JEFFERSON'S BIBLE

CONGRESS HAS ORDERED THE BOOK PRINTED

Chairman of the House Committee on Printing Explains the Character of the Work Prepared by Thomas Jefferson.

Representative Heatwole, chairman of the house committee on printing, was asked the nature of the publication known as the "Morals of Jesus of Nazareth," prepared by Thomas Jefferson which congress recently ordered printed. He was also asked why congress should be called upon to have the work printed. In answer to the inquiry Mr. Heatwole said:

"A great many years ago congress purchased all the books and manuscripts of Mr. Jefferson and placed them in the library of congress and congress has attempted the publication of all of the works of Mr. Jefferson complete. This little volume was not published at the time of the authorized printing of Mr. Jefferson's works by congress; it was not then in the collection. This book has been retained by Miss Randolph, who is at present living at or near Charlottesville, Va., and she now has in her possession the four original copies of the Bibles from which the clippings were made. The book, which has excited more or less discussion during the last few days, was sold to congress by Miss Randolph, and is now in the National Museum, where it is kept as a curiosity.

"Mr. Jefferson has been unjustly criticised in regard to this very book, and in justice to him it should be made public. Representative Lacey of Iowa about a year ago found this book under lock and key in the National Museum, and wrote a short article describing it, which was printed in many papers of the country, and the result is that frequent requests have been made for the publication of the book, these requests coming largely from the ministers of the gospel on the one hand and the people interested in the memory of Thomas Jefferson on the other hand. Accordingly Mr. Lacey introduced a resolution in the house providing for the publication of the work. Mr. Jefferson, in his late years, was in frequent correspondence with John Adams, and in that correspondence Mr. Jefferson suggested the preparation of the morals of the Christian religion, collated verbatim from the four evangelists, and in the most reverent spirit he has prepared this little book. The effect of it is most excellent, and is one of the most convincing proofs of the Christian religion. He has prepared this little compendium in Greek, Latin, French and English. He has not used a single syllable or pronunciation mark that is not taken literally from the gospel. He has done it entirely without any word of his own. No one that examines this little volume, whether he be saint or sinner will rise from his perusal without loftier ideas of the teachings of the Savior.

"There is but one copy of this book in the world, and that belongs to congress. The object of having it printed was to lay the book open to the world, where it can do nothing but good. There has been some misapprehension in some quarters as to the scope of this work, and any criticism upon its publication has been wholly upon lack of knowledge of what the book really contains.

The preachers of the country are flooding Mr. Lacey with requests for a copy of "Jefferson's Bible."

"There isn't even a semi-colon in it," explained Mr. Lacey, "that is not found in the Bible. The excuse for printing it now is that the government has printed all the works of Mr. Jefferson except this one, which was owned by private parties when the other books were re-published."

The government printing office will not complete the work for some time yet.—Washington Post.

"Cokes the Coal and Burns the Coke"—A Testimonial From Some of Pendleton's Business Citizens.

Mr. W. G. McPherson, Portland, Oregon.

Dear Sir:—After having given the "Perfect" Hot Air Blast Furnace a thorough test in the last two years, we can truthfully say that we have never seen its equal for economy. Your statement that it "cokes the coal and burns the coke," we have found to be correct, for we find that after burning a fire continuously, there is left only a very small quantity of ashes, and no clinkers, the ashes being as fine as flour. The splendid results we have attained with this furnace have truly surprised us. Yours very truly,
