THE MODERN DRUGGISTS - PENDLETON

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1902.

King Leopold will visit the St. Louis exposition. The kings are all looking this way. It might be well for some of them to move to this country.

The Adams Advance, in a way of its own, boasts of a circulation equal to that of all the Pendleton papers combined. The Advance is to be congratulated, for it is an excellent local paper, a weekly, to be published in a town the size of Adams, and its prosperity is deserved.

The principal of an Ohio school compelled his white pupils to kiss negro pupils with whom they had quarreled. The principal of the school is now looking for another situation, the school directors having demanded his immediate resignation. He ought to go down South.

The fact that the leading feature of the Oregon State Fair was the stock exhibit, shows that this industry is in the lead in this state. The introduction of fine breeds, the interest in exhibiting them and the interest in seeing them all show the trend of the Oregon mind.

Statistics are sent out from Salem showing that the average republican vote at the last election on six candidates, excepting the vote for governor, was 46,505, and that the average democratic vote under the same test was 31,492. The democrats maintain that it will be different next time.

The hoppers are now on a strike in the Eugene hopfields. This is one strike that may prove a success. The season only lasts about four weeks, and hops will not keep unless they are picked within a given time. The prices are high this year and the pickers will doubtless get their demand.

The stampede in a negro church at Birmingham, Ala. in which over 100 persons were killed, illustrates the fact that when once panic-stricken, human beings are worse than beasts. And in the negro race the animal is more predominant than most any other, as it is nearer the original state than any race boasting of modern civilization.

The best indication of what a town is is its schools. A poor school does not only look bad, but is bad for a town. Pendleton is on the right side in this matter. Her schools were never in a more prosperous condition. She has good houses, an able corps of teachers and a large attendance, and these are composed of as bright a lot of girls and boys as ever marched into a school room.

This will doubtless be put down as the historic year of catastrophes. Earthquakes and volcanoes, the greatest in history. Railroad wrecks, the most frequent in railroading. Cyclones and tidal waves, our local forest fires, and a hundred other things outdoing themselves this year, would indeed illustrate strenuously in all of the elements and acts of men. But still the country is prosperous and the spirit of progress is stimulated rather than retarded.

Growing Pendleton catches about everything that is coming and going in the way of faking and grafting. The cheapest class yet reported is the one in which men stand at the entrances of places where "good citizens" are not supposed to frequent, and demand "hush" money. It is claimed that they will "hush" at a stipulated price

DEFENDERS OF CHILD LABOR.

No abuse can be so repulsive that it will not find defenders in highly respectable quarters, provided there is profit in the abuse.

So we see some newspapers—none of them "yellow," it is needless to say—not merely making excuses for the spread of child labor in the south, but actually saying it is a good thing. The argument goes that it is better the children should have the "education," the "civilizing influences" of factory life than be allowed to run loose and grow up as "shiftless poor whites."

The answer to this is that if civilization can find no better agency than the factory for educating the southern child, the child had infinitely better be left alone. The factory gives an "education" that stunts the body, destroys the health and dulls the mind.

It is chiefly northern capital that is availing itself of the cheap labor of the south's little ones. Capital willing to take profits so gained need not be appealed to on the moral side. It is as free from conscience and pity as a shark. Its throat must be gripped by the hand of the law.

We hope to see the manhood of every Southern state rise and compel legislation which shall teach this northern capital—and all other capital, no matter where it may come from—that the lives of the innocents are not to be ground up into cotton fabrics and dollars.

But it is not in the south alone that this crime against childhood is committed. There are many places in the north where children are condemned to the killing toll of factories in spite of prohibiting law.

The spectacle of little children drudging for pitiful wages in mills and factories and coal mines in this new and rich country is a national shame, and indictment of the industrial system under which such sordid cruelty is possible.—Hearst's American and World.

The camping grounds for civic and military organizations at the World's Fair have been laid out to accommodate ten to twelve thousand men.

ANOTHER PIONEER.

Bright's Disease and Diabetes Are Positively Curable.

When the San Francisco business men were investigating the Fulton Compound they heard that Dr. C. D. Zelle had both Bright's Disease and Diabetes, and was given up as incurable, and they waited on him and got him to take it. Now for the sequel. This letter was written 9 months later:

"622 Pacific St., San Francisco, Sept. 7, 1901.
"Dear Sir: I have consulted my own pharmacy on my own property on Pacific St. for forty-eight years, hence my associates number some of the best old school physicians. I had chronic Bright's Disease and Diabetes of long standing, which got so serious that in October last the judgment of my medical friends was that three months would see the end. We all looked upon the mere suggestion of a cure as empirical and visionary. But I yielded to the earnestness of the parties, and the insistence of one of my family, and went on the Fulton Compound for Bright's Disease as a test. The first week I improved, but thought it a coincidence. But every week thereafter the improvement continued. The time for the fatal end passed and I was still growing stronger. This continued till July, when the last trace of both albumen and sugar disappeared. I suppose I have given the Compound to a dozen, and they all reported favorably. However unreasonable it may appear, the cure has been found. If those interested care to call at my drug store I will be glad to tell all I know concerning this important matter. The discovery is second only in importance to the discovery of a cure for consumption."
"C. A. B. ZELLE."

Medical works agree that Bright's Disease and Diabetes are incurable, but 75 per cent. are positively recovering under the Fulton Compound. (Common forms of kidney complaint and Rheumatism offer but short resistance.) Price: $1 for the Bright's Disease and $1.50 for the Diabetic Compound. John J. Fulton Co., 231 Montgomery Street, San Francisco, sole compounders. Free tests made for patients. Descriptive pamphlet mailed free.
