THE MODERN DRUGGISTS - PENDLETON

SATURDAY, JUNE 28, 1902.

Whitelaw Ried is probably busy just now shaking sawdust out of his stockings on the eve of starting for home.

Have you contributed anything to the Pendleton Academy fund? If not, do so. Pendleton needs better and better schools.

The Oregon supreme court is a year behind in its work. Until recently it was two years behind, but it moved up a notch by a special effort and probably it will rub out another year by another spurt when it feels good and ready.

The American people, as shown by government reports, drink hardly more than a gallon of distilled spirits per capita in a year. This is far below the European consumption, which entitles the American people to a good mark for being a temperate people.

Congressman Cannon, republican, predicts a deficit in the national treasury, due to the extravagance of the republican congress, and he declares that it will result in an increased rate of taxation upon the people and other calamities which follow in the wake of profligacy and waste.

Senator Burrows, of Michigan, says he opposes reciprocity with Cuba because it would ruin the beet sugar industry of his state. Undoubtedly the senator believes this, for he considers the beet sugar industry such an infant that it needs to nurse at the teat of protection, which is responsible for many of the trusts and combines of capital in this country.

The Tom Johnson plan of placing in street railway franchises a provision that the city may at any time buy the properties for actual cost, is becoming popular, just now in San Francisco, where representatives of railroads have signified a willingness to have such a provision placed in the blanket franchise for which they have applied. The ideas of Tom Johnson in other public matters is liable to take a firm hold upon the country in the next half dozen years. There is no public man in the whole country exceeding Tom Johnson in earnestness and love of civic duty. His work in Ohio is worth watching.

The official canvass of the vote in the state at the recent election gives R. S. Bean, candidate for supreme judge on the republican ticket, 17,146 plurality; Frank I. Dunbar, republican candidate for secretary of state, 17,006; Charles S. Moore, republican, state treasurer, 15,912; J. H. Ackerman, republican, state superintendent of schools, 15,205; A. M. Crawford, republican, attorney general, 13,112; J. R. Whitney, republican, state printer, 11,639. In the first district Thomas H. Tongue, republican, congressman, received 7,372 plurality, and in the second district, J. N. Williamson, republican for congress, 7,799 plurality. The vote on the initiative and referendum for the whole state was 62,024 for, and 5,668 against. The total number of electors voting in the state were 92,920. The state canvassing board transmitted the returns on governor to the state legislature, and these returns will be canvassed by that body when it meets in regular session in January. The official canvass further shows that the candidate of the socialists for secretary of state received 5589 votes and the candidate of the prohibitionists for the same office received 4935 votes.

The suggestion of the East Oregonian to make a recreation ground out of the little island between Walter's mill race and the Umatilla river, just below the Main street bridge, is not without merit. A number of citizens have signified their willingness to help the movement. The women's clubs of Pendleton and the Commercial Association are invited to give the matter attention. There is abundance of rock in the immediate vicinity with which to build a wall to protect the island from high water and it could be reached by a rustic bridge or two over Walter's mill race. Doubtless Mr. Walter's would be glad to assist in beautifying this particular spot and making it an attractive park or recreation ground. Pendleton cannot become a better place to live in unless we all are alive to needs of this kind.

"WHERE ROLLS THE OREGON."

Large attendance marked the Pioneers' Reunion in Portland, on Wednesday, and no sharp vision was needed to see increased interest in the one distinct Oregon day, says the Oregonian. The second generation now holds the stage, and strain our eyes as we may in the assemblage, we can pick out no more of the original pioneers than can be counted on one's fingers. Pioneer names are plentiful, but they are borne by men and women not far from 50. And the pioneer spirit is not less strong than it was when the association was formed, a quarter of a century ago. Here and there you will see grandsons of those who came the plains across in the '40s, taking hold of affairs and it will not be long until from the third generation will be chosen the grand marshals, the presidents, the orators and the historians of future gatherings. No fear need be felt for 50 years at least that these reunions will be prefunctory. On the contrary, as time advances, kinship with those who founded this commonwealth will be regarded as the patent right to nobility. Where pride of ancestry based on merit is involved, the social importance of pioneerdom is certain to grow.

No where on the Pacific coast does the pioneer spirit live in such strength as in Oregon. It had a hold in California, notably in San Francisco, but unfortunately few of the distinguished pioneers have been succeeded by worthy sons. In the southern part of the state there are only a handful of people who came prior to the '60s. In Washington, outside of the counties bordering the Columbia, and a few spots on Puget Sound, it is entirely lacking. Tacoma and Spokane were hardly on the map 30 years ago. In Seattle you will find a few men whose fathers aided Henry L. Yesler, the founder of the town to repel the Indian attack of 1855, but probably not more than 3 per cent of the entire population have the pioneer spirit. There is a little of it at Olympia and over Gray's Harbor way. Walla Walla may be considered one of the counties bordering on the Columbia. Here there is centred the memory of the first sacrificial tragedy and of such heroic pioneer effort that the spirit can never die.

The pioneer spirit is planted deep down in Oregon soil, and no waves of immigration can uproot it. In six months the stranger can get citizenship in this state but not fellowship. Coming with established character, his way will be no harder than in other sections of the country where righteous living prevails, but he must get into the Oregon spirit at once if he aspires to leadership. Every Portlander can recall more than one man of brains and moral backbone who failed here only because he attempted the impossible task of grafting on the community a spirit that grows elsewhere. This is notably true of ministers of the gospel who could not grasp the broad spirit of tolerance that the first missionaries planted and the pioneers and their descendants fostered. The strangers who come here to win spurs must first prove himself, and this takes time. Unlike the state of Washington, Oregon does not pick out her judges, congressmen, governors or senators from carpetbaggers.

A hundred years hence when Oregon has—shall I say?—3,000,000 people, will there be annual reunions on the 15th of June? Perhaps not, but there will be dinners after the fashion of the New England society. McLoughlin will never fall of toasts. At least 20 men of later date are worthy of eulogy. To make a list is easy, but a precedent has been set by those who founded the hall of Fame that the name of no man who has not been dead at least 10 years shall be inscribed there. Some of Oregon's most distinguished pioneers have died since 1892, and there are still living four pioneers whose services to Oregon will not be forgotten by the speakers of the next century.

WAR DECLARED IN OHIO.

Mayor Tom Johnson, of Cleveland, has declared war on John R. McLean, the Cincinnati republican who has been meddling with Ohio democratic politics for so many years.

"We do not expect any aid from Mr. McLean or his newspaper, and, in fact, most of our friends welcomed the opposition from both."

"McLean stands for nothing in Ohio politics. His support will drive more men out of the democratic party than it will bring to it, and his open opposition will attract to the democratic party great numbers of independent voters who believe in a democracy that stands for live issues."

Tom Johnson is right except in thinking that John R. McLean stands for nothing in Ohio politics, thinks the Helena Independent. McLean stands for anything that is undemocratic. For twenty years he has been defeating democracy in Ohio. Always he has been for his own pocketbook. Now he has against him a man who has as big a pocketbook, but who is not trying to stuff it at the expense of the people of Ohio.

"Shut your eyes, open your mouth and see what luck will bring you."

The mother smiles at the childish game, and doesn't realize that it is a game she as a woman has perhaps played for a great many years.

Many a woman is weak and sick, nervous and discouraged. She suffers from headache, backache and other ills. She wants to be well, but all she does is to shut her eyes and open her mouth for medicine and trust to luck for results. She "doctors" month after month, often year after year, in this same blind, hap-hazard fashion, and receives no permanent benefit.

Women take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with their eyes open to the fact that it cures womanly ills. It cures irregularity. It dries debilitating drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. There is no trusting to luck by those who use "Favorite Prescription."

"My disease was displacement and ulceration of the uterus, and I was in a terrible condition with pain and weakness and had given up all hopes of ever being well again," writes Mrs. Harry A. Brown, of Orono, Fenobscot Co., Me. "Had doctored with four different doctors within four months, and instead of getting better was growing weaker all the time. I decided to try your 'Favorite Prescription.' 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' as I had heard of the many cures resulting from their use. I bought five bottles and felt so much better after taking them that I kept on until I am as well as ever in my life, and to Dr. Pierce all the praise is due. I cannot say enough in favor of his medicines. Before I began taking your medicines I only weighed one hundred and twenty pounds. I now weigh one hundred and sixty pounds. I gained forty pounds in six months. I shall doctor no more with home doctors, as it is only waste of money. I am now in perfect health, thanks to Dr. Pierce."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the muddy complexion.

SUMMER COLDS Produce Chronic Catarrh.

Mrs. Henriette C. Olberg, Albert Lea, Minn.

Mrs. Henriette C. Olberg, superintendent Flax and Hemp Exhibition at the Omaha Exhibition, writes from Albert Lea, Minn., as follows:

"This spring I contracted an aggravating cold, having been exposed to the damp weather. Catarrh of my throat and head followed, which persisted in remaining, notwithstanding I applied the usual remedies."

"Reading of the merits of Peruna in the papers, I decided to try it and soon found that all that has been said of your medicine in such cases is true."

"I am very pleased with the satisfactory results obtained from using Peruna, am entirely well, and consider it a most valuable family medicine."

HENRIETTE C. OLBORG.

Summer colds require prompt treatment. They are always grave, and sometimes dangerous. The promptness and surety with which Peruna acts in these cases has saved many lives. A large dose of Peruna should be taken at the first appearance of a cold in summer, followed by small and oft-repeated doses. There is no other remedy that medical science can furnish, so reliable and quick in its action as Peruna.

Address The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio, for a free booklet entitled "Summer Catarrh," which treats of the catarrhal diseases peculiar to summer.
