TWO INTERESTING DECISIONS

OPINIONS OF INTEREST TO EASTERN OREGONIANS

Supreme Court at Salem Has Handed Down Decisions in Cases of Much Local Interest.

The supreme court at Salem has handed down the following decisions which will be of interest to the readers of the East Oregonian:

G. D. Simmons, respondent, vs. Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company appellant; appeal from Umatilla county. Ellis, judge; affirmed. Opinion by Chief Justice Bean.

This is an action to recover damages for injuries suffered through negligence of the operators of a train upon which he was riding. He had been a fireman over 18 months on helper engines on the Blue Mountains. He was injured while riding without a pass or ticket upon one of the freight trains, and was returning from consultation with the company physician. He had paid the regular hospital fees. The defense of the company was that the relation of passenger and carrier did not exist between plaintiff and defendant, but the supreme court held that plaintiff "was lawfully on the train, for the purpose of being carried home, with the consent and by the permission of the conductor." In an exhaustive opinion the court reaches the conclusion "that the conductor of the train had apparent authority to receive him thereon as a passenger, and that he must be regarded as a passenger."

Oregon Land & Construction Company, respondent, vs. the Allen Ditch Company, appellant; appeal from Umatilla county; reversed. Opinion by Justice Wolverton.

This was an action to enjoin the defendant from diverting water from the Umatilla river in disregard of the riparian rights of plaintiff. The opinion elaborately discusses the facts and legal aspects of the case, and concludes "that defendant's rights are dependent entirely upon the statutes of limitations, but, as we have seen, the statute runs in its favor, thus giving it title by prescription to the amount of water that will flow through an aperture seven and a half feet by 12 inches, under a six inch pressure, and the decree of the court will be that defendant be enjoined from a diversion of any larger amount. The appellant is entitled to costs and disbursements in both courts."

A WILD ROUND-UP.

Indians and Cowboys in Arizona Have a Great Hunt.

For several months past the mountain lions, bears and wolves have been playing sad havoc with the stock in the ranges of some parts of Arizona, according to dispatches from there. With 10,000 cattle on the range, the heavy losses in calves and yearlings by the ravages of the wild animals have cut down the dividends of the Colin Campbell stock company, which owns the range, considerably. "Charley" Montgomery, famous all over Arizona as a hunter and who was chief of scouts under General Crook during the trouble with the Apaches, was engaged to exterminate the animals which have been raiding the herds. He engaged 100 men of the Pina tribe and had a big round-up of the "varmints."

Early in the morning his Indians and a score of cowboys surrounded a district five miles square in the foothills of the Chiricahua range and gradually closed in toward the center, with 200 dogs in the rodeo. As they reached the center of the circle, catamounts, black bears, coyotes and an occasional grizzly bear tried to break through the line, but were met by a shower of bullets. Dozens of animals perished in the attempt to escape, but 200 others were finally cornered in a box canyon and the redskins and cowpunchers picked them off from the rocks above.

There were scores of close conflicts with the enraged and frightened brutes and in one melee four Indians were fearfully mangled by a grizzly before their shots finally finished the bear. One of the reds, Antonio Hermo, a former chief of the tribe, received fatal wounds from the claws of the big fellow. The dogs closed in on the victims and dozens of them were killed before the slaughter was complete. The final count showed nineteen dead mountain lions, five grizzlies, two lynxes and over 100 coyotes—doubtless the biggest round-up of wild animals that has ever occurred in Arizona.
