—Killed and Then Body Conveyed to Canal.

New York, Sept. 19.—Some new de-

Charles Evans, a Hoboken liveryman, came to police headquarters and said the strap of a weight taken from his rig, rented by him Wednesday night had been returned late Thursday morning by a man whom he described accurately. The officers first believed it to be her husband, but Evans said he was not the man when he saw him. The police are now certain that the woman was murdered in New York shortly after she left home. They think the murderer lur-ed her to his room and murdered her for her diamond earrings and wed-room all day Wednesday and finally packed it in a trunk for disposal.

Then he went to Hoboken, hired a rig, took the body and pitched it in

A NEGRO LYNCHED

Marshfield Wretch Who Assaulted Miner's Wife Hanging From Bridge.

NO MASKS WERE WORN—
CITIZENS SAY "WELL DONE."

Coal Miners Crazed With Rage Because of Negro's Escape, Came Near Lynching the Officers Who Let Him Loose.

Marshfield, Or., Sept. 19.—The lifeless body of Alonzo Tucker, colored, who criminally assaulted Mrs. Dennis, is dangling from the end of a rope on South Marshfield bridge, and is being gazed upon by hundreds of people. As was predicted, a body of coal miners marched into town Wednesday evening armed for business.
City Marshal Carter, who had Tucker in custody, attempted to take him from the jail just as the Libby miners entered, but the move was caught sight of by one in the van of the party, and a mad rush was made for the negro, who managed to give his custodians the slip. He jumped under the wharf into the mud flats and eluded both officers and the angry mob until Thursday.

The miners were fairly crazed with rage over the outcome, and stationed guards at every point of egress from the city. The patrol was kept up all night and at one time there was loud talk of avenging the wrath of the infuriated people upon the officers who allowed Tucker to escape.
Every nook and crevice under the wharf was searched without result until Ray Prentice and Jay Gulverson small boys, located the fugitive under Dean & Co.'s store, and like young Americans, peppered him with air-guns.

Tucker threatened to wring their necks, but they drove him from his hiding place, and as he emerged, a ball from a 30-30 caught him in the right leg. It was shortly followed by two more volleys. Tucker ran into Dean's store and was followed.

The miners started to take him to the scene of the crime. He was still alive, but died on their hands and they did not care to bother farther, and hung him to a beam on a bridge on the route.

Benjamin Dennis, husband of the outraged woman, was among the lynchers, but no one knows who fired the fatal bullet and there are no questions asked on that point. "Well done," is a consensus of public opinion. There was not a masked man in the crowd and everything was done in broad daylight.

Mrs. Dennis was waylaid on her way home to Libby from this city Wednesday by Tucker, who dragged her into the brush and assaulted her.

Tucker seized Mrs. Dennis by the throat when he caught her, and threatened to kill her if she made a noise. When released she went straight to her house and told what had happened. Tucker was arrested, but when the miners appeared, prepared to lynch him, was allowed to go.
