BAKER WON FIRST.

Gold Diggers Took First Game of Series With Sharpshooters.

Walla Walla, July 18.—Baker City took the first of the series with the Sharpshooters here yesterday by the close score of 7 to 6. There was a good attendance and the crowd was apparently more than pleased with the exhibition given, although the game put the local club at the tail end of the league list.

AN EXCITING GAME

INDIANS HAD A NARROW SQUEAK YESTERDAY.

Won Out in Last Half of the Ninth in a Hair-Raising Finish—Was a Game of Many Errors and Much Heavy Batting.

Standing of the Clubs.

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Pendleton	4	1	.800
La Grande	3	2	.600
Baker City	2	3	.400
Walla Walla	1	4	.200

In a game which was full of many sudden and surprising changes, lucky and unlucky plays on both sides at critical times; and which wound up in a manner to raise the hair on the spectators' heads and bring them to their feet in one wild burst of enthusiasm, the Indians pulled out of one of the tightest holes they have ever yet been in and won the first game of their series with the La Grande Beet Pullers at the ball park Thursday afternoon.

When the performance commenced it looked like an easy thing for the locals, as the Beet Chasers made errors like they thought they were important features of the game and allowed three of the painted warriors to cross the scoring tablet. In the second the visitors steadied down and from that time on the game was as close and interesting an exhibition of baseball as one would wish to sit on the bleachers for two hours and witness. Both sides had brought their batting eye along and the fireworks started early. One and two-base hits were regular features of the bill of fare and only some exceptionally good outfield work prevented the batting average getting too strenuous for the scorer to handle.

There Were Features.

Good bits of fielding work on both sides and unfortunate errors at critical moments were the features. Both sides won and lost the game during the performance through errors, and but for "Babe" Hays' opportune drive between third and short which brought in two men at the last half of the ninth, the agriculturists would have dangled the Indians' scalp locks at the wampum belts instead of losing their own flowing tresses.

Pendleton had the game comfortably safe in the first half of the eighth when with the score standing 4 to 3 in favor of the locals, Taylor threw high in trying to catch a runner at first and before the ball could be chased out of the long grass beyond the right field foul line two of the Beet crowd had hit the trail for home plate and landed safely. Then it was up to the Indians.

In the Eleventh Hour.

The mighty warriors carefully selected their war clubs and walked to the plate in the grim determination to do or die, in the last half of the eighth, but they were unable to do, so died and settled down to the task of preventing La Grande getting any more tallies in the ninth. In this endeavor they were eminently successful and when they "swatted" out a victory in the last 10 minutes of the eleventh hour the fans caught their breath again and yelled themselves hoarse.

How Runs Were Made.

The manner in which the Indians made their tallies is as follows: In the first Brown drew a pass and was advanced to third by Fay's single. "Angel Child" then stole second. Stovall went out, Adams to Menefee and Brown was caught at the home plate, Menefee and Shea completing the double play. Schmidt reached second on Black's wild throw to first and Fay scored on the same error. Cox was safe at first and Schmidt at home on fumble of Adams. Wilner made a safe hit, scoring Cox, and Penland fanned, retiring the side.

In each inning up to the sixth, Pendleton had two or three men on bases but could not score. In the sixth, Brown made a tour of the bags, reaching first by the kindness of Mr. McBirney, who fumbled the ball. Fay offered up a sacrifice and got his friend to third, and the little red-headed captain came home when Adams failed to handle Schmidt's grounder.

How They Won It.

There was nothing more doing in the way of run-getting by the Pendleton team until the ninth, when with the Beet Pullers one run ahead, it was up to them to do something or "bust." Wilner was allowed to walk and Penland smashed a liner at Menefee, who was accommodating and let it drop while Wilner got back safe on first again. Penland was out. Rhea's single advanced Wilner to third and Rhea stole second at the first chance. There was a yearning in the hearts of all the Pendleton faithful for a good corking hit to bring those boys home. Pitcher Hays, who had been sitting on the home bench during the game, was put in to bat in place of Taylor. He grasped the willow in his itching palms and with a mighty swipe soaked the ball through a hole between short and third, while Wilner and Rhea crossed the plate before it could be returned. The grand stand and bleachers arose and the old familiar war cry which has cheered the Indians to victory in many a fierce struggle was given with a will.

La Grande's Run-Getting.

La Grande did not score until the fifth, when hits by Crawford, Menefee and Black netted two earned runs. The visitors made a run in the seventh by Adams getting a hit for the seventh by Adams getting a hit for the eighth, singles by Ray, Crawford and Adams accounted for another earned run. In the ninth Black was given a pass to first and scored when Taylor threw the wild ball to Stovall at first.

Fielding Features.

Clarence Penland made a fine catch of a line drive in left field. Brown stopped a hot grounder with one hand and got his man at first. Fay nabbed a line drive and threw to Brown at third, completing a neat double play. Cox made a pretty running catch in center field, falling as he caught the ball. Menefee at first and Crawford at third, played a good game for the visitors. Danny Shea
