Granite Gem:—Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gilliam, of Pilot Rock, accompanied by Mr. Oliver, a Pendleton merchant, arrived here Tuesday. They will remain here a month or so, while Mr. Gilliam does the assessment work on several valuable claims he owns in the Greenhorns, among them being the rich Ben Harrison mine.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Simonds and son, Holbert, of Madison, Maine, are visiting their son E. C. Simonds, in the Hudson Bay country. They will leave for Astoria and Seattle Wednesday, accompanied by Mr. E. C. Simonds and family and will be gone about ten days. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Simonds say this is a wonderful country and they are greatly pleased with it.

A NEW ORGANIZATION.

German Society Has Changed Its Name and Takes New Form.

A new organization has been organized in Pendleton. It is the Eintracht Society, but under the new rules of things changes its name to the Eintracht Lodge, and instead of only being a local organization, is now under a national charter and works just the same as any secret society.

The new order starts out with 35 charter members and has a bright future before it. Those elected to run the business of the organization for the ensuing term are:

Valentine Stroble, president; Conrad Platzoeder, vice-president; W. O. Hamisch, corresponding secretary; N. Joerger, financial secretary; Fred Walter, banker; Ed Besthorn, flhrer; H. Rellinghous, inside guard; Aug. Stanger, outside guard; trustees, Joe Basler, J. J. Balleray, F. W. Koeppen; financial committee, Anton Nolte, William House, P. Medernach. William Herrmann and G. Lantersthreger, were up from Portland and helped to organize the lodge. The members will meet in their hall in the Association block, each first and third Tuesday in the month.

ELK FOR OREGON

PROPOSITION TO STOCK THE STATE WITH THE ANIMALS.

At a Meeting of Game Wardens in Yellowstone Park, It Was Proposed to Bring Some 2000 of the big Deer to This State.

State Game Warden Quimby has just returned from the meeting of the state game wardens in Yellowstone Park. Warden Quimby thinks the meeting of the wardens will be productive of much good toward the protection and propagation of game in the several states of the Union.

The next meeting of the game wardens will be held at the same point, June 15, 1903, and at that time an effort will be made to have every state represented. This was the first meeting, and consequently was only preliminary. It was represented by the wardens of Oregon, Montana, Colorado, Minnesota, Wyoming and Utah.

Officers Elected.

W. T. Scott, game warden of Montana, was elected president for the ensuing year; G. W. Harris, of Denver, was chosen vice-president, and Game Warden Smith, of Minnesota, secretary. The sessions were held at the schoolhouse at Fort Yellowstone, and extended over two days.

Deprecatory Resolutions.

Resolutions were passed deprecating the practice of spring shooting of water fowl and against the exposing for sale of game of any kind. A copy of this resolution will be submitted to the various state legislatures, with the suggestion that laws be framed in conformity. This step, in the opinion of the convention, will be necessary to save the game of the country from extermination.

A communication was also framed and addressed to the great Ornel of Elks, which is to have a convention at Salt Lake City next month. The order will be asked to substitute some other emblem than elks' teeth for their badges, in view of the onslaught of hunters on the park elks which are killed for their teeth alone.

Elks' Teeth Valuable.

"The value of elks' teeth," Mr. Quimby said, "has advanced tremendously since the order has become so popular, and incidents were related at our convention where a pair of teeth were sold for $120. These teeth were exceptionally precious because of their shape and color, but $25 is not a high price for a single elk's tooth these days.

"The elks of Yellowstone Park are driven or coaxed outside the boundaries of the reserve, where they are slain by the hundreds in spite of the soldiers, two companies of whom are kept busy watching for poachers and keeping down fires. If the great Order of Elks should, in the interest of the preservation of these noble animals, agree to change its emblem to something else, the incentive to kill these park elk would be largely destroyed."

Bring Elk to Oregon.

"Yet there are 25,000 head of elk in the park and they are keeping the grass on the range eaten down. If Oregon could obtain about 2000 of these to turn into her forests, we would soon be able to obtain elk meat without danger of exterminating the animals. I will write to our delegation in congress in regard to this matter and urge the shipment of a goodly number out here. The elk are tame, as they are not hunted in the park and they could easily be shipped in stock cars this far."

AFTER TIMBER LANDS.

Residents of Willamette Valley Country in Search of Eastern Oregon Land.

The rush for Eastern Oregon timber lands continues. A party of 12 left Portland Monday evening on the way to Prineville, Eastern Oregon, where they will be joined by between 20 and 30 other people, all of whom are going to prove up on timber lands near Prineville.

The fever for taking up timber lands has seized residents of the Willamette valley cities with a malignant hand, says the Portland Telegram. It is reported that since May some 250 people have been taken to Crook county lands and located on quarter sections. The time for proving up has arrived, and parties are on their way to make their final testimony before the commissioner at Prineville by train and by wagon. It will be but a short time before deeds will be secured, but there is much red tape in the examination. Several days ago a number of people, including women, started for the other side of the Cascades, traveling in wagons.

A large number reached Portland Sunday, and all will go out by train this evening, changing to the Columbia Southern at Biggs station, and staging in from Shaniko. It is a long and wearisome trip, but the speculators are refreshed by the prospect of being sure of their holdings, which are said to contain some of the finest sugar pine in the state.

The land is level and easily accessible.

Eugene, Albany, Salem, Corvallis and other Valley towns have contributed several thousand dollars to the wealth of timber locators within the past three months, and among them are, naturally, a few frauds. All the Crook county claims are taken up.

HART WAS CRUEL.

And Now His Wife Would Slip Off Shackles of Matrimony.

Lulu M. Hart has filed suit against her husband, George A. Hart, for divorce. She alleges that they were married in Baker City in 1897. In 1899 defendant began a course of cruel and inhuman treatment which made life unbearable for plaintiff. This was kept up until May, 1902, when she could not bear it any longer and deserted him.

She alleges that he repeatedly threatened her life and would threaten to knock her down or slap her face in the presence of others. He snubbed her and did all he could to make life miserable for her. He also cursed and used vile epithets to her, accusing her of being false to him, which accusation was without foundation. He kept her in constant fear of her life and she left him for fear he would do her bodily harm. They have two children, a boy aged 4, and a girl aged 2. Reeder & Perry are plaintiff's attorneys.

LIVE STOCK FOR WORLD'S FAIR.

United States Senator Harris in Europe as a Special Commissioner for the Exposition.

World's Fair, St. Louis, Aug. 5.—United States Senator William A. Harris, of Kansas, is aboard the steamship Majestic on his way to Europe in the interest of the World's Fair, having been appointed special commissioner to organize the Live Stock exhibit.

Senator Harris has been interested many years in breeding cattle, particularly shorthorns in Kansas, and he proposes to visit the principal stock breeders of the European countries before his return with a view of securing the best representation of fine domestic animals ever sent abroad. It is expected that the herds of King Edward of England will be secured for exhibit. These herds belonged to Queen Victoria. The various livestock associations and journals will be asked to co-operate with him to bring about the most valuable results for the livestock interests. Canada has long been an exhibitor at the important livestock shows of the United States, but such a thing as a large importation of blooded stock from distant countries for exhibit purposes has never been undertaken.

Senator Harris is familiar with the livestock interests of European countries, having been many times abroad for purposes of inspection and study, and understands the possibilities in an international livestock exhibit. Not less than 25 acres will be set apart at the World's Fair for the livestock exhibit and $100,000 will be expended in the construction of stock pavilions.

Captain George W. Thatcher, commissioner-in-chief of the Colorado World's Fair commission, is arranging for a great exhibit of mining machinery at the World's Fair on a plot of land 200x700, near the palace of Mines and Metallurgy.

MRS. VAN ORSDALL RE-ELECTED

She Will Be at Head of Women of Woodcraft for Two More Years.

Mrs. Ada C. Ross received a telegram today from her sister, Mrs. Carrie C. Van Orsdall, who is attending the meeting of the grand managers of the Women of Woodcraft, stating that she had again been elected grand guardian of the order. The election was unanimous, she having no opposition. J. L. Wright was re-elected grand clerk by the same unanimous vote.

This election for Mrs. Van Orsdall means that she holds the office two more years. She has been grand guardian for the Women of Woodcraft for the past five years and her success again shows her popularity, and the confidence placed in her by the members of the order.
