FREEWATER FOLKS.

How the People of That Lively Burg Are Spending the Hot Weather.

Freewater, July 24.—The extreme hot weather of the past few days has put several of our prominent citizens on the "invalid" list, but still the people of this bright little burg enjoy life as well as most.

Our farmer friends living in the territory commonly known as "Hudson's Bay" are highly elated over the fact that on and after Monday, September 1, they will be able to have their mail delivered right at their front door. "Just the same as city folks," definite orders for the establishment of a rural mail route for the benefit of that part of the country having been received by Postmaster H. C. Jones.

One additional carrier is to be employed at a salary of $600 per year, and he will cover an area of 21 square miles, his route being 23 miles in length. There are 100 houses along the route and a total population of over 500 people will be served. Three iron collection boxes, where mail may be deposited the same as in the postoffice, will be located along the route, and each family will be supplied with a neat mail box with its owner's name on the side. The carrier will begin his rounds at 10 a. m.

and will be back in ample time to dispatch the mail he has gathered on the 3:55 p. m. train.

One of the freaks of the storm which hit here last week was the moving of one of N. W. Mumford's barn from its foundation. Sheds, fruit trees, fences, etc., were also demolished. The Blalock orchard, near College Place suffered severely.

M. H. Rice is back from Pendleton, where he went with his family, who were on their way to visit at their old home in Forest Grove.

William Johnson and his family are enjoying their summer's outing traveling through the country in a wagon. They will remain on the road for two months or more unless Mrs. Johnson, for whose health they are making the trip, should become worse.

Albert White, the 13-year-old son of our popular liveryman, who was accidentally shot last week while crawling through a fence with a loaded shot gun, is doing as well as could be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Perkins enjoyed a pleasant visit from their daughter, Mrs. Alice Bradford, who lives near Lewiston, Idaho.

Messrs. Lombard & Sheets, the "candy" men, have dissolved partnership.

J. L. Rice has gone to Hood river with his little daughter.

AN EXPERIENCE WITH TRACY

STORY OF MAN WHO KNEW FAMOUS OUTLAW.

Met the Desperado in Portland Just as He Walked Out the Door of a Place He Had Robbed.

George T. Coyne, the genial, wholesome candy drummer, who is in Pendleton, tells of his acquaintance with Harry Tracy in Portland before he was caught and sent to the penitentiary for his depredations.

Mr. Coyne says he was well acquainted with the outlaw and came very near coming in contact with him one night when he was doing some of his hold-up business.

"It was during the winter of 1900," said Mr. Coyne, "when I have occasion to remember coming in contact with Tracy. It was just after dark. I walked up town, going into Offner's joint, at the corner of Fourth and Lincoln streets, to get a cigar.

"Just as I turned in at the door I met a man with a mackintosh and a slouch hat, pulled over his eyes, who spoke to me in a pleasant tone. I spoke to him, but did not know who he was in the gloom.

Had Held Up the Place.

"After walking into the store the proprietor began saying: 'Did you see him, did you see him?' I could not imagine what he meant, but gradually the excited fellow told the story and I learned that Tracy had gone into the store, held up the place and robbed it. He went into the place, covered the proprietor with his gun and told him to hold up his hands. The till had about $30 in it and the proprietor had several hundred dollars in a book inside his coat.

Girl Saved the Money.

"Tracy walked up to him and started to search him first. The daughter of the proprietor, about 10 years of age, was in the room. She rushed up to Tracy, crying: 'Don't you dare touch my papa; there is the money in the drawer, help yourself!' Tracy laughed at the little girl but turned and went to the drawer, taking out all the money in sight and started out at the door. The proprietor followed him to the door and began arguing the case with him.

Then He Took the Watch.

"The outlaw took a look at the proprietor's watch chain and taking hold of it pulled the watch from its owner's pocket, saying: That is a pretty good looking watch; guess it will look better on me than on you, at the same time jerking it from his vest and placing it in his pocket.

"Then he stepped out at the door closing it behind him, and walked away.

"This was only a short time before he was arrested and sent to jail and wound up in the penitentiary and is the last time I saw Tracy."

CELEBRATES 75th BIRTHDAY.

Sagasta, Spanish Prime Minister is Three Quarters of a Century Old Madrid, July 24.—Senor Sagasta, the Spanish prime minister, was the recipient of innumerable congratulations today on the occasion of his 75th birthday. The felicitations came from the young King, from the Queen mother and from eminent persons in all parts of the kingdom. The venerable premier is beginning to feel the weight of his years and his desire to relinquish office and retire to private life is no secret. But Spain can ill afford to spare his services. After much hard work he has succeeded in bringing the country's finances and internal affairs into a more satisfactory condition than they have been since the war with the United States.

It is interesting to recall the fact that in his youth Sagasta was one of the most vigorous revolutionists and untiring intriguers of his race. By profession he is a civil engineer, and at various times when he was out of power in the government he has supported himself as teacher or journalist. When he was only 26 years old he was elected to the cortes. He allied himself with the liberals and twice had to flee to France for his life. His first ministry was that of the interior, under General Prim, and since then he has been prime minister time after time.

Chinese rebels using modern field guns bombarded Nanning-Fu, in the Kwang-Si province, for three hours on April 17, killing nearly 400 inhabitants of the town.
