"SPOTTED FEVER"

DR. WILLIAM C. MAXEY DISCUSSES IT

The Tick Theory Does Not Hold; Nor Does the Contention that Snow Melting in Contact With Mineral Stand.

Dr. William C. Maxey, of Caldwell, Idaho, discusses the disease called spotted fever, which has been prevalent in parts of the country, in an article addressed to the Boise Statesman, follows:

"I saw the article in the Statesman from Dr. Chowling, of Montana, in regard to the cause and pathology of spotted fever in the inter-mountain country of the Pacific states.

"I wish to inform Dr. Chowling that spotted fever is not confined to the Bitter Root range of mountains. It exists in the spring months in eastern Oregon, northern Utah and western Montana. I have observed the disease in Idaho for the past 14 years and frankly acknowledge it a puzzle to the medical profession.

"Our text books are silent on the pathology, causeology and treatment of the so-called spotted fever of the sagebrush country.

"The tick theory will not hold here; neither will the snow melting in contact with metal hold. Caldwell, Payette, Nampa and Mountain appear especially adapted to the propagation and development of spotted fever in this state. When it develops at Boise it is more malignant and more fatal owing to the humidity of the atmosphere.

"In 15 years of practice here I believe I am safe in saying that I have treated 50 cases of spotted fever and have lost but one case, which was a sheepherder found in a haymow in Caldwell, and by lantern light we visited him, in company with Judge Little, and sent him to the county hospital. He died in three days with a pneumonic metastasis.

"Spotted fever is peculiar to a sage brush country. I do not remember of having treated but one female in all my service and that was a girl of 12 years of age on Squaw butte, where she lay desperately sick with the disease, while her father lay in the same room with the same disease. They both got well. With aged people it is a serious disease. At high altitudes—as high as sagebrush grows—it is a serious ailment. In Boise valley, Payette valley and Snake river valley the disease runs milder unless pneumonia complicates it. The great majority, in fact, all in this locality that have had the disease are persons exposed to the early bloom of the sagebrush—cowboys, sheepherders and ranchers. Very few in town get the disease, hardly any. No ticks cause it. The melting snow in spring does not cause it. The patients that have spotted fever are those who mingle, handle and work with sagebrush.

"The propagation of the disease comes in the spring months, April, May and June. We find no spotted fever after June 30.

"I believe the disease due to the flower and annual reproductive efforts of the shrub, because the so-called spotted fever appears at the time the sage is in bloom and rising to reproduction. The shrub varies many weeks in blooming and sending out its poisonous pollen.

Analogy—Disease always appears in spring time; disease confined to sagebrush country; disease disappears when shrub has ripened; its propagation.

"Now, there are many plants and trees that make us very sick, and some cause an erythema, eruption fever and intense prostration. Such as the rhustox—the nettle, the red-bud tree and the Jamestown weed. If you will lie down on a bed of green or half-cured lobels and go to sleep you will never wake up. There are carnivorous plants which actually consume flesh to their nourishment.

"There are very poisonous plants that give off effluvia which is very poisonous to human kind.

"Microscopical needles prick and chafe the skin like the sting of a sweat bee, yet unobserved by us until prostrated."

A GREAT HOSTELRY.

The Work of Making the Hotel Portland Still Better.

The Hotel Portland, under H. C. Bowers' management, has grown in popularity from the day he took hold of it. The fact of the matter is the management has grown with the hotel, being the best of any hotel management on the Coast. It is always alive to the needs of the traveling public, and no man or woman ever goes to the Hotel Portland without going away as a standing advertisement of appreciation of that establishment.

At the present time the work of enlarging the Portland is in the preparatory stage. The $40,000 recently appropriated by the directors of the hotel will be sufficient to convert that popular hostelry into one of the great public resorts of the country. The addition and improvements will be made wholly on account of the increasing business of the hotel under the efficient management of Mr.

Bowers. The work will actually begin on September 1.

Manager Bowers in speaking of the proposed addition, recently said:

"It is the intention to build a room, between the wings facing on Sixth street, which will be 16 feet high, 85 feet long, by 45 feet wide. It will be made to answer the purpose of a ladies' lobby, a ballroom, banquet hall and also for a dining room when the house is crowded, as it has been of late. The apartments down stairs will be converted into an elegant cafe after the style of Zinkand's, the celebrated resort in San Francisco. It will be a cafe for ladies and gentlemen. Every evening an orchestra will provide music for the entertainment of the guests. The entrance to the cafe will be of the most elegant and pretentious character."

At the Hotel Portland, for $3 a day, a guest can get more for the money than in any other hotel in the United States. The same service, or not as good, in the east, will cost from $4 to $6 a day. The Hotel Portland is an institution that Oregon people are proud of. It does much for Portland and the state.

Eastern Oregon Timber.

R. A. Booth, manager of the Booth-Kelley Lumber Co., of Eugene, which recently purchased the land grant of 1,000,000 acres from the Military Wagon Road Company, with B. J. Pengra, is in eastern Oregon for the purpose of inspecting the lands belonging to the grant east of the Cascade mountains. This inspection is being made to determine the best manner of managing the lands to make them profitable. It is rumored that their visit has some significance in connection with the proposed railroad from Salt Lake through South-eastern Oregon, crossing the Cascades to Eugene, and thence to the coast.

Maccabees Social.

All Maccabees and ladies are urged to be present at Strawberry social, Tuesday evening, June 24th, 1902, at Secret Society Hall.
