NO WRESTLING MATCH.

Crowd Failed to Connect Last Night-Match This Evening.

There was no wrestling match in the opera house last night. Not because the wrestlers did not show up. but for the reason the crowd did not warrant putting on the match. It had been advertised that Frank Lewis, ex-world's champion middleweight wrestler, now located in Pendleton, would go against the big Turk-Mr. Lewis was on hand, ready and anxious for the match, but only a few people were in the gallery to see the performance, and the manager called the performance off and the ticket money was refunded at the door.

It will be different tonight. The match will actually be pulled off regardless of the crowd. The "Terrible Turk" is a mighty man, but Frank S Lewis, now tending bar at the Gratz saloon, accepted his challenge for a purse of $50, and he will go against the big fellow tonight, and those who witness the affair will see a good match. Lewis is known in the sporting world as "Professor Frank S. Lewis," who at one time did stunts on the stage in the wrestling business himself, and for many years held the middle-weight championship of the world. The match this evening is to be for $50. If Lewis succeeds in keeping the Turk from throwing him ORE within 21 minutes he gets the $50. If he is thrown in that time nothing is coming. Much interest is being shown in the match and a crowded house should greet the performance. Professors Walters and Hallott will also give a wrestling exhibition.

The Buffalo Bill show will make its first, last and only trip to this part of the country this season, as arrangements have been made to exhibit the Wild West in England next year and a tour of Europe will follow. Mr. O'Donnell says the Buffalo Bill show is drawing larger crowds this season than ever in its history and is breaking all records in point of attendance. No show that ever traveled is having such to see the Wild West, which he also says is larger and better than ever Pendleton will get the Buffalo Bill show in all its entirety with the original and only Colonel W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill)) at the head. Mr O'Donnell will leave this evening for Walla Walla, where the show goes from here.

While Susanville is not a city or one of those boom mining camps which grow up in one day and perish almost as quickly, it is growing very rapidly and is as lively as could be expected. The Badger mine is one of the best prospects in that territory-or it may not be the best either, but it is being developed beyond any other and is showing what is in it. Many other properties are showing up fine and it only requires a few more mills in there to prove to the world that Susanville is a mining country not to be sneezed at.

"The roads between Susanville and Pendleton are excellent except for about 35 miles. This is from Dale into the camp. Part of the road is almost impasssible with a load. The people of Susanville would like to see this opened so they could haul their ore out and supplies back from Pendleton. While it is almost twice as far from Pendleton to the camp, haulers would rather come here than go out any other way, because the roads are so rough and steep. It would only take a little money make this 35 miles of road passable crowds as are turning out this year and something ought to be done toward it. Pendleton would get all the trade from Susanville if this piece of road was made decent. The rest of the way is alright."
