HEART STIMULANT.

Cold Applications Superior to Drafts of Alcohol.

There is a deep seated belief amounting almost to a superstition that alcohol is a very important heart stimulant, especially when this organ is weak. Winternitz, the great authority on hydrotherapy in Germany, has often told us of the very great value of cold as a heart stimulant or tonic and that it is far superior to alcohol in this respect. Dr. Kellogg gives the method of application as follows:

"The application consists of a compress applied to the portion of the chest wall over the heart. This comprises the space bounded by the second rib above, the right border of the sternum, a line falling a half inch to the right of the nipple and the sixth rib below. The compress should be large enough to cover this space and to extend at least two inches outside of it. Ordinarily the best effects are produced by employing water at a temperature of about 60 degrees. The compress should be wrung moderately dry and should be very lightly covered. It is desirable that cooling by slow evaporation should be encouraged and be continued for some time."

Dr. Kellogg continues: "In Germany and France it is the custom to administer alcohol to the patient just before putting him in a cold bath. Some practitioners, as Winternitz, administer but a very small amount, a single mouthful of wine, for instance, while others give brandy in considerable quantities.

A few American practitioners employ brandy freely with the cold bath. The unwisdom of this practice will be apparent on due consideration of the following facts:

"One purpose in administering the cold bath is to secure a true stimulant or tonic effect by arousing the vital energies through excitation of the nerve centers. Alcohol was once supposed to be capable of effecting this and was used for this purpose in typhoid fever and various other morbid conditions accompanied by depression of the vital forces. At the present time, however, it is well known, and with practical unanimity admitted, that alcohol is neither a tonic nor a stimulant, but a narcotic; that it depresses and does not excite; that it lessens and does not increase the activity of the nerve centers, and that this is true of small as well as large doses, as has been shown by the researches of careful investigators."—Health.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Give the roots of trees a deep and broad bed of soil to start and grow in. In pruning the grape cut back to the third bud, as it is usually the first entirely perfect bud produced.

When winds prevail from any direction, as they usually do, lean the tree a little in that direction when setting out.

The essentials in making a good garden are rich soil, plenty of manure, good seeds, timely labor and a fair season.

Having the soil in a good tilth and planting in straight rows will save much labor in cultivating in the garden.

One of the best ways of getting rid of moss and lichens adhering to the bark of trees is an application of lime white-wash.

In taking wees from a nursery or forest, preserve all of the roots and fine rootlets possible. Dig out instead of pulling up the tree.

When the fruit or leaves of any plant or tree are eaten by insects of any kind, spraying in good season and sufficiently often is the safest and best remedy.

Gladolus bulbs should be planted in full sunshine, four or five inches deep and about one foot apart. Good soil, rather sandy, is best, avoiding manure, especially if fresh.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

The white skin that lines the shell of an egg is a useful application for a boil.

Cracks at the corners of the mouth are sometimes an indication of stomach disorders.

For inflamed eyelids or sore eyes add two teaspoonfuls of brandy to a cup of tea and bathe the eyes frequently with it.

To remove fish bones from the throat suck a lemon, which dissolves the mineral part of the bone and makes it quite flexible.

A mixture recommended as a strength renewer is made by simmering a quarter of an ounce of isinglass in a pint of new milk until it is reduced a third. Sweeten and flavor to taste.

To make a good and perfect chest protector take a piece of brown paper, lay on it half a sheet of wadding, and on top of this tuck a pocket handkerchief, and it is ready for use.

If you suffer from indigestion, try the effect of a teaspoonful of pure glycerin, taken after each meal. This will often cure an obstinate case of indigestion of long standing in about a fortnight. Mix the glycerin with a half wineglass of water.

be made as ornamental as useful. Two pieces of denim, 14 by 18 inches, are used for this bag. They are joined by a strip four inches wide. It takes five yards of ribbon for the binding and bows.

Hot Water a Beautifier.

We are not all beautiful—that is, we are not all built upon those lines of symmetrical beauty that form the accepted standard of artists. But there is another beauty, a beauty that grows in the cheek, sparkles in the eye and lends elasticity to every muscle of the body. It is the beauty of health.

Has your figure lost its graceful curves? Have wrinkles broken the smoothness of your brow? Are you sluggish of body and slow of brain? Are you out of sorts with everybody at times without apparent reason?

If so, ascribe it to your liver and be cured. The cure is a simple one. It will save you many aches and pains and useless frets and worries.

It consists simply of drinking pure water. Drink lots of it and drink it hot. This cure is available to all women, no matter what their station in life, and the prescription reads: One glass of hot water before retiring; one glass upon arising; one glass before each meal every day in the year.

To Women in Middle Life.

Women in middle life and from there onward should take more and more care of their personal appearance. As the eyes and complexion fade and the hair grows dull all the cunning secrets of the toilet become important. Happiness may depend upon the shade chosen for a dinner dress or the set of a hat upon the tresses that are just tinged with gray. The woman of forty needs all the help she can get from dress, and the woman of fifty needs it still more. When age comes at last, if age ever does come to the modern woman, the dress problem has become easy. Richness and elegance of material, plainness of cut and making—these are rules all old women should follow. If lack of money stand in the way, there are still plainness and neatness to be sure of, and the materials of a well made dress, after all, do not count so much. —Ada C.
