WORLD OF FASHION

SUMMER WARDROBE CONTAINS MANY Dainties

This Year's Summer Girl Sweeter and Nicer Than Ever; What She is Going to Wear to Add to Her Attractiveness.

New York, June 7.—In selecting a wardrobe which will be en vogue for the entire season, the summer woman finds herself much in the same position as a good conversationist with the exception that the difficulty lies in knowing what not to select instead of what not to say; for indeed the summer wardrobe as it is spelled with a capital W contains dainties almost too numerous to mention.

To be sure it is a labor of love to tell of all the beautiful things designed for the season of nineteen hundred and two, nevertheless it is a despair because words are inadequate to express all that the eyes behold. Such a bewildering mass of lace and flounces; such a carnival of colors, all blending into one harmonious scheme, such intricacies of stitching and tuckings, it is too dazzling to think about except to grieve that the average-sized purse cannot boast them all.

This Year's Summer Girl.

Never was there a more transitory creature than the summer girl of this year. From morning until night she is continually changing and it is only the greatest wonder that she accomplishes so much and dresses so often within the short space of eighteen hours—for she has only six left for sleep when the full schedule for a day is carried out.

There is the outing skirt for the walk before breakfast. This, consisting of walking skirt, shirt waist and jacket is smarter than ever. The particular grace and prettiness of the latest walking skirt is generally derived from the complexity of its cutting—six gores and a front width is the statistic thereto belonging, and at the foot of each seam there is a subtle, slightly eave movement. The top fits plainly about the hips and is beautifully slim and natty. To be ultra-smart grey, stitched in dull black should be selected.

The shirt waist is a Gibson of white pique or madras drooping over a swell little patent leather belt and smartened at the neck with a broad four-in-hand tie of the same material. The jacket matches the skirt and shows the "slot-seam" effect. It reaches barely to the hips and is lined either with white or grey taffeta or satin.

The stockings are dreams of open work affairs, or they may be of lisse embroidered in French knots of a contrasting color. These show prettily above the low shoe of dull kid laced with strong strings of linen.

Laced Shoes With Strings.

There has been an effort in certain directions to fasten laced shoes with strings of a different color, but the vogue seems to have been transferred to the men, and is therefore tabooed by their sisters, for the masculine is strictly eliminated from the wardrobe of the ultra-chic summer woman.

After the morning constitutional, there is the dainty breakfast gown of lawn. White, simply made, or a delicate shade of blue is very desirable for this purpose and the simpler the design is the more comme il faut, for early morning is one of the few periods on the schedule of fashion when simplicity is the quintessence of fashion.

Following breakfast there is the hour in the boudoir preceding the seashore dip, or game of ping-pong, if one is in the country. Dressing sacsques of dimly trimmed with ribbon and ruffles edged with Valenciennes, are quite as smart as anything else one could select, though there is a decided leaning toward the more elegant effects in China silk. To those the latter, however, is only a matter of falling into the ranks of the luxury loving, yet this is a sine qua non of fashionable attire.

For the afternoon gown there are a number of designs, all smart and pretty. Foulard, crepe de chine mousseline, organdie, linen and chiffon all are in demand and as these may be made with or without lining, more latitude is allowed for economy.

The only discomforting thought in connection with these styles is that they are palpably perishable, but if a number of inexpensive designs are chosen instead of a few costly ones anxiety in this direction may easily be quieted.

The Afternoon Frock.

One very nice afternoon frock, however, must be included in the selection. Something out of the ordinary is an open silk net, of mair tint, with the skirt laid in finely platted tucks of graduated length and finished with a shaped flounce entirely applique, with a silk lace of the same tint, lace also trimming the front.

The bodice, a smart affair in white kilted chiffon has a dainty little bolero of the mair lace, held together by straps of cherry colored velvet embroidered with mair silk.

Completing the costume is a hat of mair tulle, showing a plentiful trimming of lace, with a bow of cherry colored velvet knotted under the brim and a natural color speckled paradise plume.

It is not a breach of confidence to state that many women who are having gowns designed with yoke-bodices are ordering the bodices and yokes detached, so that by omitting the latter one has a bewitching evening dress. The fact that afternoon toilettes this season boasts trains as long as many of the evening creations, makes them admirably suited to this dual purpose.

Striking Gowns.

Some very striking gowns, though are designed exclusively for evening wear. A notable example is a model of pale blue plisse chiffon, finished at the hem with many frills of black lace spungled with burnished steel paillettes; great medallions of this spangled lace connected by chains of velvet hold in place the plaited chiffon; and a dainty little frilled fichu drapes the low neck and is drawn up on one side under a choux and long ends of black velvet.

Exquisite evening gloves, or rather mits are being displayed in the fashionable shops of Gotham. These reach almost to the shoulder and are of silk embroidered or appliqueed with tiny designs of the most expensive laces. Shorter mits come for bodices made with elbow sleeves, which are also called opera sleeves, for some reason quite explicable outside the realms of dressmakerdom.

A few women in very exclusive circles of society in the metropolis have taken up the British fad of having the arm tattooed. Butterflies, lovers' knots and intricate Oriental outlines are stamped upon the flesh and all in tints in harmony with the pink and white of the flesh. The fad is a pretty one and most likely will be limited to the enjoyment of fashion's elect, as it is very expensive to have the work executed by skilled tattooists.

At the fashionable summer resorts the fashion, revived last summer, of wearing finely knitted shoulder shawls is steadily growing in favor and many exquisite effects in the shawls, to use the strictly modish term, are observed. In all cases they are made of silk and borders of rosebuds and leaves embroidered in raised design ornament many in addition to a deep silken fringe.

It is considered the correct thing also to have the fringe composed of two colors, that of the shawl with the predominating tint in the embroidered design.

MAUDE GRIFFIN.

Virulent Cancer Cured.

Startling proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by druggist G. W. Roberts, of Elizabeth, W. Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. They believed the case hopeless till he used Electric Bitters and applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, when treatment completely cured him. When Electric Bitters are used to expel bilious, kidney and microbe poisons at the same time this salve exerts its matchless healing power, blood diseases, skin eruptions, ulcers and sores vanish. Don't Use Too Many Words.

Multiplication of words increases the expense and decreases the effectiveness of advertising. Say what you have to say in as few words as it can be said—then stop. By so doing you can set what you want to say in larger type, so that it will command the attention of more readers than would a wordy discourse set in small type.

CATARRH

The treatment of Catarrh with antiseptic and astringent washes, lotions, salves, medicated tobacco and cigarettes or any external or local application, is just as senseless as would be kindling a fire on top of the pot to make it boil. True, these give temporary relief, but the cavities and passages of the head and the bronchial tubes soon fill up again with mucus.

Taking cold is the first step towards Catarrh, for it checks perspiration, and the poisonous acids and vapors which should pass off through the skin, are thrown back upon the mucous membrane or inner skin, producing inflammation and excessive flow of mucus, much of which is absorbed into the blood, and through the circulation reaches every part of the system, involving the Stomach, Kidneys and other parts of the body. When the disease assumes the dry form, the breath becomes exceedingly foul, blinding headaches are frequent, the eyes red, hearing affected and a constant ringing in the ears. No remedy that does not reach the polluted blood can cure Catarrh. S. S. S. expels from the circulation all offensive matter, and when rich, pure blood is again coursing through the body the mucous membranes become healthy and the skin active, all the disagreeable, painful symptoms disappear, and a permanent, thorough cure is effected.

SSS

S. S. S. being a strictly vegetable blood purifier does not derange the Stomach and digestion, but the appetite and general health rapidly improve under its tonic effects. Write us about your case and get the best medical advice free. Book on blood and skin diseases sent on application.
