Pendleton's boys took both the Saturday and Sunday games at Baker City, the former by a score of 5 to 2

Saturday's game was a remarkable exhibition in many respects, the game being absolutely errorless on both

"Baby" Hays handled the sphere for the Indians and allowed five hits to be made off his delivery, while Dawer, a new man with the Baker team, gave the Pendletonians but four safe swats at the ball. Both sides played perfect ball and the Baker fans were well satisfied with the game, even though their team lost. On Sunday the game was close and exciting, and it was not until the last half of the ninth was ended that victory perched on the Indians' bonnets with any degree of equilibrium.

The boys from the mines got one tally in the first to the Indians' two. and from start to finish it was nip and tuck with the noble reds playing slightly favorite.

games were one grand uproar and jangle On Saturday the game was nearly three hours on account of the wrangling over, decisions, the Beet Gardeners winning by 11 to 10, while the Sunday game was something over three hours in duration, the Sharpshooters losing their temper and the game by a score of 10 to 2.

Notes of the Game.

"Tamarac" Adams drove out the winning run at Baker City Sunday afternoon with two men down. The bases were full at one time with no one out, when two man were caught trying to steal home and were retired. Then Schills went to first on balls, stole second and was brought home by Adams' safe into center, which just touched Hupp's mitt.

Several of the errors credited up to the Indians were caused by the pecultarity of the sky, the grounds being shut off on one side by a high bluff and on the other by a row of tall Lombardy poplar, which so shaded the grounds as to make it impossible to see many of the high flies knocked.
