FREE MAIL DELIVERY.

Preparations Being Made to Inaugurate the Service in Pendleton.

The mail boxes and carrier pouches have arrived for the free mail delivery and are now in the local post-office awaiting the arrival of a government official from San Francisco, who will help to locate the mail boxes in the different parts of the city to the convenience of the citizens.

There are 12 of these boxes, large and small. The large ones will be used along Main and Court streets, and the smaller ones are for the resident portion of the town. These boxes are made of iron and the posts will also be of iron. It is not yet known where the boxes will be placed, but one is expected to be at the corner of each street crossing Main one at the corner of Johnson and Court and one near Byers' mill.

The examinations for two carriers and one sub will be made the 24th instant. When this is started it will cut off the work at the local office, as only one delivery clerk will be needed to wait on those who get their mail at the delivery windows. Then the need for more postoffice room and boxes will be met.

"THE WAIFS" AT THE FRAZER.

The Play Appreciated by the Small Audience Present.

Lincoln J. Carter's play, entitled "Two Little Waifs," at Frazer's opera house last night was not greeted with the house that the production deserved. This is one of Mr. Carter's best plays and the company that is playing it is a strong one. The only feature that mars the play is the long and tiresome waits between acts. This cannot very well be helped, as it takes some time to place the scenery that is used.

The feature of the play last night that took best with the small audience was the singing by little Stanley and Lolita Lamb. They are clever children and will make a hit wherever they go. The members of the company played their respective parts well and the scenery was very elaborate and there were many pretty effects.

A PIONEER DEAD.

The Death of Edwin R. Collins at His Home in Walla Walla.

Walla Walla, May 17.—Edwin R. Collins, father of Edwin Collins, news editor of the Morning Union, of this city, died at his home in this city Wednesday night, about 10:30 o'clock, aged 70 years. Rheumatism of the heart was the immediate cause of his death. Mr. Collins was a member of the Grand Army and the Odd Fellows. He was a pioneer of the Northwest and had resided in Walla Walla for many years. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the family residence, Rev. Andreas Bard, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, officiating.

Suit for Indian Land.

A suit was commenced in the circuit court Friday by Ta-wat-toy, an Indian, against Ka-ka-mas, an Indian, and Charles Wilkins, as United States Indian agent, to recover the title and possession of 80 acres of allotted Indian land on the Umatilla reservation. This land belonged to Little Loyd, who died in Montana in 1897, and Ta-wat-toy is the husband of Little Loyd and only heir. Ka-ka-mas claims to be the heir of the deceased and claims the right to the land which he has had possession of since the death of Little Loyd. Plaintiff now prays that the court award him possession of this land and that he be declared sole heir to the same. Bean & Lowell are plaintiff's attorneys.

At St. Olaf College.

Northfield, Minn., May 17.—The corner stone of the new library of St. Olaf college, presented by Consul Hall Steenland of Madison, Wis., was laid today with interesting ceremonies. It was a gala day for the college. Alumni and friends of the institution were present from all parts of the northwest. The day was appropriately chosen, it being the eighty-eighth anniversary of Norwegian independence and the college being supported wholly by Lutherans of that nationality.

It is reported from the French Island of Guadeloupe, that pumice stone in great quantities is floating in the sea there and the British island of Dominica and that new stone has been cast upon the beaches of these islands.

GUS BYERS' HOUSE BURNED

A NEW RESIDENCE, IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION.

The Fire Is Thought to Have Been of Incendiary Origin—Loss is $1,100, Insured for That Amount by A. C. Haley, Contractor.

Gus Byers' new house, which was almost completed on East Court street, burned to the ground between 11 and 12 o'clock Friday night, and the origin of the fire is unknown.

This was a cozy two-story residence which Mr. Byers was having erected for a home, and A. C. Haley was the contractor. The carpenter work would have been completed to day and the paper hanging, which was being done by C. C. Sharp, was completed and one coat of paint had been put on the inside and the outside was ready for the painters. The house would have been turned over to Mr. Byers in a few days.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, but it has much the resemblance of incendiarism. Some thought it might have been the work of some careless cigarette smoker, who had thrown a cigarette in the shavings, while others advance the idea that some boys had perhaps gone up to the camp meeting during the evening and went into the house to get out of the rain and had dropped fire from a cigar or cigarette, but this could not have been done, as all of the doors and windows were securely locked and there was no place where any one could have gained admittance to the building, consequently the only conclusion that can be reached is that it was deliberately set on fire by some one.

The fire was discovered by Lester Cronin, who turned in the alarm, but when the fire boys reached the scene the house was all ablaze and there was no saving of any portion of it.

A. C. Haley, the contractor, had the house insured for $1,100, which was the builders' contract price, but it cannot be replaced as building material has advanced since construction began. Work will commence at once to rebuild the house.

THE STRIKING COAL MINERS

HOPE TO HAVE BITUMINOUS COAL MINERS STRIKE TOO.

In That Event the Strikers Would Number 500,000 and the Coal Trust Would Be Powerless Against Them.

Hazleton, Pa., May 17.—The hope that 300,000 union bituminous miners of the country will consent to join the ranks of the striking anthracite men is the rock upon which the leaders of the strike are building a vision of victory today. To do this, the bituminous men would have to break the yearly contract, which they secured after hard labor, and which anthracite men are now trying to effect for themselves. President Mitchell refused to discuss the probability or the possibility of a soft coal strike. No time or place is yet set for the national convention, but it is likely to be held at Indianapolis. The situation this morning remains quiet.

In an address before the diocesan convention of the New Jersey Episcopal church, Bishop Scarborough called attention to the growing practice of women appearing hatless in public places. It had been extended to attendances at divine worship, which, he thought, was not a consistent practice, and he hoped it would be discontinued.
