COMMERCE-TRADE

NOT MUCH CHANGE REPORTED IN LOCAL MARKETS.

Hogs Are About the Only Thing to Change—Price of Beef Also Fluctuated—A Few Slight Changes in Other Markets.

The most marked change in the local markets since last week is in the hog market. One week ago hogs on foot were quoted at $5.25 a hundred, and today they are $6. Instead of being sold at 7 cents a pound from the block, pork has advanced to 8 cents. Steers have dropped a notch. On foot they were quoted at $3.80 and $3.90 last week and today they are $3.75 and $3.85. Cows have advanced from $3.10 to $3.25.

Other staple articles in the grocery line practically remain the same. No market has opened for wheat that can be called a staple market. A little has sold at 52 cents for export, but the markets will not open in earnest for another week.

Local Market Prices. The following shows the prices paid on the local market:

- Raspberries, $2.75 a crate.
- Blackberries, $2.25 a crate.
- Pineapples, $6 a dozen.
- Watermelons, $5 a dozen.

Portland Wheat Market.

Portland, July 29.—The Commercial Review, in its issue of today, says of the wheat market: Harvesting is progressing in all directions and farmers are paying more attention to field operations than to marketing. At least offerings are very small and receipts at this port decidedly light. However, within the next three weeks the movement will begin to increase and tonnage will shortly be coming in. The shipping season will be under way by the middle of September, but owing to the comparatively small amount of tonnage due to arrive within 30 days we cannot look for liberal export until October. From what we can learn, purchases of wheat against tonnage requirements are thus far extremely small, but there is plenty of wheat at tidewater to take care of the early arrivals. Farmers, no doubt, will sell freely at the opening of the season, and will not hold off until the last moment, as in previous years. Prices seem at present to be nearly on the basis of 50 cents per bushel in the interior, and many of the farmers are willing to dispose of their crops on this basis. Farmers will get full export value and should shippers' necessities become very urgent, competition might become so active that figures above relative values would be paid. But from the fact that there is not likely to be any important need of wheat before September and that there is always a certain number of holders who immediately sell upon the conclusion of harvest work, it seems more than probable that this season's buying will have accomplished more on the lines of actual export basis than in former years. Farmers will get all the market will stand after allowing for a legitimate profit for handling and usual risks of shipment.

Harvesting has already started at Walla Walla, and under the present conditions the crop throughout the Palouse and the Big Bend will be ready for harvesting by the end of this week. Reports from all parts of the country confirm the statement that the yield will be equal to that of last year.

The Central Washington and Lewiston and Clearwater branches report all kinds of grain in good condition, and the prospects are bright for a good crop. One thing that is gratifying to the farmers is the large area of wheat which has escaped the frosts this year. The frosts have caused heavy damages during past years. Prices at present: Club wheat, 63 @ 64c; bluestem, 65 @ 66c; valley, 64 @ 65c per bushel.

San Francisco Markets.

San Francisco, July 31.—Wheat—The new season has fairly opened up and shippers are free buyers in the country. Some lots have passed into their hands. Freight are lower and farmers will realize the benefit of the same. No. 1 shipping is quoted at $1.15 @ 1.17 1/2; milling, $1.20 to $1.22 1/2 @ 1.17.

The Wool Market.

Boston, July 31.—The wool market here is improving steadily and trade is very fair. Dealers look for even higher prices. Fine fleeces are firm. In Montana the new clip is selling readily. No wool is coming here at present except by consignment. The quotations: California—Northern choice, 19 @ 21c; Northern average, 16 @ 17c; middle county, 14 @ 15c; southern, 10 @ 12c; fall, 8 @ 12c. Oregon—Staples, 16 @ 17c; Eastern choice, 14 @ 15c; Eastern average, 12 @ 13c; valley, No. 1, 18 @ 19c. Territory—Idaho fine, 13 @ 14c; Idaho fine medium, 15 @ 16c; Wyoming fine medium, 15 @ 16c; Utah fine, 13 @ 14c; Utah fine medium, 16 @ 17c; Dakota fine, 13 @ 14c; Dakota fine medium, 15 @ 16c; Montana fine choice, 16 @ 17c; fine average, 14 @ 15c; fine medium choice, 17 @ 18c; Colorado, New Mexico, etc., fine, 10 @ 12c; fine medium, 12 @ 14c; coarse, 13 @ 14c.
