IS TRACY GARR?

MONTANA SHERIFF DECLARES THAT IS HIS TRUE NAME.

Says He arrested in Dillon, Mont. in 1891 Under the Name of Henry Garr the Man Who is Now Terrorizing the Puget Sound Country.

A. O. Rose, ex-sheriff of Beaverhead county, Mont., who is now living at Payette, Idaho, declares firmly his belief that the desperado who is gaining notoriety for himself under the name of Harry Tracy, by murdering deputy sheriffs and stirring to their very depths the entire population of four or five counties in the state of Washington, is not entitled to the name under which he is becoming notorious, saying that Tracy is an alias and that the fleeing convict's real name is Henry Garr and that he began his career of crime in 1891, in Beaverhead county, Rose being sheriff of the county at the time.

Ex-sheriff is Positive.
 Speaking of the matter to a newspaper reporter a few days since, Mr. Rose said:

"I am positive that Henry Garr, whom I arrested at Dillon in the spring of 1891 for stealing a keg of beer from the depot platform is none other than Harry Tracy, the escaped convict of the Salem penitentiary. I first learned that Garr had taken the name of Tracy in 1897, when I received a photograph from the warden of the Utah penitentiary, accompanied by a notification that he, with four other prisoners, had effected his escape while in custody.

"At the time of his arrest at Dillon, Garr, or Tracy, could not have been over 18 years of age, although he gave his age as 19. He received a jail sentence of 60 days for the theft of the beer, and on his release he went to work for a ranchman in the southern part of the country. He was with his employer but a short time when he made off with goods to the value of about $30. He was captured and returned to the jail at Dillon. He was tried and convicted and was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary in Deer Lodge.

"While serving his sentence I received a letter from his father from a town in Missouri, the name of which I have now forgotten. When young Garr was again set at liberty he returned to Dillon where he secured some clothing he had left in my care. He then went to work with a gang of woodchoppers, but soon tired of that, and decamped in company with another youth, after robbing the camp. I then lost sight of him until I received his photograph from the warden of the Utah penitentiary.

Chose Career of Crime.
 "An incident of his final disappearance from Montana, which shows that he had selected a career of crime, was that when he robbed the woodchoppers' camp there was owing him in wages $30, and that the stolen goods did not exceed the value of $15. He could not resist the temptation to steal. When he returned for his clothes after serving time in the Deer Lodge penitentiary, about the first question he asked me was whether I had heard from his folks in Missouri. I told him that I had and he wanted to know what I had replied.

"I told him that I had informed his father of his incarceration in the penitentiary for burglary. He said: 'What in h—l did you do that for?'
 "You did not expect me to tell them you were elected governor of Montana, did you?" said I.
 "He remained silent for a few moments, and then said: 'O, I don't care a cuss; the old man (meaning his father) stole hogs in Missouri.'"

"Men's Resort" to Open.
 The reading room and baths of the "Men's Resort," in the Despain building will be open to receive visitors Saturday. A reception to the general public will be held later when the furnishings are complete. Membership tickets will be issued to all who are contributing to the expense of furnishing and maintaining the work. A committee of young men will be organized Friday night and a canvass for members begun. The full work of classes, meetings, etc., will not be begun until fall.

Pure and Sweet and free from every harsh element, this skin, scalp, and hair preserver, purifies, and beautifies by its use. It prevents the growth of pimples, blackheads, red, rough heads, dry, itching, and falling hair, and baby blemishes, viz.: the itchy, irritated, inflamed, or singular condition of the scalp. No other soap is so compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other soap is so compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE—namely, 25 CENTS—the best skin and complexion soap, and the best toilet soap, and baby soap in the world.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Cosmopolitan for July.

What makes the happy relation between man and woman, is an eternally interesting question, and a clever discussion of why marriages fail, presented by Raftord Pyke in his article "The Woman's Side," is certain to receive the very wide consideration which has been given to that authors previous articles on the discussion of woman versus man. The July Cosmopolitan seems to be almost equally divided in interest between men and women. "An Experiment in Domestic Finance" is another entirely novel article which will appeal to women, while some twenty pages devoted to the "Captains of Industry" will receive the consideration of men in all classes of business. The Cosmopolitan has undertaken to present a series of brief sketches of the men who are leaders in finance, manufactures, and commerce not prepared in an offhand way, but by writers of the greatest ability who have an exact knowledge of their subjects. The series thus far produced has attracted the widest attention.

The Austrian army has an active general who is 95 years old. This is Field Marshal Lieutenant Baron Schwartz-Meiller, who has been an officer 74 years and 50 years a general. He is one of five officers still alive who marched with their baggage on their backs from Lemberg to Naples.
