MANGE ON RANGE

GREAT DEAL OF THE DISEASE REPORTED TO EXIST.

Is Now Spreading Off the Indian Reservation and Threatens to Involve All the Range Horses of Eastern Oregon.

There is a great deal of mange among the horses of the Umatilla Indian reservation and a fear of the malady becoming quite general. This disease has been on the reservation for several years but to a great extent until recently. Now it has such a hold that it is causing considerable alarm and what the outcome will be cannot be told, but unless something is done and done at once there will be no stopping it until it will endanger the horse industry of Eastern Oregon.

This disease is not only confined to the reservation and the horses belonging to the Indians, but has spread off the reserve and complaint is coming from other quarters in the county. A remonstrance has been sent to the Indian agent and last fall Dr. M. S. Lantz began a series of experiments on animals to see if something could be found that would cure the disease. These experiments proved satisfactory as far as they went, but when the cold winter weather came on the work was dropped until spring. This has again been taken up and the doctor has spent quite a little of his time recently on the reserve testing his remedy, but so far he has not had time to prove whether or not it would bring satisfactory results.

While this disease has been known by Indian Agent Wilkins to be on the reserve for some time and a few complaints have been made to him and the authorities, he has not insisted on having the infected animals killed only in a few instances, hoping to find a remedy for the disease, because he was reluctant to sacrifice the lives of the animals of his wards. Now that the matter has gone so far the Oregon Domestic Animal Commission has taken it up and succeeded in interesting those representing the state at the national capital and an early action will probably be taken. Acting Commissioner of Indian Affairs A. C. Towner, has written Oregon's Senator Mitchell the following letter regarding the matter:

Relative to the existence of mange among the Indian horses on the Umatilla reservation, you are informed that the matter of the existence of mange among Indian horses of the Umatilla agency is at present under investigation by the agricultural department, with a view of taking measures for eradication. In this connection you are advised that every effort possible on the part of this office will be taken to eradicate this disease among the horses of the Indians of the Umatilla reservation, and the agent will be expected to confer with, and act in conjunction with, the inspectors of the agricultural department, to the end that the disease may be blotted out.

In a letter to Charles Wilkins, Indian agent at the Umatilla reservation, the acting inspector has the following to say:

"The matter has been taken in hand by the department of agriculture, which department, it seems, has received several reports as to the existence of this skin disease among the horses on your reservation. It appears from the statement of the secretary of agriculture, that a preliminary investigation as to the nature of this disease has resulted in the discovery of the fact that said disease is of considerable gravity, and of a contagious character. The department proposes to send an inspector to make an investigation as to the extent of the existence of this disease among the horses on the Umatilla reservation, and the possible danger of its spreading to the horses owned by the whites throughout the state of Oregon. It is the wish of this office that you lend all possible aid to whoever the inspector may be, in carrying out the wishes of the agricultural department, in order that this disease may be blotted out, and wherever you find it necessary, you should at once take the necessary steps to kill the infected horses wherever you may find them. Of course, you will be expected to use due discretion in this matter, so as to avoid any unnecessary conflict with the Indians interested."

What Mange is.

Mange is an itch which attacks horses, cattle, hogs, dogs and other animals, and is caused by a small parasite which gets in the skin and causes scabs to form, the hide to get scaly and the hair to come out. The skin gets dry and harsh and rolls up in large rolls and there is no circulation through the pores after the disease gets a thorough hold on an animal. No successful remedy has ever been found and applied in this country, and when it gets a thorough foothold in a community it is hard to stamp out.

HINTS TO WOMEN.

ASPARAGUS SALAD.

Pare and cut into two-inch sized pieces one bunch of asparagus and boil it in salted water until tender, when done drain in a colander, and when cold pour the asparagus into a salad bowl. Dress it either with mayonnaise or pepper, salt, oil and vinegar.

DELICIOUS NUT CAKE.

Two-thirds cup butter, one cup sugar, three eggs, one cup milk, three cups flour, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, one cup nut kernels chopped. Blend in the order given, reserving the whites of the eggs to the last. Flour the nuts well and bake in flat loaves.

FOR THE ELDER SISTER.

Do not be ashamed of dusting the drawing room or darning your brother's socks. If you are musical, see to it that your performances are meritorious ere you get into the way of wearing out your brother's nerves evening after evening on the parlor piano. Some brothers are so self-sacrificing as to say they enjoy a sister's playing when in reality they do not.

A PRETTY HAIR ORNAMENT.

Perhaps one of the prettiest of the fallals is a wreath of enamel, the colors so delicately blended that while they attract the eyes they also seem to soothe them into regarding the beauty of the workman's art. Some of these wreaths have a diamond or bit of paste set in among the leaves, and the effect is considerably improved, for it looks as if a dew drop were glistening in the soft green.

COOKED IN SHELLS.

Fluted shells large enough to hold individual helping may now be bought at small price and will be found both useful and decorative. A set of six have been in use in a family for two years and are as strong as ever, although they cannot be said to be "to the manor born" as far as a hot oven goes. They may be used for a fish course or for an entrée; for the latter any bits of white meat will answer.

THE SHORT NECKED GIRL.

The slightly décolleté bodice is now one of the privileges of the short necked girl. She can adopt this deliciously cool, comfortable vogue with every impunity, proclaiming herself at once smart and thoroughly up to date.

Again, if fancy or needs dictate a collar then let her seen in the in the first place that the line at the base of the throat is carried as low as possible. Below a certain point it is impossible to go without wrinkles, but the actual mean can be very skillfully declined.

PICNIC CLOSED.

Pioneers' Picnic Is Now a Thing of the Past.

Weston, June 1.—The pioneers' picnic is now a thing of the past, and by Tuesday the big tent, the street stands and the merry-go-round will no longer obstruct our streets. Today was the greatest day so far as numbers are concerned. About 800 outsiders were present, and the casual observer noticed the most of them to be candidates. Any way, the politicians had the right of way and right well they used their privileges.

Three parties were represented, democratic, republican and prohibition, each speaker being allowed one hour. At 10 o'clock President Powers called the people in the assembly tent to order, and after a song by the Weston quartet, he introduced James A. Tate, who spoke for the prohibitionists. Each speaker was given the best of attention by the audience and whether they agreed with him or not, they encored him heartily.

In the afternoon Walter M. Pierce, joint candidate for state senator for Morrow, Union and Umatilla counties, spoke for the democrats, and Henry St. Rayner, of Portland, talked for the republicans.

Altogether, the picnic has been a success, although the weather has kept the attendance down to a smaller figure than was anticipated yet a fair crowd has been present every day. The following towns have been represented: La Grande, Pendleton, Adams, Helix, Medford, Freewater, Milton, Oregon, and Eureka and Walla Walla, Wash.

The officers for the coming year are: President, Richard Powers; secretary, L. S. Wood; treasurer, Robert Jamieson.
