BROWN ARRESTED

CHARGED WITH FORGERY
BY CONSTABLE BENTLY.

Is Accused of Placing Mr. Bently's Name on an Order for a Book, But From Present Indications Brown Will Vindicate Himself.

J. I. Brown, quite well known here as a book agent, and frequenter of gaming resorts, is in the toils of the law.

He was arrested last night just at midnight on the charge of forgery. J. M. Bently was the man who drew out the warrant for Brown's arrest, and it charged Brown with forgery. The offense charged is that Brown forged Bently's name to an order for a history of Umatilla county without the knowledge of Mr. Bently. It will be remembered that several months ago Brown was in Pendleton canvassing for his history and taking orders for its delivery. He secured many orders for the history and the book was delivered only a few days ago. Bently was on the list for a book. When he was confronted with the history and the bill, amounting to $18, he refused to pay and declared that the order was not his and was a forgery. He swore to the complaint and had Brown arrested.

Brown's story is that when he came here and began work for the history he went to Mr. Bently and tried to get his order. Mr. Bently would not sign for the book and Brown asked him to let him put down his name as an influence for getting other orders. Brown says that he does not remember writing the name himself, but acknowledges it to be his own hand writing and says he did it in the presence of Mr. Bently and after his consent. Brown then quit the book company and claims that by mistake the order for the book was presented to Mr. Bently.

District Attorney Halley is investigating the affair and has wired to the book company at Spokane and if no further tangible evidence than that at hand is shown he will be released, as the evidence at present looks as though Brown was not guilty of intentional forgery and that the presentation of the order for the book was a mistake. Brown has only been in town a few days this trip and was not apparently trying to keep out of the way of the officers.

BEFORE COMMISSIONER.

Smith and Franklin, Charged With Selling Liquor to Indians, Have a Hearing.

William Smith, charged with selling liquor to Indians, was bound over to the federal court by United States Commissioner Halley Thursday afternoon and the prisoner turned over to United States Deputy Jake Proebstel.

Smith will be remembered as the gentleman who had been making quite a "killin'" off the red men from the Umatilla reserve by selling them 25 cents worth of bad liquor for a dollar, and 50 cents worth for a dollar. He kept this up until last Saturday, when he became too bold and was gathered in by the officers. He was bound over in the sum of $250, and in default will go to jail to await trial.

Franklin Tried Today.

O. R. Franklin, arrested a few days ago, did not have his preliminary yesterday, as was expected, on account of witnesses not showing up. He is being held and if the witnesses can be found will have his hearing before Commissioner Halley this afternoon. There is no doubt but that Franklin will get the same that Smith got. He will be bound over and will have a chance to face Federal Judge Bellinger.

AND NOW INGRAM.

The Convict Will Go Before the Legislature With a Claim.

Frank Ingram, who is minus a leg from the effects of a shot by one of the escaping convicts on the 9th of June, was interviewed some of the Marion county members of the legislature a day or two since, with a view of engaging their help to secure an appropriation next winter to set him up in business, says the Salem correspondent to the Portland Telegram. One of the members advised him to have any move of that character started by the members of his old home—Linn county—which would give it a better standing than to have it introduced by some stranger.

Hon. W. R. Blyeu was one of the attorneys who defended Ingram when he was tried for killing his brother and he is now a member-elect of the legislature, and he knows more about the real merits of Ingram's demand than any other member could possibly know. The facts surrounding the man's alleged crime are also well known in Linn county, and the measure of sympathy for him there and of the wish to help him with an appropriation would form a good basis upon which to gauge merits.

Mr. Ingram has not followed the plan best calculated to make him strong friends since his release from the penitentiary. He first set up a raffle of some articles he had made for the avowed purpose of getting himself some tools with which to go to work and earn a livelihood. He was generously patronized and some of the things were given back to him that he might raffle them over again. He then began talking about accumulating enough for an artificial limb. He has been selling various trinkets of his own make, which people buy to help him. He has received much encouragement, and he is fast getting "spotted." Many people think he should be awakened to the fact that he will be expected hereafter to be self-supporting. He is a first-class worker in metals, and the loss of a limb is no bar, and little inconvenience to bench work.

It is alleged that in accordance with his own story, there is no heroism whatever in the mishap by which he lost his leg. He got in the murderous convict's way accidentally, and was not making any intentional effort to prevent escape or to prevent the shooting of the guards. Consequently his full pardon from prison even though deprived of one leg, was a fortunate termination of an unfortunate part of his life. Many persons who have heard him complaining about the state keeping him in prison during ten years of his young life, and heard him claiming that the state ought to do for him now, express the view that he has an entirely erroneous view of the situation and that he ought to be disabused at once.—Salem Journal.

Many Houses Going Up.

The Oregon Lumber Yards are filling some orders for building material, and J. A. Borie, the proprietor, says the farmers are doing considerable building and repairing judging from the large amount of lumber they are buying. The Oregon Lumber Yard has the contract for furnishing the material for three new houses one to be built for Thomas Nelson the blacksmith, and two for G. I. La Dow. All will be erected on Water street.

Most Effective Advertising.

That advertising is the most effective which attracts the eye and appeals to the brain. Strong adjectives may be as much out of taste in an advertisement as in a bit of more aspiring literature. Exaggeration is always to be avoided. People nowadays demand sincerity in all matters of business. It is observable that all the big and successful advertisers are most careful as to their statements of fact. They realize that confidence is the key-stone in the arch of trade. Their success came of their jealous regard for their work.

Sue Henry Wade.

B. B. Gervias and Fred Brown, partners, doing business under the firm name of Gervias & Brown, have brought suit against Henry Wade to collect $147.60 alleged to be due for threshing defendant's 1902 grain crop. T. G. Halley is attorney for plaintiffs.

THREE WEDDINGS.

Gus Hill and Ethel Clark, B. F. Beck and Elizabeth Beck, T. B. Simon and Iva M. Ogle.

After a lull of a few weeks with but few marriages, the would-be benedicts are again getting active and applying to the county clerk for licenses to wed. Two licenses were issued yesterday by County Clerk Chamberlain and in the afternoon and evening just as many weddings were solemnized. One Pendleton young man married in Baker City and returned here to live. They were:

Hill-Clark.

Gus Hill and Miss Ethel Clark were married in Baker City Wednesday morning and arrived in Pendleton Thursday. Mr. Hill is well known here, where he has lived since childhood, and the bride is from Eagle Valley. They will make their home on the old Hill ranch, four miles west of town.

Beck-Beck.

B. F. Beck, of this city, and Mrs. Elizabeth Beck, of Texas, were united in marriage by Rev. W. E. Potwine, at the Episcopal church rectory at 8 o'clock last evening. Mr. Beck is the well-known tinner, with a shop on Cottonwood street, and Mrs. Beck is a recent arrival from Texas. They will make their home on East Lewis street, in Mr. Beck's home.

Simonton-Ogle.

Thomas B. Simonton and Iva May Ogle were united in marriage in this city yesterday afternoon and left this morning for their future home near Gurdane. Mr. Simonton is a popular stockman of Umatilla county, and the bride is from Athena, where she has many friends.

Your Children's Education

Is it being neglected? Is the musical part of it being remembered? Parents, if you have daughters see that they have an opportunity to learn to play a piano means so much to them in the future. It means that when meeting with other people in a social way, they can do something to be entertaining, and when at home can make the evening pass pleasantly both to themselves and those about them.

There is no excuse for any family to be without a piano in the home, when we offer them at such reasonable prices and on terms that all can meet.
