WILL PLAY NO MORE

INLAND EMPIRE LEAGUE A THING OF THE PAST.

La Grande Had Up No Forfeit and Could Quit Any Time—Walla Walla Was Looking for a Loophole and Seized Opportunity to Abandon Games.

Baseball is a thing of the past in the inland empire league. The La Grande team has bolted the league, and the Walla Walla team has also announced that it would play no more ball with the league this season. The first step toward the disbanding of the La Grande team was made late last evening. The Beet Pullers have been playing in such bad luck that they were on the eve of disbanding several times, but they remained together and have played to the present time. Walla Walla has also been somewhat discouraged over the outlook and the defeats the team was getting and was also ready to quit.

All of the four teams in the league except La Grande had a forfeit up of $250 and did not dare to jump the contract for playing out the series. If they did they were to forfeit the money. La Grande was expected to put up the same amount, but for some reason did not, and consequently could pull out when she pleased without forfeiting any money. The cause of this was that the managers of the teams had 30 days in which to put up these forfeits and the La Grande team waited the full limit and then refused to put up the $250. The other teams could not force them to do this and the matter was let rest as it was supposed after playing a month the Beet Pullers would remain the season out anyway. Now that they found there was no chance for them to come out on top for the pennant and it was becoming somewhat of a burden to the backers of the team to keep them going, it was decided to abandon the league.

This was decided upon at a late hour last night and the team was paid off. A telephone message from there this morning stated that an effort had been made to keep the team together, but this had failed and the team had disbanded.

As soon as Walla Walla heard that La Grande had withdrawn from the league she followed suit and paid off all her men. Word from there this morning states that the management would continue to play out the scheduled series if La Grande would play, but unless the Beet Pullers would play the series out the Sharpshooters would "play quits."

This leaves only Pendleton and Baker City in the league and it is understood that Baker is so badly discouraged at the defeats the team has been getting that they were also anxious to end the season.

Whether or not this break will have any effect with next year's games is hard to tell. Some contend that the baseball is killed in the inland empire league towns, while others are confident that next year will see a revival of the national game.

Votaries of the Black Cat.

Milwaukee, Sept. 9.—This morning—the ninth day of the ninth month of the ninth year—found assembled at the ninth minute of the ninth hour, the faithful followers of the Great Black Cat, preparing for the eleventh annual contumacious of the Order of Hoo-Hoos. There were more than 300 delegates present when A. H. Weir, of Lincoln, Neb., grand snark of the universe, called the convention to order. An address of welcome was delivered by Mayor Rose, and as the mayor of a city which is one of the largest lumber centers in the country, he did it in a way which could leave no doubt in the minds of the visitors that they were welcome. After brief opening exercises the convention met behind closed doors. The reports showed the order in excellent financial condition, with a rapidly growing membership, particularly in Texas, Oklahoma and the southwest.

"IMPROPER LITERATURE."

Editor Called Down for Publishing the Bible in Serial Form. Chicago, Sept. 9.—Carleton F. Hodges, editor of Assumption, Ill., Independent, is threatened with prosecution for publishing improper literature because he has undertaken to print the bible in his paper.

When he reached one of the last chapters of Genesis in the publication of the bible on the weekly installment plan, Mr. Hodges received a letter from a prominent official of St. Joseph county savings bank at South Bend, informing him that the appearance of such "matter" in a newspaper was illegal and he threatened to start a lawsuit.

Editor Hodges who came to Chicago today said he proposed to continue printing a chapter of the bible each week in his paper despite this threat. "It is to chapters of Genesis and Deuteronomy that the bank official objects," said Mr. Hodges. "He wrote me a letter saying there were spots and places in the bible that were not fit to be put in print or before the public for perusal. For my part I consider anything that is fit to be the basis of Christianity and to be taught to the children in the Sunday schools is good enough to be submitted to newspaper readers along with news items of the day."
