A FASHION LETTER

A NOVEL AND IDEAL
 HAT FOR SUMMER.

Gainsborough Shape of Linen Duck and Trimmed With Silk—Shirt Waist Suits are Strictly the Thing —Other Notes of Mrs. Grundy's Dictates.

New York, July 8.—A tour of the shops of Gotham which cater to the patronage of the fashion's elect has resulted in the discovery of many novelties.

One of the most delightful is an ideal summer hat. For uniqueness it surpasses anything yet introduced, for it combines an ever-elegant and popular style with a material so easily accessible that none are barred who enter upon the quest for the new design. The hat is Gainsborough in shape, flaring and slightly inodated and picturesque. Instead of being made of straw, however, it is carried out in linen duck. The brim is bound in white silk, which may be substituted for black if desired, and the only trimming permissible is a veil of white chiffon sprinkled with polka dots of black velvet about the size of a silver five-cent piece.

The ingenuity of milliners has been taxed to the limit this year to produce something novel in the line of headgear, but the variety is worth the effort, for almost as wide a latitude is allowed in "Wash" hats as in cotton gowns. It is possible to aunder all of the various millinery confections in pique, linen, duck and lawn and with a crisp, fresh lawn nothing is more dainty.

English Walking Hats.
 English walking hats of butcher's linen stitched all over and trimmed with bands of polka dot foulard are quite the smartest thing one could select for morning use. They not only go well with morning gowns of heavy wash fabrics, but look natty with the cleanable china silk dresses that are seen almost everywhere. The latter, though invariably carried out in cream-white are pretty in blue, pale rose and the champagne tints, if the cleaner is not called upon to make their acquaintance.

Though there is not the tendency to affect the separate bodice so much this season as last, there are some very elegant independent skirts of taffeta, net and satin seen. All are plentifully trimmed with lace and finished around the foot with graduate flounces of chiffon, or with ruf-les of the same material embellished with ruchings of some of the light, fluffy fabrics.

Shirt Waist Suits.
 Shirt waist suits have gradually climbed upward until they have reached the pivotal point of popularity's pinnacle. The smartest effects are in taffeta, plain or checked.
 Earlier in the season foulard was used for these gowns, but this material seems to belong so exclusively to dressier functions that taffeta has replaced it for models for more general wear. In using the materials the order of things is reversed exactly, plain taffeta being used to trim suits of checked silk, and check silk for designs in solid color. The bodices of all costumes show the broad shouldered effect which prevails, and even for stout women this is becoming, because the lines curve snugly into the waist, rendering the effect graceful as well as fashionable.
 Ultra-smart hats for shirt waist suits are made entirely of leaves.
 The crowns are flat, what there is of them and rather dome-like in shape, spreading into a drooping brim which narrows perceptibly at the back.
 Dull autumn leaves in satin finished are massed over the entire surface and the only touch of contrasting color is gained by a blue or pink bow at the back which has ends falling below the shoulder a la Du Barry.

Many English Fads.
 It seems too bad that the coronation ceremonies were so sadly interrupted, for many things in summer fashions are distinctly English.
 There is the Kitchener belt fob of black silk having an ornament in gun metal; there is the flaming English red Kimona jacket for seashore wear; there are postillion belts, Princess stocks, English wrist bags, ping-pong novelties—for the game is English, you know—and dozens of other what-nots emblematic of the much-talked-of Anglo-American sentiment.

Fancy Bodices.
 Fancy bodices show a trimming that promises to be much worthy the luxury-loving. It consists of a shoulder yoke of lace encrusted with jewels, the yoke being an extension of the stock, into which it is made as one piece and being simply wide enough to form an effective covering the shoulder seam. Narrow belts, graduated in shape, come with the lace yokes and the entire set costs something like fifty dollars.
 A vagary of fashion which comes up to the extravagance of its name is the frock and frills coat. This is a three-quarter affair made of taffeta and embroidered over the front in panel effect. In fact the embroidery extends entirely around the lower of the coat and forms also the garni-ture for the loose flowing sleeve which is almost a half yard wide.

 The coat is lined with quilted chiffon, and the shirings of the chiffon are so concealed beneath the narrowest ruchings of bristling valenciennes lace in ultra-smart twine color.

Serges Are Smart.
 Serges are very smart for summer wear, being light in weight and adaptable to the tailor made lines.
 The newest varieties are closer in weave than any heretofore observed and the finish is so soft and silky that it is almost impossible to tell the fabric from a satin faced cloth.

Fruit, and fruit and blossoms are seen on many of the summer hats, all varieties being used from currants to apples and lemons. Combinations of berries and blossoms are popular and everything in the way of leaves is come il faut, not excluding even the toothsome water cress.

Flower hats, although they are not seen in large numbers are none the less fashionable. A design covered with June roses is one of the oddities of July, and a very charming one at that, for the roses are of the most delicate tint and are combined with ostrich plumes instead of leaves for the sake of variety.

Dame Fashion Likes Fads.
 One of the changing qualities of Dame Fashion is that she accommodates herself to effectively to the fads of the moment. As the craze for automobilizing increases, she invents new things for the enthusiast, and each one seems to be prettier than its predecessor. An improvement upon the long loose coat is a wrap of putty-colored impereable cloth. It has a broad belt of dull black leather and a coachman's cape fixed with stoles of cloth piped with leather.
 Beneath this come large sleeves, slit up and fastened with big leather bu-tons before being drawn into narrow wristlets. The distinguishing feature of another design is the utter absence of a neck-band, the coat simply being cut very low and the front folded over it double-breasted effect.

Those who objected to the loose coat on account of the negligee back will find their tastes catered to in a band which buttons across from each of the under-arm seams and holds in in place the fullness which we have grown accustomed to seeing hang perfectly straight.

Eton Effects Don't Go.
 Eton effects, except in tailor-made suits must necessarily be laid aside for the next two months, but these are replaced by all manner of dainty fishus and pelerines, composed of lace and chiffon. Net is also fashionable for this purpose, and instead of being trimmed with ruffles of lace, it borrows its beauty from a finer trimming composed of double ruchings of tulle in a darker cream shade.
 The contrasting of dead-white and cream is one of the fads of the moment, and there is certainly nothing more effective.

MAUDE GRIFFIN.

The Brussels correspondent of the London Times says that The Hague tribunal is to be consulted on some protests regarding the sale of the Danish Island of St. Thomas to the United States.

The Rush Goes On
 With Unabated Interest

The Great Closing-Out Sale at Kemler's Grocery moves along and goods are moving rapidly. Hundreds of dollars are being saved by purchasers. Nothing is held back. Everything in the entire store has been cut in price. Bargain seekers never found such a genuine snap. Many are buying in large quantities and storing away the goods for future needs, because it is an investment that means a big gain. Don't put off this chance.
 Come at once. We want to retire from business as soon as possible. When this stock is disposed of the chance of a lifetime ends.

The Drink for Summer is Schultz's bottled beer. When properly cooled it is not only delightfully refreshing, but its tonical properties will counteract, as no other drink, the debilitating effects of hot weather, and being properly matured, will never cause biliousness like badly brewed "green beer." It's a marvel of purity, and is bottled with the greatest care.
