DELEGATES ARE APPOINTED

PENDLETON WILL BE REPRESENTED AT MINING CONGRESS

Mayor Hailey Has Named Five Prominent Citizens to Represent the City at Butte.

Mayor T. G. Hailey has appointed T. C. Taylor, J. H. Raley, W. J. Furlish, Joe Pasler and James A. Howard as delegates from Pendleton to the fifth annual meeting of the International Mining Congress, to be held in Butte September 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5. Letters have been sent out to all county seats requesting the mayors to appoint five men to represent the county at this gathering of mining men and the above, all being men of more or less experience in mining, were appointed. Mr. Howard is now the secretary of the Golconda Gold Mines Company.

It is announced that those arranging the meeting for the international congress are sparing no efforts to make this the most interesting meeting ever held. Men will be present from all parts of the United States and Canada.

A WEEK'S WEATHER.

Report of Temperature Fluctuations for Past Seven Days.

It was rather hot in Pendleton all of last week. The weather report given by William Hilton, voluntary weather observer, for the whole week, beginning with Sunday, the 20th, was as follows:

Sunday was the hottest day, it reaching 105 in the shade; again Saturday it reached 101; Wednesday and Thursday, 98; Monday and Friday, 96, and Tuesday, 94 was the limit. The minimum temperature was 59, Sunday, 58 Monday and Thursday, 62 Tuesday, 52 Wednesday and Friday 52 and 49 Saturday. The wind blew from the northeast Sunday and Saturday; from the north Monday,

TOUGH CUSTOMER

TRAMP PRINTER WHO IS DOING "RAW" WORK.

In Addition to Working at the Printing Trade, He Stole Horses, Watches and "Worked" Every One Within Reach.

D. Thompson Edwards, alias Thompson, alias Parker, a tramp printer, canvasser, directory man and horse and sneak thief, did Pendleton briefly a few days ago and has passed down the line. He had Walla Walla, La Grande, Union and Baker City in view before he left here, but his sudden departure brought about by the advice of the local police, may have changed his intended future places of operation.

He landed in Pendleton on "blind baggage" transportation, according to his own statement, and said that he had just gotten out a special newspaper edition in Northern California, made a neat sum and blew it in in Portland. Anyway, he received help from the printers here, got work with some young men getting out a city directory, beat them out of about $10 in cash, stole a watch, and also stole stock from the stockroom of the East Oregonian to the value of about $10. He was cornered with the watch, put up a pitiful tale which kept down prosecution, but the police told him to move and he moved without delay.

He Was a Horse Thief.

It developed yesterday that the same man showed up in Salem about three months ago, secured employment as canvasser for the Pacific Homestead Company and was sent to work in the country, and was furnished a horse to ride. He has just been heard from, but the whereabouts of the horse is unknown, in spite of the fact that the Homestead offered a reward for his return. The authorities located him at Ashland later, and ordered his arrest, but he escaped into California and was not again heard from until he reached Pendleton. He gave his name as Salem as Thompson, at Ashland as Parker, and at Pendleton as D. Thompson Edwards.

He claimed here to be the founder of the first paper at Watsburg, Wash., and as he knew nearly everybody at that place who lived there in early days, he had doubtless been there. He also claimed to have a daughter near Ashland and a relative in Walla Walla engaged in the banking business.

What He Looks Like.

"Thompson" is an Englishman, about 50 years old, speaks the English with a decided accent. He is of medium height, weighs about 150 pounds, clean-shaven except moustach, has grey hair and brown eyes. Has a very pleasing address, wore a derby hat when here, but purchased a straw hat at this place. His object principally is to work newspaper men.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. N. Davis, of Milton, is in town. L. B. Reeder is in Walla Walla on business.

W. M. Zeller was in town Sunday from Adams.

C. D. Gabrielson is at Hotel Pendleton from Salem.

George Hartman, Jr. made a business trip to Weston Saturday evening.

William Frazier, expert operator for the Minneapolis Machine Company, is in town.

Miss Edna McGinn has returned home from Portland, where she has been attending school.

Lee Held and C. E. Macomber drove out to Birch creek Sunday, returning in the evening.

E. W. McComas, the grain buyer, returned Saturday evening from a business trip to Pomeroy.

Doc Maple and wife and Otis Turner and wife have returned from a week's sojourn at Seaside.

Mrs. C. B. Wade is at home after several weeks of vacation spent at Gladstone Park, and the coast.

M. A. Rader, the furniture man, went to La Grande Sunday to witness the slaughter of the Beet Pullers.

Mrs. Fred Waffle, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. William Kennedy, returned to her home at La Grande Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kunkel have gone to Upper McKay creek and are spending several days rustivating at Geo. Peebler's place.

Mrs. Charles W. Brownfield and daughter left this morning for Teal Springs, to spend a few days away from the hot valley sun.

J. A. Miller, son of A. Miller, of Pilot Rock, left Sunday for Colfax to visit a sister, Mrs. J. W. Arrow-smith. He will be gone several days.

L. T. Sebolt is at the Golden Rule hotel from Long Creek. Mr. Sebolt says Long Creek is lively at present and has a very bright prospect for the future.

Berkley Hailey and Blaine Hallock have returned from a hunting and fishing expedition in the Blue Mountains. They refrain from telling any big fish stories.

O. G. Chamberlain, justice of the peace for the Athena district, and N. H. Pinkerton, the horse dealer, of Athena, were at Hotel St. George Saturday and Sunday.

F. W. Valle, assistant superintendent of the railway mail service, and F. E. Whitney, chief clerk of the railway mail service, were in town last week from Portland.

Mrs. Ed Switzler will leave this evening for Portland, where she will join her husband, who went there yesterday. They will spend the warm months in Portland and on the coast.

Miss Flossie Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Davis, was voted the most popular young lady in town and received the gold watch given away by the merry-go-round people Saturday evening.

Charles Mays, a prominent merchant of Elgin, and brother of William Mays, of this city, spent Sunday in town on his way home, after a visit to relatives and friends in the east end of the county and Walla Walla.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Osborn, who have been making Pendleton their home for the past two months, Mr. Osborn being here looking after the wool shipping for the Erie Dispatch, which railroad he represents, will leave this evening for Portland to make their home.

W. P. Smith has returned from Lebanon, where he was called to the bedside of his sick father a week ago. His father, David Smith, was not expected to live for several days, but when Mr. Smith left he was much improved and his friends have hopes of his recovery.

Among those who attended the baseball game at La Grande Sunday were: Harry Thompson, Fred Lampkin, Ernest Younger, Charles Marsh, A. C. Halley, George Hartman, Sr., John Heathman, L. S. Wakefield and wife, F. Rounds and wife, Otto Boetker, Charles Cameron, Ernest Tatom, Lester Lewis and Joe Parkes.

James Christopher is in town from his Pullman home. He is here looking after the harvesting of several acres of grain he has in this county, and will remain several weeks before returning to Pullman to harvest his crop there. He says the wheat yield of that country is going to be immense, but it is several weeks later than here.

Lowe vs. Houser.

A suit was filed at the court house this forenoon by Samuel W. Lowe against Perry Houser, asking judgment against defendant for $365 and costs of suit. Plaintiff alleges as ground for suit that in December, 1901, Houser took 20 head of diseased hogs to his place on McKay creek, and as a result he lost nine hogs, worth $10 each, from the disease called hog cholera or swine plague. Plaintiff wants $250 for the damage to his place by the hogs being on it with the disease, making it unfit for hog raising, and $25 for burning and burying the dead hogs belonging to Houser. John McCourt is plaintiff's attorney.

Stephens-Hyde.

MAOURELLA UP AGAINST IT

NOT ONLY LOST HIS MONEY, BUT GOT A THRASHING.

Prof. Downs, His Ex-Manager, Landed Two Hot Blows in the "Terrible Turk's" Face and Sent Him to Grass.

Verily, Maourella, the "Terrible Turk" is having his share of troubles. While here a week ago he lost $50 in a wrestling match with Prof. Frank S. Lewis, a local bartender, and not being satisfied because he could not throw Lewis, challenged him for another bout for $100 a side. This challenge was accepted and the match was pulled off in Walla Walla Friday night. Lewis won again and the Turk, not yet satisfied that he could not down his antagonist, challenged him for another bout. This was accepted and the match set for Saturday night.

As the Turk was on his way to the hall and the anxious crowd were waiting in the gallery for the match to be pulled off he met his former manager, "Prof." Downs. The Turk accused Downs of owing him $1.25 and asked him for the money. Downs said he did not owe the big fellow any money and refused to pay. The Turk became abusive and Downs planted a blow on the face which felled the big wrestler to the sidewalk. The Turk arose and Downs planted a second blow on his face, knocking him down again. At this point the police interfered and "pinched" both men. This broke up the wrestling match.

Lewis waited on the stage for the Turk to appear but Maourella's manager could not get him out of jail. Consequently the match was called off and the gate receipts refunded. The Turk weighs 245 pounds and Downs only 170. It cost them $2.50 each to square themselves at the police station.
