CLUB NOTES.

Club Women Planning for a Field Day in Pendleton.

The club women are planning for a "Field Day" next Thursday afternoon, at the home of the state president, on Locust Hill. The delegates to the state and general biennials will give an account of those meetings. Members of out of town delegations, as well as the Pendleton delegates, will be present.

It is expected that some of the new state officers will be here, and it is hoped that every club woman in Pendleton will be present. If the weather is pleasant it will be an out door affair; if the clerk of the weather is unkind, there will still be room for all in doors.

The club journal of Portland comes out this month under new ownership and management. Mrs. Cleveland Rockwell, a well known and efficient club woman, is president of the board of directors. Mrs. J. B. Comstock and Mrs. Mabel Plowman are the editors. Mrs. Rockwell promises that the Journal will be published in the interests of the club work of the state and woman's work in general.

The board of the state federation voted to adopt the Journal for its official organ for one year, and Mrs. Wade, the state president, will have charge of the federation department, and official notices and federation news will appear in that department.

There will be an effort made this year to have a club column in one of the local papers in each town where a club exists. This is a regular feature of the work in nearly all of the states, and when well carried out is one of the best means to increase interest and develop the usefulness of women's clubs. There is a difference of opinion as to methods but it can well be demonstrated that open discussion through the press of the questions in which most club women are interested, is a good method.

Two well known Pendleton club women were chosen as chairmen of important committees at the first meeting of the state board last week—Mrs. John Halley, Jr., of the education committee, and Mrs. E. P. Marshall of the library committee. These ladies have proven their ability to do good work on these lines by their previous records as members of these committees.

Year book committees are busy now all over the state, and the coming year promises to be full of interest.

PENDLETON ENTERPRISE.

Several Pendletonians Embark in a Big Enterprise in Alaska.

Theron E. Fell, John R. Dodson, Walter P. Fell, formerly of Pendleton, and Arthur Babb, son of W. H. Babb, of Echo, left Seattle a few days ago for Alaska.

They go to the Tanana region to develop the placer mining property of the Mastodon Mining Company. During the past winter T. E. Fell drew plans for and has constructed the most complete outfit for placer mining ever shipped to Alaska or the Klondike. The company has one mile of claims up and down Mastodon creek, and the apparatus which they are taking will enable them to work out the entire pay streak very rapidly. The apparatus works somewhat on the principle of the bottomless steam shovel, combined with sluicing the dirt after it has been raised eighteen feet above the surface of the ground. The company owns the water rights extending from the foot of their holdings to the glacier at the head of Mastodon Gulch. The supply of water is unending.

In speaking to the matter to a newspaper man, Theron Fell said: "We worked under some difficulties in outfitting for our Alaskan trip. Being residents of Portland we desired to and did purchase our machinery and supplies at that point but in getting them shipped to the north we were compelled to send them by rail to Seattle and thence upon the steamer Ohio to St. Michaels, whence we will go up the Yukon to Circle City to be transported from that point by dog teams next winter. I visited Alaska last year and am satisfied that Portland could develop an immense trade with that great peninsula if she had the shipping facilities. I hope that Portland will not neglect this matter."

The King's Coronation.

The king's coronation promises to be the most elaborate and costly public function of modern times, and our country is to be represented by three statesmen selected by the president, who will represent our state army and navy. Many other people will also attend the ceremonies, who will take the ocean voyage principally as a means of improving their health. They will, however, obtain only temporary relief, and their old complaints will surely appear again when least expected. The best way to recover your health is by strengthening and restoring the stomach to its normal condition by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is a positive cure for loss of appetite, nervousness, insomnia, indigestion, dyspepsia and malaria. Try it.

After Seventy-five Years.

A visit to the old home is one of the most delightful experiences of old age. In New England more and more has been made each year of the feeling for the old homestead, and it is natural that the "old home" paper, the Youth's Companion, should participate in this renewal of "old home" acquaintances.

Recently the publishers of the Youth's Companion enjoyed a visit from one of their seventy-five-year subscribers, R. W. Peabody of Chicago, now ninety-one years old who had been spending a few weeks in New England. He is one of the few subscribers on record who has taken the Youth's Companion continuously since its first issue, April 17, 1827. The letter in which he sent his original subscription was one of the first he ever wrote. Through young manhood, maturity and old age, through times of war and times of peace, in New England and in the west, through all of the last seventy-five years of his life, his one companion has been the old Youth's Companion.

The growth of the Companion itself from the first small four-page issues to the great family paper of the present is merely typical of the growth of the country during Mr. Peabody's lifetime. The wonderful triumphs of steam, and electricity; the great inventions that have made the nineteenth century what it was, nearly all occurred in the period through which Mr. Peabody and the Youth's Companion have passed side by side.

The regard Mr. Peabody holds for the paper is not because of its age, but because the paper, although the same in purpose in its last issue as in that of seventy-five years ago, has kept pace with all the extraordinary developments of these three generations, and instead of growing old, has grown young in enterprise, in originality and in the ability to know and supply the literary wants of the American family.

Single Tax in England.

It is interesting to note the growth of ideas. Who would have believed twenty years ago that Henry George's idea of taxation of land values would develop as it has done in this country? It is the ground of quarrel between Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and Lord Rosebery. But the idea will triumph. Most of our great municipalities have declared in favor of it. The latest testimony to its vitality is contained in a very valuable report prepared for the London county council by a local government and taxation committee. The report recommends, amongst other things, that provision should be made for the accurate assessment of all lands recommended. Presently, we shall have the accurate assessment of all lands recommended, no doubt.—London New Age.

God Will Send the Bill to You. "Ez for war, I call it murder. There you have it plain and flat; I don't want to go no further Than my Testimony for that, God has said so plump and fairly— It's ez long ez it is broad— An' you've got to git up airly Ef you want to take in God.

"Tain't your appylets an' feathers Make the thing a bit more right; 'Tain't a-follerin' your bel-wethers Will excuse ye in His sight, Ef you take a sword and draw et, An' go stick a feller thru, Gov'ment ain't to answer fer it— God'll send the bill to you." — James Russell Lowell.

The homeliest man in Pendleton, as well as the handsomest, and others, are invited to call on any druggist and get free a trial bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs, a remedy that is guaranteed to cure and relieve all chronic and acute coughs, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. Price 25c and 50c. For sale by Tallman & Co., sole agents.

THE SAGACITY OF THE SEX.

"Now, dearest, may I go to your father and ask his consent?" "Wait until the end of the quarter, when my dressmaker's bill comes in. He will be more willing to part with me then."

FAULTY FOUNDATION.

Poor Work on Paine School Necessitates $11,000 of Repairs

Walla Walla, June 3.—It will cost $11,000 to repair the damage done the Paine school by faulty foundation work, so that the school directors will feel safe in opening it for occupancy this fall. The figures were made by Charles H. Bebb, of Seattle, an expert employed to ascertain the real condition of the building. After a thorough examination Mr. Bebb reported yesterday that the building can be made safe, but it will require work and much expense. The report of the expert was adopted and the work of repairing the building will begin as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made.

The Paine school was built 12 years ago at a cost of over $50,000. About a month ago it was discovered that the doors would not close and the building was sagging badly. Examination followed and the building was condemned as unsafe, school being closed. The foundation was found to be defective and water pipes had caused the earth to give way, cracking the walls badly in several places. The building will likely be ready for use this fall.
