A REGULAR DUST STORM.

Prevailed Only an Hour and Did Little Damage.

Real estate moved at a lively rate in Pendleton for an hour Monday afternoon. Between 4:30 and 5:30 one of the most disagreeable dust storms that has visited the country for years prevailed, although old settlers turn their heads to one side, look wise and say, "there has been worse," when asked about it. At any rate, the wind blew a perfect gale. By 6:30 it quieted down until one could see across the street. At 7:30 it began to rain a little. This gladdened the hearts of the farmers as well as the towns people, as all were wishing for a good shower. Their prayers were not answered, however, and only enough rain fell to lay the dust and cool the air. This morning dawned again bright and clear, although slightly cooler.

The only damage noticed by the wind was the blowing down and breaking of several trees, one of them being the big box-elder on the corner of Alta and Johnson streets, in front of the residence of James A. Howard.

The case of J. A. Walker vs. the First National Bank of Athena, and David Ferris, which was before the court all day Saturday and Monday, was non-suited Monday evening on the grounds of insufficient evidence to constitute cause of action.

Waters vs. Parker. The case of Elsie Waters vs. T. E. Parker is before the court today. This is a suit to collect wages alleged to be due plaintiff for riding the range after defendants' stock.

SCAB TREATMENT

GOVERNMENT SECURES POINTERS FROM THE WEST

Embodies the information in a Pamphlet and Distributes it Among the Farmers and Stockmen.

The department of agriculture has been getting some tips from the west on the treatment of scabies in cattle and has embodied the information in a pamphlet for the farmers of the country. An expert of the department visited various ranches of the west and found that the big cattle raisers were way ahead of their eastern brethren in the way they cared for their stock.

At a ranch known as Langedahl, 18 miles north of Steele, N. D., the expert found a "model dipping plant" for the treatment of cattle mange.

"This plant," says the pamphlet, "with the exception of the tank was built by farmers. A threshing engine was used for heating purposes by connecting a 1/4 inch pipe with the whistle intake, the whistle being removed, and the pipe joined to the union. The plant has a capacity of 200 head per day. Its cost, without engine or labor, excepting the labor to build the tank or vat, was $150. One person can easily lower the cage when loaded by taking a hitch around a post, and it may be raised, as shown in illustrations, either with engine or horses."

The following is the sure cure formula to be used to kill off the pesky scabies "critter":

Flowers of sulphur, lbs. . . . . 21
Unslacked lime, lbs. . . . . 16%
Water, gallons, . . . . . 100

"Place the unslacked lime in a mortar box or some other suitable vessel and add enough water to slack the lime and form a lime paste or lime putty. Sift into this lime paste the flowers of sulphur and stir the mixture well. Be sure to weigh both the lime and sulphur, and do not trust to measure them with a bucket or guess at the weight. Place the sulphur and lime paste in a kettle or boiler with about 25 or 30 gallons of boiling water, and boil the mixture for two hours at least, stirring the liquid and sediment. The boiling should be continued until the sulphur disappears, or almost disappears, from the surface. The solution is then of a chocolate or liver color. The longer the solution boils the more the sulphur is dissolved, and the less caustic the ooze becomes. Most writers advise boiling from 30 to 40 minutes, but a much better ooze is obtained by boiling from two to three hours, adding water when necessary. Pour the mixture and sediment into a large tub or barrel placed near the dipping tub or vat, and provided with a bung-hole about four inches from the bottom, and allow it ample time (from two to three hours, or more if necessary) to settle. The use of some kind of a settling tank provided with a bung-hole is an absolute necessity, unless the boiler is so arranged that it may be used for both boiling and settling. An ordinary kerosene oil barrel will answer very well as a settling tank. To insert a spigot about three or four inches from the bottom is an easy matter. Draining off the liquid through a spigot has the great advantage over dipping it out in that less commotion occurs in the liquid, which therefore remains freer from sediment. When fully set-led, draw off the clear liquid into the dipping vat and add enough warm water to make 100 gallons. The sediment in the barrel may then be mixed with water and used as a disinfectant, but under no circumstances should it be used for dipping purposes."

FOUND LOUISE.

Body of Little Girl Who Disappeared in October is Discovered.

The body of little Louise McCarthy, who disappeared from St. Maries, Idaho, in October last, was discovered by a dog on the lake shore at Eastport Saturday afternoon.

It was at first thought when the child disappeared that she had been killed by a cougar but an aunt who had dressed the child the last time she was seen alive recognized the little one's clothes by the clothes she had on. Parties searched the hills for weeks for the child at the time she disappeared.

EXPOSITIONS INSTRUCT.

They Are to the Nation What Public Schools Are to the Hamlet.

A Boston publisher, Robert A. Reid, returning to his home from the Charleston Exposition, met the remark of an acquaintance that the exposition was a failure by saying: "One might as well say the schools of Boston are failures because they return no money revenues. It is a mistake to regard expositions in any other light than vast educational enterprises for the uplifting of the great mass of people, the returns from which are many fold in a better knowledge of one another and of the progress of the world at large. There is no other way to reach the people, old and young, who have finished their school days, and whose means of observation are circumscribed by the usual business and domestic environments. The Charleston Exposition was a great success. If the world has not found Charleston the people of Charleston have found where they stand with reference to the world, and great good is being realized and must follow for years to come to the city and the state as the result of their exposition effort and outlay."
