known as the "cattle and sheep war," and

Whereas, The policy of the interior department in the past has been liberal in the handling of the government forest reserves in Oregon in the matter of grazing the same; be it hereby

Resolved, That we hereby indorse the action of the department in withdrawing these lands from further settlement reserving that in the final proclamation of the boundaries of the reserve, due consideration be given to the rights of mining and other interests directly concerned.

Relief to Fire Sufferers.

Whereas, That by virtue of the recent forest fires, many valuable lives have been lost and many homes have been destroyed and rendered desolate throughout the western portion of our state and along the southern border of our sister state of Washington; be it hereby

Resolved, That we deeply deplore this untoward and unfortunate event and that we hereby tender our sympathy, collectively and severally to the friends of the deceased and to those who have met with severe financial losses thereby. And be it further

Resolved, That our secretary and treasurer be hereby instructed to forward to the relief committee having the matter in charge in Portland, Or., out of monies now on hand not otherwise appropriated, the sum of one hundred dollars.

Transportation Facilities.

Whereas, The interests of the flock masters of Oregon require closer relations with the consumers of the Eastern States, and greater facilities for promptly reaching the great markets of Chicago, Omaha and Kansas City; and has just returned from a three weeks' trip to Wallowa county. He took up 350 Delaine and Spanish Merino bucks for sale. He reports that the sheep raisers of Wallowa county complain of a lack of buyers. Mixed yearlings are quoted at $2.25, and lambs at $1.50 there.

Whereas, The present train service provided by the railroad for the

HOMESTEADERS LOCATED.

W. F. EARNHEART, Association Block.

George A. Young, the sheep king of Wasco county, who claims to be "all wool and nearly a yard wide," is attending the convention. Mr. Young owns 6000 acres 11 miles from Shaniko, and has a summer range in the Cascade reserve. He runs from eleven to twenty thousand stock sheep which are half-blood Lincolns. His this year's wool clip was 120,000 pounds. He has been interested in the sheep business near Shaniko for the past 25 years.

H. A. Cupper, of Grant county, is also a delegate to the convention. He has several thousand acres six miles west of Monument. Mr. Cupper has been interested in wool raising in Grant county for the past 25 years. He runs 4500 grade Merinos on his ranch. He comes from England, where he was engaged in raising sheep. A lifelong experience in the business makes him an authority on the subject.

George L. Macomber is a comparative new-comer to the Northwest. He is attending the convention to learn from the old-timers what he can. He came from Minnesota a year ago. The high price of land there made the raising of sheep unprofitable. He has purchased 3000 acres of land in Astoria county, Washington, where he will run his sheep.

Doll Ross, whose postoffice is Vinson, owns 5000 acres of land on Butter Creek. He has been raising sheep on Butter Creek for the past 16 years. He is running two bands, consisting of about 4500 sheep.

H. Boylen, who owns 2500 acres of deeded land near Pilot Rock, is attending the convention.

Hon. W. R. Ellis is attending the meetings of the Woolgrowers' Association. In response to the query of the East Oregonian representative, Judge Ellis responded: "Yes, I am somewhat in the sheep business, but I fleece them and ship them all to Salem. I handle black sheep almost altogether, and their summer and winter range is at Salem, Or. J. D. Lee being the shepherd in charge.

H. C. Rooper is taking an active part in the convention. He has very progressive ideas about the benefits of organization for mutual benefit and protection of the sheepmen. He has a ranch consisting of 2000 acres, located northwest of Antelope. "When I came there in 1878, there were very few settlers in that part of the country. I have been in the sheep business since 1878." Mr. Rooper was one of the pioneers in using the Cascade Mountains as a summer range. He took his sheep into the mountains when he had to blaze and cut trails to get into the higher ranges.

T. H. La Follett, of the firm of Allen & La Follett, comes as delegate from Prineville. He is a raiser of pure-blooded sheep—Delaine and Rambouillet. They have been in business since 1833. At present they have 6000 sheep.

William Slusher, one of the best known sheepmen of Umatilla county, is in attendance at the meetings of the Woolgrowers. He owns nearly 10,000 acres west of Pendleton. He is breeding Shropes on Grade Merinos. "I am raising an all purpose sheep," said Mr. Slusher, "one that will make a good mutton sheep as well as produce a good fleece. My summer range has been in the Blue Mountains, but the creation of the proposed forest reserve will turn me out of my range. Summer range is getting to be a very uncertain quantity. My this season's wool clip was 135,000 pounds, which I sold to the scouring mill here in Pendleton for 10 3/4 cents per pound.

Douglas Belts, who for two years has served as president of the Woolgrowers' Association, owns 3000 acres of deeded land near Pilot Rock. He has 4000 sheep and has been raising sheep near Pilot Rock since 1878.

K. G. Warner is in town taking in the convention of the woolgrowers. He has 1200 sheep in Combs' canyon, 15 miles from Pendleton. This is Mr. Warner's third season at raising sheep.

J. E. Smith, one of the best known and most popular sheep raisers in Eastern Oregon, is attending the convention. Mr. Smith has large holdings of real estate at Barnhart, and also at Pilot Rock. He is one of the pioneers in the business. He owns about 40,000 acres of land and has 45,000 sheep. He is a raiser of pure-blood flocks.

W. G. Ayre is here from Baker county, where he has a ranch near Durkee station. For the past 20 years he has been engaged in raising sheep. His clip this year averaged between 10 and 11 pounds per fleece.

J. Duff Mcandle, of Antelope, where he has 3000 sheep. He has been buying and selling sheep for the past nine years.

P. J. Walsh, of Shaniko, who has 1600 grade Merinos, 12 miles north of Shaniko, on his 1400-acre ranch, is also attending the Woolgrowers' convention. His summer range is in the Cascade reserve between the headwaters of the McKenzie and the South Fork of the Santian River.

Nat Webb, of Walla, Walla, who has sheep interests near Heppner, is one of the veterans of the business, who is taking in the convention.

NEW YORK MARKET.

Reported by I. L. Ray & Co., Pendleton, Chicago Board of Trade and New York Stock Exchange Brokers.

New York, Sept. 17.—The wheat market was lifeless today and the closing prices were the same as yesterday, while the volume of receipts are nearly up to last year. The visible supply is not increasing to correspond, and prices should soon feel this influence.

UTAH SHEEP.

Industry Decreasing Owing to Lack of Profits.

Secretary Callister of the Utah Woolgrowers' Association is quoted as saying that the sheep industry of Utah is rapidly decreasing in that state, as there does not seem to be any money in it. The ranges are becoming scantier and scarcer, and the government is withdrawing large pastures. Mr. Callister referred to tracts from entry, thus restricting the continuously large shipments of sheep being made out of the state to eastern stock yards for muttons and to the feeding grounds of the middle western states. The latter have the promise of a great crop this fall, and the result is a great revival of the feeding business. Mr. Callister fears that the sheep industry will shortly be reduced to minimum proportions in Utah.—Capital News.

BUTCHERS' RECORD.

Baker County Man Urges That Law Should Compel Keeping One.

"While such a 'big talk' is being made as to the bills that should be passed at the next legislature, it might be well to draft another compelling butchers and others to keep a record and description of cattle bought and sold by them," remarked a local cattle man in speaking of the Frank Shinn case yesterday.

"Here is an instance of where a man bought a cow and does not know how it was branded or the exact dates upon which it was purchased or killed. It is not alone unfair to the man accused, but hinders the wheels of law. Had the cow been sold to persons keeping a proper record absolutely no trouble should have been encountered in naming the day the cow was purchased, the date of slaughter or paid for."—Baker City Herald.

Copeland vs. Hicks.

A lien was filed in the circuit court this morning by Copeland & Son, blacksmiths, against J. T. Hicks, to collect $8.50 alleged due for shoeing horses. The lien was filed against three head of horses shod by plaintiffs.

"I've got an idea for making automobile races safe."

"What is it?"
"Let 'em be run through a brick tunnel with lots of manholes for the spectators to look through."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Coming. "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the only play that is identified with American history, which is one of the most beautiful plays in the English language, which always interests all classes of people, will be a welcome visitor in Pendleton one night only, Friday, September 19. It has endured 40 years, and every year but serves to add popularity to its wreath of popularity. It breathes of loyalty and liberty; it will inculcate in the youthful mind honesty, morality and Christianity. It boldly stands for all that is good and upholds to scorn and contempt all that is bad, and for these reasons it appeals to all Christian people as the ideal of a great moral play. Warren & Day's great mammoth New York "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company is the biggest, brightest and best of all the "Uncle Tom's" companies on the road. Five great acts, 28 realistic scenes, culminating in 12 impressive tableaux and a superb, awe-inspiring transformation scene. The performance takes place in a large tent.

Van Orsdall-Snyder.

W. P. Van Orsdall and Miss Francis Snyder were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Van Orsdall, 515 Ann street, Tuesday evening in the presence of a few friends, Rev. John Uren officiating. Mr. Van Orsdall is connected with Mr. Ross in the ice and cold storage business here, and both bride and groom are well and favorably known. They will make their home on lower Alta street.

"I don't like yer story," said the Billville reader.
"Maybe not now," replied the author, "but it will grow on you."
"I hope not" was the reply, "for I've got three carbuncles now!"—Atlanta Constitution.

"And was my present a surprise to your sister, Johnny?"
"You bet. She said she never suspected you'd give her anything so cheap."—Pittsburg Bulletin.
