In the upper right-hand corner of page 5, this issue, is an advertisement that will save you money if you need anything there mentioned.

Some reports from the mountains are to the effect that grouse are quite plentiful and others say they are scarce. Quite a number of Pendleton's local sports left this morning to investigate these rumors for themselves.

At bedtime I take a pleasant herb drink, the next morning I feel bright and my complexion is better. My doctor says that it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys and is a pleasant laxative. It is made from herbs, and is prepared as easily as tea. It is called Lane's Medicine. Lane's Family Medicine moves the bowels each day. Price 25c and 50c. For sale by Tallman & Co., sole agents.

AN AWFUL FAKE.

Yet There Was One Man in Pendleton Who Bit at It.

Here the some fakirs left in Pendleton, likewise some "suckers." The latest scheme, however, to strike Pendleton intended to fleece the unwary, is the man with the receipt for exterminating insects.

His scheme looks easy enough for the easiest to detect, but one man was caught. The fakir told the fellow he had a scheme that would forever exterminate insects. He stated further that he would sell him this receipt for $3.50. The fellow bit, paid over his cash and received the receipt. The fakir then took his victim to a store and told him to purchase a gallon of coal oil and the same amount of fish oil, mix them together and he would have the exterminator. The man then began to "get wise" and asked what else was to be used. The smooth one said the receipt would tell that. Then the local man asked him if he was not going to furnish him with the stuff. The fakir told him no, he would not furnish him all the receipt for $1000. The uncooed man then demanded the return of his money, but the fakir softly replied: "Go to h—"

A policeman was informed of the trick and when the trickster was confronted with a possibility of getting before the court with a charge of obtaining money under false pretense, he returned the money. It is safe to say there is one man in Pendleton who will not bite at the next scheme coming along to exterminate insects.

Oregon's Dead.

Mrs. Mary Melson-Davidson, an Oregon pioneer of 1864, died Thursday night at Salem. She leaves a husband, one grown son, five sisters and one brother.

Dr. J. Rex Beyers, died at Salem Thursday of consumption, aged 25 years. He was well known and popular and had served through the Philippine campaign.

Henry G. Brown, an Oregon pioneer of 1862, died at his home near Elkton Wednesday at the age of 73 years. His wife died but two weeks ago. He was a brother of Hon. A. F. Brown, of Oakland. A son and three daughters survive him.

Widows, minors, dependent relatives: Harriet B. Mben, $20.00; Originals: Elihu Elliott, Sherwood, $6. Increase, raise, etc.; Hiram W. Dickey, Portland, $12; Daniel P. Sheppard, Seaside, $8; William B. Lousigout, Gales Creek, $8; Tipton Marion, Tigardville, $12. Widows, minors and dependent relatives: Rebecca A. Ottinger, Ballston, $8.

Diseased Sheep on Range.

The Union Scout says it is reported that a small bunch of diseased sheep is being ranged in near the head of the Little Minam, and if such is the case it will affect that entire range. This may be a bluff by some of the sheep men to keep owners from crowding on the range, but the Stock Inspector of Walla Walla county should look into the matter and protect the herds of our stockmen.

A Ministerial Change.

Rev. E. Hays, of Mayville, has gone to La Grande to fill the pulpit left vacant by the death of Rev. J. H. Miller, the pastor of the La Grande church, which occurred in Portland, on the 20th inst. HORSES POISONED.

Eating China Lettuce Kills Stock Near Walla Walla.

The announcement comes from Walla Walla that several head of horses have died in the valley from eating China lettuce. It is said this weed is very poisonous and is found frequently in summer fallow, where stock is run to eat off the weeds and keep the summer fallow clean. One prominent man claims to have lost seven head from this weed and several others are said to have died from the same cause.

A Hobby, Not a Horse.

At a raucous political meeting Representative Sibley, of Pennsylvania, who had been elected once on the democratic ticket for the same district, was fiercely reproached for changing his politics. "You, people who stick to the tenet of 16 to 1," replied Sibley when it came his turn to speak, "remind me of a man I once saw in a lunatic asylum. He was capering through the hall astride of a broomstick. 'Ah, ha,' I said to him, thinking to be pleasant, 'I see you are having a fine ride on a horse.' 'This isn't a horse,' he replied. 'It's a hobby,' he replied. 'If it was a horse I could get off.'"

Herbert C. Hoover, an Oregon boy, formerly a resident of Portland, has won a high place as a civil and mining engineer in Australia.
