"WEARY WILLIES" WANDER

MANY ARE REPORTED AT WALLULA AND HUNTS.

They Are Breaking for the Harvest Fields and Are Beating Their Way on the Trains.

Hoboes are reported a nuisance in the Wallula country. Other seasons have been bad, but they could not compare with this for Weary Willies in Wallula and Hunt's Junction. Just now, however, a majority of the so-called tramps are harvesters breaking into the harvest fields. A great many of these broke and beating their way over the country to get to where they can secure work.

It is no uncommon thing to see from a dozen to 20 "fare-beaters" on one train coming out of Wallula toward Pendleton or Walla Walla. They perch themselves on top of box cars, on the brake beams or hide away inside of empty cars. Train men frequently have trouble with the migrating herds and usually have to let the hoboes have their own way on their travels.

They come from all directions and get "ditched" at Wallula. Then it is a hurry scurry to get out on the first freight or passenger that comes along, for not even the Weary Willies like to stay in Wallula. At night camp fires can be seen in every direction where they are camped. Sometimes two or three dozen hustle around one camp fire and make their coffee in old tin cans which have been cast aside by the housewife. Considering this condition, little stealing or deprecations have been committed as yet, but every one is on the lookout for something to be taken.

Few Here.

There are few of the genuine Weary Willie types in Pendleton, although some of them have hit the then passed the ball to first in the nick of time to catch the batter.

Another pretty play was Wilner's throw from right field of an apparently safe hit, which he fielded in time to put out the batsman. This is a most unusual play.

Walla Walla is going to reorganize her team. They are evidently believers in the old adage that "a stitch in time saves nine," in that city.

The Official Rooters held a war dance and pow-wow when the Indians returned from Baker—and there was a hot time, etc.

No Six-Team League.

It has been practically decided by the present members of the Inland Empire League, that the league shall be kept to the four teams at present in the combination, as upon consideration of the application put in by Boise, Idaho, for membership to pair with Dayton, it was thought that Boise was too far away from the other towns in the league to make the scheme of taking that city in a feasible one.

Boise is 147 miles from Baker City, the extreme eastern city of the league, and that would put it such a distance from the other three towns of the league that it would be impossible to arrange a satisfactory schedule of games as time would be occupied in traveling which is not necessary under the present four-team schedule.

Both Dayton and Boise are anxious and willing to come in, but they will probably be barred by the law of distance.

PLUCKY PLAYER.

Tom Parrott Made Winning Run After He Was Out of His Head.

Tom Parrott, better known throughout this section where he played ball for several seasons, as "Tacks" Parrott, went insane during a game at San Francisco recently. It was this way. Parrott knocked a two-bagger to center field and was caught between bases trying to steal third. While he was fiddling and looking for an opening, the second baseman threw high and the man on third bag jumped for the ball.

Parrott slid under and the baseman came down on his head and neck with his spiked shoes, grinding into the flesh in a fearful manner. Parrott scored the only run made on either side during the game and then went to the bench, where he collapsed. When the time came to take the field he had to be led to his position in right field, but when there could do nothing more than stand with his hands on his knees, weaving back and forth and muttering to himself. When a man was sent out to bring him off the field he was found to be out of his head.

TO CONSIDER FRANCHISE.

Commissioners Will Meet With Mellmann This Evening.

H. Mellman, the electric railroad promoter, who arrived in town this morning from Portland, came here with the intention of closing up the deal with the county officials in regard to the franchise, but nothing has been done up to the time of going to press.

Neither of the county commissioners are here and they will not be until evening, when Mr. Walker will arrive from Helix. Then something may be done toward bringing the thing to an understanding between the county and the promoters. The franchise has already been granted but the two sides have not come together on terms. This is the only thing in the way now.

Mr. Mellmann is enthusiastic over the prospects of the road, but he is going to ask the county to change some of their ideas as to what it wants the company to do. The conditions asked by the county, he thinks, some of them at least, are out of the question. However, it is thought that both sides will come together on mutual grounds when they get together for the final settlement of the affair. Mr. Mellmann is somewhat impatient at the delay. He says delay means money to the company as every minute they are held back makes it that much longer before they can finish the road.

With an Injured Eye.

James Neagle, of Neagle Bros. machine shop, is suffering from a piece of steel striking his in the right eye while running a hand saw. The piece of the saw broke off and hit Mr. Neagle in the corner of the eye, but it is not thought that he will suffer more than some inconvenience from the cut, as the sight is thought not to be injured.

NEW SUITS INSTITUTED.

Wilber Gardner Wants Divorce—Indians Want Title to Land.

Two suits were filed on the equity docket at the court house Monday evening. The defendant in one is Mattie G Gardner and her husband Wilber W. Gardner, is the plaintiff.

He alleges that they were married in Pendleton in 1891 and lived together until 1900 when defendant abandoned plaintiff and has since refused to live with him. They have two children, Carl and Elsie, ten and eight years of age, who are with their mother in Florence, Idaho. Peter West is plaintiff's attorney.

The other suit is against T. J. Tweedy, a reservation farmer. The plaintiffs are Ta-wa-sa-sami and Wain-ta-let. They ask the court to give them possession of 80 acres of allotted land on the reservation which was allotted to Pel-outs-pum who died intestate a few weeks ago and defendant claims a right to the land by virtue of a lease. The plaintiffs are niece and cousin to the deceased.

After the suit was instituted plaintiffs and defendant entered an agreement whereby defendant would grant the decree prayed for in case no costs were taxed to him. T. G. Halley is attorney for the Indians.

Locating Smokeless Guns.

The English war office has many schemes for training their soldiers, and which are generally followed up by practical demonstrations. The latest device for locating guns firing smokeless powder, and its success will mark a new era in military progress. It is also interesting to consider the wonderful advancement in medicine during the past fifty years. It was about that time that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters was first introduced, and during those years has made a wonderful record of cures of such ailments as indigestion, heart burn, dyspepsia, belching, constipation and liver and kidney troubles, that today it occupies the foremost position as a family medicine. Don't fail to try it. Our Private Stamp is over the neck of every bottle.
