PROMOTER MELLMANN TALKS OF ITS PROGRESS.

Been Done During the Time They Have Been at it-No Trouble Feared in Getting Capital, from Spokane, where he had been to what was meant by the move he reinterest capitalists in his proposed plied: electric railroad from this city to Dayton. While in Spokane, Mr. several moneyed men in his scheme, such as Senator Turner and Colonel

No More Stock for Sale.

He stated further that after the 10th of next month all stock would work on the Walla Walla River and be removed from the market in this section of the country. "We just placed a block on the market so people could buy if they wanted to. I have no fear of being able to interest ample capital to construct the line. I expect a Mr. Kressly, representing tains, Pennsylvania electrical companies, here in a few days. He and I will make a trip the entire length of our line and will inspect the power sites. He will then make a report to his company on the practicability and probable success of the line.

Satisfied With Results.

"I feel very well satisfied with the amount of work already accomplished. Just three months ago today Mr. and began working out our plans. During that time we have secured all right to use county roads in Umatilla. Walla Walla and Columbia counties. Four water power sites have been se-

SHEEP MAN.

Rolls Down Mountain Side, Sustaining Fatal Injuries.

Thomas Sanders, a sheep man who formerly resided in Boise, is lying at his camp near Summit Flat, Boise county, fatally injured, according to advices received at Boise City Wed- evening for Weston to visit her panesday from Idaho City. It seems Romo and I came into this section, that Tuesday evening he was riding Mrs. Jake Betz and children are at horseback near Summit Flat, when the Golden Rule hotel from Walla his horse fell and rolled down the the franchises along the route, the mountain with him. Sanders was caught by ropes on his saddle and was unable to extricate himself. The horse rolled over him three times as they went down the steep mountain side, and kicked him viciously en route. Sanders, only partially conscious, walked a short distance to s camp. Some of his men came in a short time later and one was dispatched to Idaho City for Dr. Newell, who left at 4 p. m. Wednesday. Sanders stated he was fatally hurt but the pain was so intense that he wanted the assistance of a physician to aleviate it that he might die peacefully. Sanders is known to many chee; men as "Montana."

BLOODHOUNDS.

They Are Not Nearly so Fierce as Is Generally Believed.

The general resort to bloodhounds throughout the country for chasing criminals has brought out considerable discussion, and many ideas are 'Uncle Tom's Cabin" shows have an idea much overdrawn about the mastiffs, or curs that can be found, size and viciousness in appearance being greatest in demand, and this gives out the idea to the uninitiated that bloodhounds are terrors in size and vicious in habits. The name "blood" adds to forming this idea.

The truth is, the bloodhound is a very modest appearing animal, very and very small; that is, the bloodhound out of fiction and books, and the bloodhound that was used in capturing slaves and that is used today in tracking criminals.

The original bloodhound, and what may be called the pure breed, is described as "a breed of large and powerful dogs with long, smooth and pendulous ears, and remarkable for acuteness in smell." But in slavery time in this country this log was not was used in tracking slaves that would attack no one in a fight.

They merely kept the trail, baying might follow and take charge of the fugitives when overtaken. It was not the purpose to have vicious dogs tear the slaves to pieces, as this would

The purpose was to overtake runaways in the quickest time and recapture them with the least injury. Those who imagine Liza, in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," chased by vicious bloodhounds would have been surprised to have seen innocent-looking deer or foxhounds following on her trail, had her case been a true one, baying softly as they went running slowly so as to permit their master, or the patrolman to keep up with McNeil's Island.

The Aberdeen, Wash., Woodmen of the World, will hold a street carnival there from August 27-30.

HE WOULDN'T BE BUNCOED

BOUGHT WHISK FROM A WHITE AND THEN INFORMED.

Because the Quality of the Firewater Was Below Par He Told the Police Where to Catch Law-Breaker,

The Umatilla Indian reservation has an Indian who does not believe bloodhounds. In this drama the in being "buncoed" without getting bloodhounds are usually the largest even with the man who attempts to 'work" him.

> Thursday afternoon this ward of Uncle Sam went to City Marshal Blakley and told him a white man had sold him a bottle of whisky. The Indian was not feeling the best in the world toward the man who sold him the "firewater" as he said he paid 50 cents for the bottle, which was very small, and the contents were not fit to drink. He thought the man had not only charged him a big price for the liquor but had sold him an inferior quality.

Told Where to Hide.

The Indian told the marshal to hide at a certain place and he would buy another bottle from the same fellow where the marshal could see him used. A common black-and-tan hound and in that they way would entrap the fellow.

The marshal told Policeman Fee of the circumstances and he hid himself as they went, that the patrolmen to await developments. The Indian found his man, told him he wanted another bottle of "firewater" and where he would be to receive it. Accordingly, the unsuspecting fellow went to a saloon, procured the liquor, went to the place designated by the Indian, turned over the bottle to him 640 Acres of Wheat I and took the money. Policeman Fee who was watching the performance immediately stepped out from his hiding place and arrested the fellow.

He was placed in jail and gave his name as J. N. Smith. He is a transient and will await the action of United States Marshal Hailey and will be apt to get a few months on
