A VISIT FROM THE SHAH

Ruler of Persia Will Visit There for Several Days—Merchants Anticipate Many Rich Purchases.

Antwerp, July 19.—Antwerp is in a state of expectancy over the visit of Muzzafer-Ed Din, the shah of Persia, who is booked to arrive in this city tomorrow. Though the visit of the Persian monarch inconveniences the authorities not a little, owing to the measures necessary to insure his personal safety, and is likewise rather expensive, as it is found necessary to refurbish and redeccorate the rooms of the royal palace occupied by the shah and his suite after they have departed, the stay of the royal visitor is not entirely without its redeeming features. One of the foremost industries of Antwerp is diamond cutting and the manufacture of jewelry and as the shah is expected to make big purchases in this line the merchants do not share the dread with which the officials regard his approaching visit.

As purchasers there is a marked difference between the present shah and his father, Nasr-Ed-Deen. The last named was an excellent hand at making a bargain, but not too scrupulous in concluding it. He bought right and left and rarely asked for the bill, and there are some merchants today in Antwerp who are still waiting for a settlement for bills contracted by the late shah on the occasion of his visit here 14 years ago. His son, on the other hand, is regarded as an ideal client. He is easily pleased, never dickers, and rarely asks the price of anything. When shopping he invariably tells his grand vizier for whom the purchase is intended, or if any article of furniture, for which of his residences it is destined. He is ready to buy anything which strikes his fancy. For instance, on the occasion of his last visit to Western Europe he returned to Teheran with more than 100 snap-shot cameras, a dozen phonographs, an equal number of automobiles and telephones, music boxes and other odds and ends, to say nothing of furniture, jewels and art work representing fabulous sums.

Muzzafer-Ed Din's love for blazing jewels has been much commented upon. One of the largest diamonds in existence he wears in the front of his cap and on gala occasions he appears in a robe so richly embroidered with jewels as to be valued at over $6,000,000. The shah's treasure room is said by those who have been favored with a glimpse of its interior to defy imagination. The room itself is a marvel of mosaic work, in which turquoises appear galore. Day and night it is guarded by four soldiers who are among the best paid personages of the royal household. The responsibility of their charge is evident from one of its possessions—a golden globe, on which all the countries of the world are represented by mosaics of diamonds, turquoises, rubies and pearls. Around the pedestal are piles of golden coins, of which not a single one is worth less than $175. This unique treasure is valued at over $5,000,000. It is with the hope of disposing of some of their stock to be added to the contents of this Aladdin-like treasure room that the diamond merchants of Antwerp are looking forward with pleasure to the visit of the Persian monarch.

Insanity Due to Nervous and Mental Troubles

PAINES' CELERY COMPOUND

The Great Tower of Safety and Rock of Health in the Hot Weather.

Nervous diseases, when aggravated by mental disturbances produce more causes of insanity in the hot weather than at any other season of the year. Nervous headache, nervous dyspepsia, sleeplessness and chronic constipation induce depression of spirits, extreme weakness, morbid fears, despondency and languor; from these, dread insanity comes slowly but surely.

Nervous sufferers have a dread of hot weather. Finding themselves deeper in the pit of misery than they were in the spring and early summer, they are in utter despair.

There is hope for you, dear reader, if you are one of the sufferers. You stand in need of Paine's Celery Compound, that great builder of the nervous system. Its vitalizing action commences with the first bottle you use. The volume of blood immediately increases in the arteries and the body is fully fed and nourished. Your appetite becomes regular and natural, the nerves and brain are strengthened, and you have impulses of health that cheer the soul.

This remarkable remedy will truly meet your case and give you a new life; it will lay the foundation for happiness and long years. We counsel you to try this marvelous summer health-restorer at once, and enjoy the blessings of health.
