BIG ROW IN COURT

CHIEF OF POLICE AND JUDGE CLASH AT WALLA WALLA.

Chief Kauffman Accused Police Justice Glassford of "Standing in" With Sporting People and Was Fined $40 and Given a Day in Jail.

Walla Walla, July 8.—A wild scene occurred in the police court yesterday afternoon, and one of the most bitter controversies in the history of the city received another chapter, when Chief of Police Kauffman openly charged Police Justice Glassford with "standing in" with lewd women and their consorts in this city. For these overt acts Kauffman was fined several times for contempt of court, and once was sentenced to serve one day in the city jail for a similar offense. The wildest excitement prevailed about the city hall for a time, and the spectacle of the chief of police looking for a "cop" to lock him in the jail, with every policeman refusing to perform the duty asked, was a scene seldom equalled and never excelled.

The case on trial came over from last week. M. Stillinger was arrested last Wednesday charged with being drunk and disorderly. He was placed in the city jail and the following day was released by the chief without orders from the court, upon promise of Stillinger that he would leave the city. Stillinger is not a good citizen, as his wife has been living in a crib on Rose street for over a month. When Stillinger was being jailed he was struck by Kauffman and the blow made a large swelling on his face, traces being in evidence yesterday.

Out of jail once, Stillinger refused to leave the city, and was found upon the streets Saturday and locked up without a warrant. Yesterday after two witnesses aid the chief had testified to the acts of Stillinger, when he was talking loudly upon the streets, the court asked how it happened that the man had been re-arrested in the manner apparent.

The chief replied that he had authority to do so and could arrest without a warrant. This was agreed to in the first instance, but the court held that in the second instance the case had been closed and a warrant should have been issued. Thereupon the defendant was dismissed and went his way.

Kauffman grew angry and accused the court of "standing in" with people like those in court, Stillinger and his wife. The insulting remark was met by a fine of $5 for contempt of court, and then the trouble began.

Kauffman raged and demanded that the fine be made greater, while he reiterated his charge. The fine was increased piecemeal until it aggregated $40 and a day in jail. The sentence to jail awoke every bit of resentment in Kauffman and he fairly raved, having to be called to order. His friends interested themselves and the incident closed.

When upon the street Glassford was accosted and again told how he was held in disregard by Kauffman, and then Kauffman announced his readiness to be locked up. No one would put him in jail and the mayor was appealed to. He at once pardoned the chief and there the matter was allowed to rest.

It is understood that tonight charges will be filed with the council against Glassford, and the whole matter may be aired before long.

Shooting of Johnson.

The Long Creek Ranger contains a meagre account of the shooting at Susanville the night of the 3rd inst., in which William Johnson lost his life and Joe Williams was slightly wounded in the hand. The shooting was done in self-defense by J. A. Crisman. Crisman gave himself up to the officers immediately after the shooting.

Sunday morning fire was discovered in the European Hotel, The Dalles, and the building, which was an old one, was completely destroyed, together with two adjoining cottages. About $7000 damages was also done to the county court house.
