RAILWAY TICKETS

THEY ARE THE CHEAPEST THING PURCHASABLE.

Figures Regarding Some Excursion Rates Recently Offered by Great Railways in the East.

To the student of economy who takes time to compare values, and to the man who don't have time to spare but prefers to have such problems worked out and set before him, the following comparison of railway fares with other purchasable commodities, is perhaps interesting. The oft repeated phrase: "The railway fare is the smallest part of the cost," has become almost idiomatic. It originated with the American people and is based on fact. There is no other purchasable commodity so cheap in comparison.

Should we take into consideration the most important value of travel, i. e., the moral value, the comparison would necessarily end; for it is travel that broadens one's sphere and enlarges one's earning capacity. Hence the interest on the investment from that standpoint precludes comparison. Therefore, it is with the intrinsic value of the railroad ticket in dollars and cents that this article has to deal, and particularly with the "excursion ticket."

At all seasons of the year the railroad name excursion rates to various parts of the country; in fact, to the very points to which the bulk of travel is directed according to the season. It is then, particularly, the railroad ticket becomes the cheapest thing that can be purchased. For example, take any of the great conventions that are held throughout the year and particularly in the spring, summer and fall, when the railroads name "one fare" for the round trip "from all points on the line." More specifically, take the National Encampment of the G. A. R., which will be held at Washington next October, and figure out what a small amount of money will purchase.

"Special low rates from all points" is the talismanic phrase which invites direct attention, and an examination into the rates from distant points, as announced by the Baltimore & Ohio lines, fully bears out the foregoing statements.

The rate from Chicago to Washington and return is $15.85 for a journey of 1584 miles by the shortest route, or for the low rate of one cent a mile, the rate from St. Louis is $17.90 for the round trip for 1788 miles; from Cincinnati, $11.10 for 1106 miles; from Columbus, $10.00 for 942 miles; from Pittsburg, $8.00 for 604 miles.

Do you keep a horse or do you ride twice a day on the street cars? How does the cost of the railroad ticket compare with your other investments, taking into consideration the accommodations received and the distance traveled? You are purchasing more than you ride. You are purchasing a desired privilege or object you wish to attain; in other words, a commodity.

Presuming then, you have your ticket and have realized a profit on your first investment, investigate fully what you are getting for your money. This particular ticket to Washington permits stopping off at certain designated points, not granted at other times. These stopovers have a direct relationship to the purpose for which the special rate ticket was issued. Permission is given to stop off in each direction at Oakland, Mountain Lake Park and Deer Park, Maryland, the three most delightful summer resorts in the Allegheny Mountains. In addition to which you may choose any other one point on the Baltimore & Ohio lines east of the Ohio river en route to or from Washington within the return limit of your ticket. Furthermore, you are given a choice of four days on which to start your journey—October 3, 4, 5 or 6—and the ticket is valid for return until October 14. But should you desire a longer limit you have the additional privilege of having the limit extended to leave Washington at any time between October 7 and 14 and paying a fee of 50 cents.

But this is not all. During the encampment a number of side trips have been planned for the investor, for which, instead of being offered at the regular rate of fare, the rate has been reduced one-half in almost every case. A long list of battlefields and prominent cities is designated. The rates are named from Washington or from some other point on the regular route reached by branch lines. The points selected are those which are most likely the ones to be desired by the purchaser, namely: Beverly, W. Va.; Gettysburg, Pa.; Keedysville, (Antietam), Md.; Mt. Vernon, Va. (Washington's home and tomb); Norfolk, Va.; Old Point Comfort, Va.; Phillips, W. Va.; all the Virginia battlefields in the Shenandoah Valley via Harper's Ferry or Shenandoah Junction, Hagerstown and Frederick, Md.

Chester, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; Newark, N. J.; Wilmington, Del., and New York City and Atlantic City.

Summarizing, the purchaser of an excursion ticket to Washington next October gets a railroad ticket which takes him there and back, carries his baggage free, permits him to stop off at four places, either going or returning or both, without charge; puts him in position to reach other places he desires to visit and at an equally low cost, and allows him 30 days to do it all in.

No greater investment can be offered to the traveling public, from a money point of view, to say nothing of the opportunity offered to make a patriotic pilgrimage to the National Capital on an auspicious occasion for a comparatively insignificant sum.

As an educator there is no other trip in America that can equal it mathematically, geographically or historically. As a pleasure it certainly abounds with almost every opportunity, and, as a purchasable commodity, it is "within the reach of all."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it to be a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly falling to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. GREAT MEETING OF KNIGHTS

MEMBERS OF ORDER HAVING BIG TIME AT 'FRISCO.

Followers of Motto of F. B. and C. are Enjoying Themselves at Golden Gate Town.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 11.—Twenty-five thousand members of the order of the Knights of Pythias, about half of whom are members of the uniform rank have arrived to attend the biennial meeting of the various branches of the order. It is estimated that before the gathering is regularly opened tomorrow 50,000 representatives of the order will be in the city.

The Union Ferry depot has been converted into a great exhibition hall filled with the choicest fruits, flowers and other products of California. Every county of the state has an exhibit and here the visitors congregate in throngs to receive boxes of seedless raisins, pieces of quartz and other free souvenirs of the gathering.

Members of the order who have attended all or most of the previous national gatherings declare with enthusiasm that the decorations of San Francisco eclipse all former displays. On Market street alone there are 15 courts of honor. Each of these courts is brilliantly illuminated at night with hundreds of electric lamps, the central feature of the design being an immense illuminated emblem of the order, such as the knight on horseback, the shield, helmet or battle-axe. The grand court of honor, at the intersection of Market, Third, Kearney and Geary streets, is a masterpiece of electrical art and forms the most brilliant display of the kind ever seen on the coast. Other notable features of the decorations are the city hall dome, the dome of the Ferry building and the Claus Spreckels building.

Today the camp of the uniform rank, with its 2,000 tents, was formally turned over to James R. Carnahan, major-general of the order. The uniformed members of the order appeared by brigades before the headquarters of the major-general and saluted the commanding officer. Another feature of the day was the opening meeting of the Imperial Palace of the Knights of Khorassan, the spectacular branch of the order. There was a costume parade of the members, after which the Imperial Palace went into session behind closed doors, the presiding officer being Imperial Prince, Frank H. Clarke, of Detroit.

Governor Gage will formally welcome the members of the order to the state at the opening of the supreme lodge. An unusual amount of business is to come before the legislative body, which is expected to be in session several days after the uniform rank has gone home. The annual reports of the officers show the order's affairs in general to be in satisfactory condition. The questions of revenue, the officers say, is one of the most important to come before the convention. A number of changes proposed in the laws of the order will also be discussed. Among them is a proposition to have the officers of the subordinate lodges chosen annually instead of semi-annually; to make the maximum fee for a transfer card a dollar; to allow the supreme assembly of the uniformed rank to nominate its own major-general, the supreme lodge to confirm the choice and to allow the grand lodges to lower the initiation fees at their discretion.

In addition to these things an important matter will be the report of the board of control of the insurance branch of the order. It is asserted that a year ago the affairs of the endowment rank were in bad shape with about $50,000 worth of death claims unpaid. Last July a special meeting was held and new officers were selected to get things in shape again. The reports of these officers will show that since July nearly all of the outstanding claims have been settled and that the affairs of the endowment rank are rapidly being put in excellent condition.

Tomorrow will be Oakland day on the week's program and thousands of knights and other visitors will go to that city where elaborate plans have been made for their reception and entertainment. There will be literary exercises, a parade and other interesting features.

Contest Among Rathbone Sisters.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 11.—The Knights of Pythias, with their helmets and plumes and clanking swords are not allowed to monopolize attention in San Francisco this week. The members of the Rathbone Sisters, the women's branch of the order, are here in force and their biennial session promises to be one of the most interesting features of the entire gathering. There is a spirited contest on for the office of supreme chief of the supreme temple, in succession to Mrs. Dell Phillips Glazier, of Fort Madison, Iowa. The Illinois delegation is conducting an active campaign in behalf of the candidacy of Mrs. Belle Quinlan, of Galesburg, Ill., who is one of the leading candidates.

The most important business of the meeting will relate to the insurance branch of the order, of which Mrs. Quinlan is the secretary. This position has given her a widespread acquaintance, and her friends count upon it for her success when the balloting begins for supreme chief.
