FISTIC ENCOUNTER ON MAIN.

Sam Crowner and Ed Thresher Gave Spectators an Exhibition of Their Sparring Ability.

There was a little mix-up on Main street Friday evening between Sam Crowner and Ed Thresher, which resulted in Crowner getting a badly bruised caranium and the arrest of both, with a fine of $10 each from Judge McCourt. It is impossible to get on the "inside," but it seems that Crowner and Thresher, who are brothers-in-law, had been sparring at each other for some time and Crowner had been following Thresher around trying to get trouble. In the afternoon Crowner walked up behind Thresher and struck him on the side of the face. In the excitement of the moment Thresher forgot the teachings of the Bible, and instead of turning the other cheek, he turned and landed on Crowner, with the result that Crowner got the worst of the affair.

After hearing the full account of the fight Judge McCourt concluded that Thresher was not to blame and remitted his fine, but Crowner's $10 was placed in the city's coffers.
