HOME COUNTY NEWS

ADAMS NEWS.

The Advance Contains the Following Briefs.

Dan McKenzie spent Tuesday at Pendleton.

Pete Murray spent Wednesday at Pendleton.

Smith Alloway, of Pendleton, is in this section looking after the harvesting of his crop south of town.

Yesterday morning the horses working on Charles Carpenter's combine were frightened by a dog and ran away. The driver, Charles Darr, got control of his team after they had run about a hundred yards. The machine was not badly damaged, all repairs being made by evening.

J. D. Neibergall, last Sunday on W. S. Ferguson's place, threshed with his steam combine 1165 sacks.

Frank Martin is laid up for repairs this week with three damaged ribs, the result of being thrown from a hack.

Miss Mary Darr, Miss Dora Darr and Miss Stella Lieuallen took a teacher's examination at Pendleton this week.

Harvesting is progressing rapidly in this section and grain is giving a general average of from 35 to 38 bushels per acre.

Meacham Mention.

Meacham, Aug. 18.—The weather for the past few days has been more than moist and the continued rains are driving the campers away in crowds. Nearly every train which can be induced to stop, is loaded with homeward bound tenters. It looks as though the fall rains had set in in earnest.

Mrs. Wade and Mrs. Cranston, of Pendleton, were visitors at Meacham Sunday.

The stockyards here have been the scene of considerable noise and excitement during the past few days several thousand sheep having been loaded for shipment to Chicago.

A number of Meachamites were enticed to La Grande last week by the glaring posters of Ringling Bros.' shows. Arriving there, they were detained two days by the failure of trains to arrive westbound.

Mrs. Sutcliffe, who has been summering here for her health, left Sunday night for The Dalles, where she will remain for a week or two before going south for the winter.

The cord wood crop this season will fall several hundred cords short of what was cut last year.

Excursionists continue to come up from Pendleton every Sunday, but the number is now growing small.

MILTON EAGLE'S VERSION.

Of the Escape of Clay J. Gordon, the Young Attorney.

Clay J. Gordon, erstwhile city attorney, erstwhile attorney for the Washington & Oregon Electric Railway and Power Co., etc., etc., is gone and the places which knew him once will probably know him no more. His going has left divers and sundry aching voids in the pocket books of different business men of Milton.

Cut a Big Swath.

Mr. Gordon came to Milton about four months ago and announced his intention of practicing his profession, law. He is a young man about 25 years of age, of prepossessing appearance and made friends readily. On the resignation of City Attorney J. T. Hinkle, he was elected to fill the vacancy, which office he has since filled. On the strength of having a rich father in Texas his financial credit was considered first-class. He made numerous purchases of property in and near Milton, including the McEachern residence on Main street. Recently it began to be whispered that all was not right and his creditors became anxious.

The End Came.

The storm broke Wednesday when Mr. McEachern demanded payment for his house. The money was not forthcoming and immediately there was something doing. His creditors swooped down upon him like a wolf on the fold. They were in consultation during the forenoon and Gordon took the 12 o'clock train for Pendleton, ostensibly to raise money to meet his more pressing obligations. Mr. McEachern was uneasy, however, that all was not right and took the evening train for Pendleton, where he learned that Gordon had boarded the east-bound train. He at once notified the officials, who telegraphed ahead and had him stopped at Huntington and held, pending the arrival of Sheriff Taylor.

Long List of Victims.

His list of victims is a long one and includes nearly everyone who had any dealings with him. His business transactions were all done without the aid of filthy lucre, as a person who has a rich father is not subject to the petty annoyances common to ordinary mortals. J. N. Stone had ordered a thousand dollars worth of furniture for him which he will have on his hands; F. B. Steen is out a $90 horse which he sold him; Landlord M. Quarry, mourns three and a half months board and refuses to be comforted; Charles McKenzie is out $200 money loaned Gordon, but has a mortgage on the rubber tired buggy and Frank Steens horse, so he is safe; F. A. Worthington and A. Allen both have heavy claims against him for work done on the house, but will file liens on the house to secure themselves. We haven't space to enumerate them all, but the list includes several prominent citizens of Pendleton.

GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT.

"Straw Day" at Walla Walla Promises to Be Interesting.

Walla Walla, Aug. 18.—An invitation has been extended to Senators John H. Mitchell, George Turner and Addison G. Foster, Congressmen W. L. Jones and F. W. Cushman, Hon. M. M. Godman and A. J. Gillis, to be present at Walla Walla on "Straw day," and address the promoters of the good roads movement. The speakers on behalf of the union labor organizations will be announced later. All road supervisors and straw captains who can make it convenient to be present are requested to meet with the "Straw day" committee on Tuesday evening, August 19, 1902, at 7:30

p. m. at the Walla Walla Club rooms, in the Rees-Winans block, and discuss important business in connection with "Straw day."

The committee invites all who have automobiles, bicycles, rubber-tired vehicles and fast horses to cooperate actively in making the day a success, and to turn out in the parade. The bicycle cranks have done an immense work for the improvement of roads, and if they will select a speaker the committee will cheerfully give him a place on the program.

An invitation has been given to the Mannerchoir, Walla Walla's celebrated German musical society, to favor the "Straw day" program with one of its grand choruses.

Messrs. Henry, Kauffman and Augustavo, the committee on carving and serving, are prepared to serve over 3000 people with barbecued meats and other choice viands, and say they will handle the crowd with neatness and dispatch.

Look Pleasant, Please.

Photographer C. C. Harlan, of Eaton, O., can do so now, though for years he couldn't, because he suffered untold agony from the worst form of indigestion. All physicians and medicines failed to help him until he tried Electric Bitters, which worked such wonders for him that he declares they are a godsend to sufferers from dyspepsia and stomach troubles. Untried for diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, they build up and give new life to the whole system. Try them. Only 50c. Guaranteed by Tallman & Co., druggists.

Mr. Mellen States the Case.

"You should not forget," said President Mellen of the Northern Pacific to a Portland reporter, "that the Northern Pacific and the O. R. & N. are competitors for business. The new railroad policy has removed some causes of irritation, and it may have reduced the fierceness of competition in certain quarters, but it has not brought the Northern Pacific and the O. R. & N. into such harmony that they are not active competitors for business."

Mr. Mellen had reference to the fact that the railroads of the Pacific Northwest are divided into two great competing groups. On one hand is the merger, embracing the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Burlington. Control of the Burlington is vested jointly in the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern, controls all three of these great systems. James J. Hill is president of the Northern Securities company, and is the master spirit of this gigantic combination.

On the other hand is the Harriman system, owning the Union Pacific and the O. R. & N., and having minority representation on the board of the Northern Securities company. By reason of this minority representation a partial identity of interest has been effected between these two great systems, but their interest are not yet so closely interwoven as to eliminate real and active competition.—Spokesman Review.

HANGED, BUT STILL LIVES.

Kansas Man Suspended for an Hour, but Failed to Die.

Kansas City Journal: The action of the supreme court in sending the case of Murderer James Hamilton back to Butler county for a new trial has a peculiar interest from the fact that Hamilton was hanged by the neck through a space of more than one hour and still lived to describe the frightful sensation he underwent while swinging at the end of a rope. In the spring of 1900 Hamilton killed George J. Webb, his boss, while working on a railroad not far from Eureka. The men had quarrelled and Hamilton seized an ax and split Webb's head open, causing instant death. He was captured by the other laborers and strung up to a tree. The men were not expert in tying the hangman's knot, however, and the rope did not compress Hamilton's neck tight enough to entirely shut off his breath.

After he had hung for more than an hour, a farmer who chanced to be passing, cut him down, but the men who had been watching from a little distance at once closed in and prepared to hang him again. And then followed a strange, yet inspiring thing. The farmer stood over the body of the unconscious man and pleaded with the mob to let the law take its course. Little by little he won them over, until at last they consented to take Hamilton to El Dorado and turn him over to the authorities. He was tried, convicted and sentenced to 21 years in the penitentiary. His attorney appealed the case to the supreme court on a technical-ty. In the trial he asked certain of the witnesses if they had not taken part in the hanging. The county attorney objected to this question and the court ruled it out. The supreme court decided that this question was proper and sent the case back for a new trial.

Notes From Interior.

D. W. Ralston, of Mayville, purchased 100 head of 2 and 3-year-old steers from W. C. Brown, of near Lone Rock, for $33.50 per head. The cattle will be delivered at Mayville.—Condon Times.

Fire which has been burning through townships 19, 20 and 21 for the past two weeks keeps a cloud of smoke hanging over the Deschutes river and the surrounding country.

The fire, which is confined almost entirely to the brush and grass, has spread over several square miles of territory, but so far has done but little damage to the timber. It is not known how it originated.—Deschutes Echo.

J. H. Jackson, who has just returned from the Agency Plains tells us that as far as the eye can reach cabins may be seen, at least a hundred being put up recently. From Timothy Brownhill's claim, which he had fenced in and built a cabin on, fifty may be counted. Experts who have recently gone over the land to determine as to its productive quality, place it 16 per cent above that of Sherman county, which will be the best of news to those who have taken up land there.—Chronicle.
