THE MODERN DRUGGISTS - PENDLETON

SATURDAY, AUGUST 16, 1902.

HAS SALVATION ARMY
SERVED ITS PURPOSE.

The question is now current among practical people as to whether or not the Salvation Army has served its purpose, and should be disbanded. Any one who stands upon such a proposition would meet with all kinds of endorsement on one side and condemnation on the other. The religious element generally still indorses the Salvation Army, but the irreligious, the practical people, have never taken as strongly to it as they should.

The newspapers and the practical public have long looked upon the Salvation Army as a harmless organization with the idea that it possibly did more good than harm. The idea prevails among the most enlightened that the Salvation Army catches people that cannot be caught otherwise; that it works a class into good behavior that otherwise would go to the dogs, if not already gone to the dogs. It brings out the idea that there is certain chaff floating around that is caught in this way that would escape and go to that place where it burns brightly, and burns for all time to come.

It has always been the policy of the East Oregonian to say nothing and let this institution do all it could in the community. It would not throw an obstacle in its way. If there is any good to be accomplished let it be done. Let it come through what source it may. But East Oregonian is liberal; it is practical; it does not believe in fakes; it does not believe in tearing down; it believes always in doing the right thing under all conditions and circumstances.

If the Salvation Army is still doing good it should go on with the good work, but if it has served its purpose, then it should retire, retreat, or disband, whatever its military ritual might call it. There is no longer room for useless things. It is a day of practical things. Sentiment is rapidly dying out. All manner of foolishness and sentimentality is going to the wall. Nothing living without merit should be permitted to live in that way. It should get on merit's side.

As to the Salvation Army, it is claimed that it is now living by begging on a high scale; that it cost a great deal more to keep its people in the ranks than the amount it expended for charity; that fine uniforms, comforts of life and all of those things are first looked to, and if there is anything left it goes to charity. It is claimed that a case of charity is rarely found where it has been administered to by the Salvationists; that they first look after their own comfort. It is claimed that the officers now ride the latest improved bicycles, on their begging tours and that unless their uniforms are bright and glistening, they implore the public to contribute to help the unfortunate.

To tell the truth, it is charged that the Salvation Army of today is composed of a foreign class, which is irresponsible in every way generally, and have only joined it because it is a profitable way of begging and living a high life without work; that it has turned into a burden upon the public—especially the Christian public—and that it is now a detriment to the Christian religion and to society instead of a beneficial organization.

East Oregonian has not one word to say against the Salvation Army, or any other cause that is promising to be good, but if the charges made against it are true, it ought to be suppressed.

Nothing should be condemned through prejudice; neither should anything be endorsed through sentiment alone.

The coal miners rested on their oars yesterday. It may be now that future blood-shed may be avoided by some kind of a compromise. This long drawn out strike is one of the most unfortunate occurrences in these prosperous times.

It would be a great joke if the republicans should split up again when the next legislature meets and elect a democratic senator. They would certainly do it in preference to electing Harvey Scott.

The baseball game between Walla Wallians and the Pendletonians will be a warm one through the entire coming series. Everyone in Pendleton should go over and see the Pendleton boys do their duty.

Senator Fulton doubtless has all rights to the senatorial seat should republicans do their duty, but they have never been known to do this in their past history.

The Ringling Bros. and the Buffalo Bill shows are creating enough attention in the country to crowd out the Tracy excitement. It is well to have diversion occasionally.

It looks as if Uncle Sam would have to take Venezuela as he has the other "infants abroad." The truth is Uncle Sam will sooner or later take in the whole world.

Oregon should not forget the Spokane fair. Washington and Oregon have identical interests and they should always pull together.

THE TRUST PROBLEM.

In response to an inquiry from the Washington Post concerning the report that he has been selected by President Roosevelt to prepare an administration bill for submission to congress next winter for the regulation of trust, Congressman Littlefield replied: "I am not prepared to make any statement relative to proposed legislation."

The reply virtually admits that he is to be spokesman for the administration, for were he acting for himself alone as a representative in congress he could have no objection to making known his views. He has twice presented bills for the regulation of trusts and consequently must have fixed convictions on the subject. His disinclination to speak therefore can hardly arise from any other source than the fact that at the coming session of congress he is to act under the responsibility of a representative of the administration.

Such being the case, it is natural that persons interested in the subject should look up Mr. Littlefield's record and learn from what course he has hitherto followed in trying to solve the trust problem. It is evident that in selecting him to take the lead in legislation of this kind the president must have been influenced by what Mr. Littlefield has already advocated, and consequently a study of the views of the congressman can hardly fail to give some insight into the president's idea on the issue.

While the plan may not accurately forecast the administration bill which Mr. Littlefield is now supposed to be preparing, it doubtless gives the general policy which will be pursued. It presents a conservative and at the same time an effective step toward grappling with such evils as have attended the development of the trusts. While it is not to be expected that it will in every particular find universal favor it will be more satisfactory to the country than mere denunciations of trusts such as the democratic demagogues are now making in their platforms. Thus on the trust issue the republican party is in good shape. It can meet the opposition with a good record on that question and with the assurance that new legislation will be provided to meet what ever evils are not susceptible of remedy by the present laws.—San Francisco Call.

THE STRUGGLE IN FRANCE.

The widespread rioting in France in connection with the closing of the religious schools is likely to create an antagonism between republicans and clericals that will not disappear for many years, but in spite of the resistance to the enforcement of the new laws, the authorities seem disposed to persevere and will not desist until the "unauthorized congregations," as they are called, have been completely wiped out.

The drastic legislation of last year grew out of the old conflict between the clericals and the republicans, new energy having been imparted to it by the Dreyfus affair. Members of the religious orders were prominent among the anti-Dreyfusites, and it was found that a large section of the army officers, educated at the schools of the religious orders, were secretly hostile to the republic. These manifestations of strength, together with what was thought to be an alarming growth of property caused the passage of laws looking to the destruction of the offensive orders.

The law has nothing to do with the clergy of the practice of religion in general. It aims to prohibit associations that are declared to be hostile to public order, good morals, to the national unity and to the republican form of government. Recently the new premier, M. Combes, proceeded to enforce the law as it affects schools conducted by unauthorized orders. These schools, it is said, have an attendance of at least 150,000 pupils, and it was natural to expect that there would be resistance where so many families were affected. Whether the law is just or not, the recent elections in France showed that a majority of the people support it, and that the political, social and economic influence of the great religious orders will be deprived of the power to oppose the policies and tendencies of the present republican government.—Spokesman Review.

A Quinault reservation Indian named Johnson, took a shot at Dr. Cox, of the reservation, because the latter forced the Indian to surrender a bottle of whisky he had in his possession.

Starting and Staying.

At the start in a long race, the advantage often appears to be with an outsider. But the race is won not in starting but in staying. The quality which wins is staying power. It is so in the race of life. Staying power wins, and as a rule the best stayer is the man with the best stomach. All physical strength is derived from food which is properly digested and assimilated. When the food eaten is only partly digested and assimilated there is a loss of nutrition which means a loss of strength and the general result is physical break-down.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery gives strength and staying power, because it cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of the food eaten, and so strengthens the body naturally by the nutrition derived from food.

"I was troubled with indigestion for about two years," writes Wm. Bowker, Esq., of Julietta, Latah Co., Idaho. "I tried different doctors and remedies but to no avail, until I wrote to you and you told me what to do. I suffered with a pain in my stomach and left side and thought that it would kill me. Now I am glad to write this and let you know that I am all right. I can do my work now without pain and I don't have that tired feeling that I used to have. Five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and two vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets' cured me."

Accept no substitute for Golden Medical Discovery. There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are easy and pleasant to take. A most effective laxative.

A PRETTY POSTMISTRESS NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH.

Was Given Up to Die--Eight Doctors Failed--Pe-ru-na Saved Her Life.

THOUSANDS of women suffer from systemic catarrh. This is sure to produce such symptoms as cold feet and hands, sick headache, palpitation of the heart and heavy feelings in the stomach.

Then begins a series of experiments with medicine. They take medicine for sick headache. They take medicine for nervous prostration, for palpitation of the heart, for dyspepsia. None of these medicines do any good because they do not reach the cause of the complaint.

Peruna at once mitigates all these symptoms by removing the cause.

Systemic catarrh is the trouble. Systemic catarrh pervades the whole system, deranges every organ, weakens every function. No permanent cure can be expected until the systemic catarrh is removed.

This is exactly what Peruna will do. Miss Alma Cox, Assistant Postmistress of Orup, S. C., writes:

"I have been a great sufferer from chronic disease and dyspepsia for five years. How I suffered no tongue can tell. I tried eight or ten of the best physicians without receiving much benefit, also tried lots of patent medicines. But still I suffered with sick headache, cold feet and hands, palpitation of the heart, and such a heavy feeling in my stomach and chest. At times I would be so nervous I could not bear anyone around me. I had been given up to die.

"One day a friend sent me one of Dr. Hartman's pamphlets, and I decided to write to him. He advised Peruna and Manalin, and after taking the medicine two weeks I felt greatly relieved. My head did not pain me any sorely, and my stomach was relieved of its heavy feeling. I am so thankful that I can say after using several bottles of the Peruna and Manalin I am restored to perfect health.

"Before using your remedies I could not eat anything. I lived on barley water and Panopeptin for two years. Now I can eat with pleasure. Everybody is so surprised at my improvement. Everyone says I am looking like a rose. I would advise all suffering women to take your remedies. I know if it were not for Peruna and Manalin I would have been in my grave to-day. I cannot thank you enough for the kind advice you have given me."—MISS ALMA L. COX.

Senator M. C. Butler, ex-Governor of South Carolina, writes from Washington, D. C., the following:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period, and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine, and besides a great tonic."—M. C. Butler.

Peruna restores health in a normal way.

Peruna puts right all the mucous membranes of the body, and in this way restores the functions of every organ.
