the broad-shouldered Gibson waist is due to the fact that it meets these demands, combining them with artistic effect.

Belts and Buckles.

The importance of belts as accessories of the shirt waist is only second to that of stocks. There is positively no limit placed upon the different varieties of belts and buckles. Probably the most attractive class of the moment is the harness buckle in burnished silver, gilt or enamel. Rivalling the harness is the oval shaped buckle made in any of the three materials. Many of the enamelled buckles are in turquoise blue and dull green, but by far the more pleasing and summery are those of white. These are worn with soft crush belts of crepe de chine or Liberty satin ribbon.

Bleached alligator skin is a late novelty for belts and this is finished with elaborate buckles which exemplify the use of coloring on gold.

As spring recedes and summer draws near some delightfully simple lawn frocks are shown. Many of the daintiest have not a thread of trimming other than the fabric out of which the dress is fashioned. One of the newest treatments, is to have the skirt tucked in such a fashion that sharply pointed scallops are simulated. The tucks have their greatest length at the knees and are graduated so decidedly that the short tucks are terminated as high up as the hips.

The fashion of shirring skirts of diaphanous materials over the hips will ever be popular for the simple reason that it is youthful and graceful. Certainly it is revived this year with a furore. Worn by a tall, slender woman nothing could be more pleasing or effective. The sheer, pure white linen lawns with just a suggestion of green, with probably a dash of pink or blue here and there are inextinguishable and in many cases are made up without and lining.

der woman nothing could be more pleasing or effective. The sheer, pure white linen lawns with just a suggestion of green, with probably a dash of pink or blue here and there are inextinguishable and in many cases are made up without and lining.

All About Frocks.

In one instance such a frock has a tucked blouse which sags perceptibly over the belt-line all around the figure. The tucks describe the pointed scallops before referred to, the longest reaching quite to the belt at the front, the shortest being bust-high. The sleeves are tucked in the same manner and confined at the wrist by a band of tucked linen.

Very pretty belts confine the bodices of summer gowns composed of alternate bands of lace and ribbon. The latter material is thin and very shimmering. A novel finish for such a belt is two large rosettes of plain ribbon attached to the end of the streamers, though at the waist the ribbon is simply slipped through a gold ring in the most unaffected way.

All white mull and silk muslin frocks are daintily trimmed with rose of chiffon, embedded in soft little cushion of soft silk. These are applied over the entire skirt and bodice. The effect is chic and were it not for the immense amount of handwork required in making the flowers and their settings the fashions would be one of the least expensive ones of the year. A silken lining, too would be an item of expense, but this is not a necessity, as some of the prettiest designs of the year are built upon foundations of ordinary white lawn.

Very appropriate for summer wear are the washable kid gloves lately introduced for the outgoing girl. These are doubly welcome on account of being perspiration-proof. They are of glace kid and come in a wide variety of light shades. Those who have a preference for combinations will find their taste appealed to effectively in the black gloves stitched with white and fastened with one conspicuously big pearl button.

It is no longer a novelty to have the monogram engraved upon the glove buttons, but it is a new and decidedly smart to have the clasps of elbow length gloves composed of tiny rings of dull gold burnished silver into which are set circles of pearl or ivory painted with miniatures of beautiful paintings by any or several of the masters. The vogue is costly but quite the most exclusive innovation of the season in this direction.

Mrs. Kate Berg, Secretary Ladies' Auxiliary of Knights of Pythias, No. 58, Commercial Hotel, Minneapolis, Minn., After Five Years Suffering Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Whatever virtue there is in medicine seems to be concentrated in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for five years with profuse and painful menstruation until I lost flesh and strength, and life had no charms for me.

Only three bottles of your Vegetable Compound cured me, I became regular, without any pains, and hardly know when I am sick.

Some of my friends who have used your Compound for uterine and ovarian troubles all have the same good word to say for it, and bless the day they first found it."—MRS. KATE BERG.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address Lynn, Mass.

MISS ROSE OWENS,

No. 720 Seventeenth St., WASHINGTON, D. C.

"If every suffering woman has the same experience with Wine of Cardui that I had, your medicine will be most popular. About a year ago I began to have a worn out tired feeling with lassitude, pains in the back and head which kept increasing every month. I felt that I needed something, but to get the right medicine was the trouble. I finally decided on your Wine of Cardui and only needed to take three bottles when I was fully recovered."

Miss Rose Owens.

If you are a suffering woman we would say to you that Wine of Cardui seldom fails to completely cure any case of female ills. We say emphatically, it never fails to benefit. Every day hundreds of sufferers are writing to our Ladies' Advisory Department. The letters are opened by persons competent to give advice. Mrs. Jones was cured by following the advice which was freely given her by the Ladies' Advisory Department. Miss Owens was cured without advice by just buying a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from her druggist and taking this great medicine in the privacy of her home. No doctor's examination, treatment or advice is necessary. You have read what these two cured women have written. Is this not enough to lead you to determine to be rid of suffering?

August 13, 1900, Mrs. W. H. Jones, of Cameron, Mo., writes:

"I suffered terribly at monthly periods for three years. I would sometimes go for seven months with no flow at all. Now I have my health back again and am expecting to be confined in January. I cannot praise your medicine enough."
