William Cornelius, an Oregon pioneer of 1843, died at his home near Mountaldale Saturday evening. He left a widow and family of adult children.

Fire broke out in the office of the McMinnville News Saturday night and destroyed the building and greater portion of the printing plant. Loss almost entirely covered by insurance.

Long Creek Ranger:—Long Creek is to have races this fall. Purses will be hung to the amount of nearly $1000 and a big time is expected. The track is being put in condition for the event and things are shaping for a grand meet.

Miles Barber, a farmer living at Marion, lost a leg and will probably lose his life as a result of an accident while unloading hay with a hay fork. His team, a pair of wild bunch-grass horses, started to run; his foot became entangled in the rope of the hay fork throwing him in such a manner as to shatter the leg.

Des Chutes Echo:—The rush for timber location continues unabated. A party of 20 Minneapolis people and one of five persons from Portland arrived Tuesday evening on their way to the timber belt above this point. It is not probable that a single desirable claim will be open by the first of September.

SIDEWALKS OF PENDLETON

THEIR CONDITION ON RESIDENTIAL STREET IS BAD.

Something Should Be Done to Put Them in Shape Before City Goes Up Against a Damage Suit.

Considerable complaint is heard among residents of this city, and universal comment is excited among visitors to Pendleton regarding the condition of the sidewalks on the streets of this town.

Along the main streets there are a very fair lot of walks, but immediately one gets off the principal business streets he is struck, and sometimes quite forcibly, by the unkept condition of the walks.

The board walks consist of a number of old and decayed 2x4 nailed to the beams which have rotted with the years which have passed over and weathered them since they received any attention.

The spikes with which they were fastened into place have become loosened and are generally sticking up about one or two inches above the level of the walk, to catch the feet of the unwary who travel along without watching every step.

Planks Are Weak.

Planks which have decayed so much as to break through under the weight of any but those who tread lightly are as common as wild briar roses in June and the general condition of the walks in residential portions of the city is such as to cause wonderment among visitors who note the beautiful lawns, the broad streets, the long lines of magnificent shade trees which border them, and the utter lack of respectability of the sidewalks.

But Little Work Needed.

A little work with a sledge hammer and a few planks replaced would place most of the residence street walks in very fair shape. Why this is not attended to is a question. Does the fault lie with the people who reside on the streets, or does it lie with the board of public works?

No matter where it lies, it is time some movement was made toward placing the walks in better condition. Unless something is done and that shortly some one is bound to be severely injured on the dilapidated walks and then the city will be up against a damage suit. "A stitch in time saves nine." Let something be done to the walks.

TWO ACCIDENTS.

Blast Exploded With Serious Results; and a Harvester Hurt.

Two accidents were reported this morning by Dr. C. J. Smith. One was not so serious, while the other was quite serious. This was J. Cronin. He was working with other men at the upper river bridge, on the Byers mill race. They were blasting out rock when a blast exploded too close to Mr. Cronin and he was hit in the head by flying stones.

His head was cut and bruised quite badly. He was taken to the sister's hospital, where his wound was dressed and he was made as comfortable as possible.

The other injury was to the hand of a harvest worker named Amos. Mr. Amos was working with Mr. Christopher's threshing crew, 12 miles north of town and got his finger caught in the machinery. It was badly crushed and mangled.

Just Received by the Pendleton Commercial Association.

The Pendleton Commercial Association has just received some very valuable literature in the shape of a geologic atlas of the United States. They were sent out gratis by the department of the interior, United States geological survey, under the supervision of Charles D. Walcott. The atlas are several in number and each contains many different things about the country it represents, which is of great value to the student or the man who is looking for information of any kind from different counties, states and territories. The present bunch contains the history of Georgia, Alabama, Indian Territory, West Virginia and Texas. They have maps showing the different formations of the country, rock, mineral, gravel, dirt, etc., and give the people the minutest details about the country.

In addition to the atlas, several interior bulletins have been received.
