A WEEK'S WEATHER.

What the Weather Man Handed Out to Pendletonians.

It was hot in Pendleton last week. The lowest maximum temperature for any day was Sunday, when it was 90 in the shade. The hottest was Thursday, when it reached 104. Following is the weather report as compiled by Voluntary Weather Observer Hilton: The maximum temperature was: Sunday, 90; Monday, 97; Tuesday, 98; Wednesday, 103; Thursday, 104; Friday, 102; Saturday, 96. Minimum temperature: Sunday, 56; Monday, 49; Tuesday, 50; Wednesday, 53; Thursday, 65; Friday, 58; Saturday, 56.

The wind blew from the west Sunday and Saturday, from the northwest Monday and Friday, from the north Tuesday and Thursday and from the northeast Wednesday. Each day was clear.

A Summer-Time Stove.

A wonderful contrivance which turns air of a temperature of 100 degrees in an instant to a temperature which is below the freezing point, and operated by no power save the air itself, stands in a room at the headquarters of the United States weather bureau in Washington. The inventor, Willis L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau, is glad to allow anybody that calls to look at it and feel the delicious cool air it gives off. In a few weeks more the foreign patents that are now pending will have been secured and the public will be welcome to examine the interior as well as the exterior of the machine that promises to become a factor of no mean importance in furnishing not only comfort to humanity in general, but aid to the manufacturing world where room temperature is an item in the protection of goods. The gravity cooler not only puts cool air into a room, but makes it pure and dry. A dust storm may be raging outside and the particles be taken in through the receiving pipe, but the air will come forth perfectly pure. Actual experiments have proven time and again that the air comes out drier than it goes in.—A. S. Johnson, in Everybody's Magazine.
