WORK OF FIRE BUG

ANOTHER FIRE ATTEMPTED IN BURNT DISTRICT.

Had Started Fire in Lumber Pile and Was Almost Caught in Act—J. H. Young Put the Fire Out.

An incendiary attempted another fire Tuesday night and was almost caught in the act. He started a fire in the neighborhood where the others originated.

That there is a fire bug operating in Pendleton has been proven beyond a doubt. The last three serious fires have been of mysterious origin and there was a feeling that a fire fiend was getting in his work. Whether or not all three of these fires were set by some one will probably never be known, but it is known that another attempt was made to destroy property, and only for the timely appearance of J. H. Young, the lumber in the O. R. & N. yard would have been reduced to ashes and perhaps other property in that vicinity.

Just after dusk Tuesday evening Mr. Young was going home and discovered smoke arising from the east end of some of the piles of lumber. He hastened to the scene and found a pile of shavings which had undoubtedly been placed there by some one with the intent of destroying property. The shavings had been placed on the end of some lumber and fired. Most of them were burned up when Mr. Young arrived, but evidences to prove that they had been placed there, and fired, still remained and Mr. Young is confident that the fire was not started from smouldering remains of the fire which destroyed so much property last Saturday. It was quite a distance from the scene of the old fire.

Several hundred thousand feet of lumber was in the yard and other property would have been jeopardized had the fire fiend accomplished his purpose. The lumber being slightly green saved it from igniting quickly and perhaps saved a serious fire. The affair has been kept quiet by the police in the hopes of catching the miscreant and punishing him as his dastardly purpose demands. A man was seen sneaking along in the shade of freight cars a short distance from the fire just before it was discovered. Every effort will be made to locate and punish the guilty.

RURAL DELIVERY

Will Be Established in the Hudson's Bay Country September 1.

W. S. Goodman, who is in town from the famous Hudson's Bay stock farm, says the farmers and stockmen of the Bay country are much elated over the prospects of having a free mail delivery. The route has been laid out from Freewater, a distance of 32 miles into the Hudson's Bay country, and the farmers will get their mail every day. In this way the farmers will be able to get the news of the world brought to them as it occurs. They can take a daily paper and not have to wait until they go to town to read of what is happening. In most instances the farmer is too busy to get to town more than once a week and those living very far away are not able to get their mail even this often without great inconvenience.

Mr. Goodman is a breeder of registered Short Horn cattle and is one of the most extensive fine stock men in Eastern Oregon. His stock and ranch is known far and wide. He has resided on the place in the Hudson's Bay country for 40 years and on the place he now owns for nearly 30 years.

RUNAWAY BOY.

Eddy Tell, 12 Years of Age, Tires of Home and Takes a Hike.

Sheriff T. D. Taylor was notified by telephone from Adams to keep a lookout for Eddy Tell, a 12-year-old boy, who had run away from his home in that place and it was thought he had come this way.

The message said the boy had left just after noon and would perhaps try to catch a train out of here in the evening. The description of the boy was given and he was soon located. His parents were notified and the young man returned to their arms.

WHERE IS C. W. BARKER?

Charles W. Barker, of Brookings, S. D., Would Like to Know.

Charles W. Barker, now in Ottawa, Ill., but who says he is on his way to Brookings, S. D., writes the East Oregonian to try and locate his father, who is supposed to be in this country. He came to the Pacific Coast in 1889, and his son has never seen or heard from him since. He is an old sailor and is sometimes called Captain Barker. The young man saw an account of the shooting of Barker's sheep in Grant county in a paper, and thinks this may be his father.

The description of Barker is given as a man now quite aged, six feet tall, broad-shouldered, light grey eyes and wearing a white chin beard. Any one knowing of Charles W. or Captain Barker will confer a favor upon the son by writing him.
