$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Alba Notes.

Alba, Sept. 30.—Rev. Nye, of Gray's Harbor, addressed a large audience here last night. The elder is here on a visit. He was at one time pastor here and instrumental in building the church at this place in 1888. He is a pioneer of the Pacific coast.

A large amount of hay changed hands here last week, selling at from $5 to $8 per ton, according to quality. There are now 13 six-horse teams hauling ore from Susanville to Pendleton. The ore is reduced at the mine and after being concentrated every six-horse load coming over the road represents $2500. The company loads freighters both ways, hauling supplies back to the mines. The distance is 81 miles.

FROM CALIFORNIA

D. W. M'DANNALD WRITES ABOUT MANY THINGS.

He Tells About Farming, the Political Situation and Describes an Orphan's Home.

Santa Anna, Cal., Sept. 23.—To the Editor: This year's grain crop was fairly good in portions of California. Real good, in fact, taking into consideration the small amount of rainfall. Irvine Station, on the big San Joaquin ranch is a warehouse 1000 feet long and 80 feet wide that is already filled to the ceiling. At El Toro it is the same and still the roads are lined with six and eight-mule teams. Barley rose in price from 75 cents to $1 in one week, and a great many people think it has not yet reached the limit.

Trains passing our place on the S. P., have been running with double-headers for a month, hauling beets from the peat lands for the China factory. These beets are yielding a high test, some fields have reached 28 per cent.

At that rate they bring the grower $7.50 a ton, and as the yield per acre is seldom less than 20 tons, we can see that the peat land beet growers using a stick of modern phraseology, "are strictly in it."

Owing to a change from celery to beets in the peat lands this season, the celery crop will be short several hundred car loads.

Hundreds of pumping plants have been installed in the sections where natural water was not on hand, and many acres of heretofore unremunerative sand ridges are now blooming potato fields, alfalfa patches or wealth producing orchards.

T. P. Page and two of his neighbors have installed a $1500 plant, run by electric power, which is lifting from 60 to 70 inches of water from a 30-foot well.

Mr. and Mrs. Page are truly in love with the country and will no doubt spend the balance of their days in Orange county. They were formerly residents of Athena.

Jose Baker and family of Weston, are here for the winter and if they like the country will remain permanently.

I was over in Los Angeles county last week and on my way home, when near Artesia, I met an army of small boys commanded by an elderly gentleman of more than ordinary politeness. He halted the brigade long enough for me to fire a few hundred random shots.

I learned they were members of the Southern California orphans' home, and that they numbered 37, and ranged in age from 5 to 14 years.

Dr. U. Gregory, of the First Baptist church, of Los Angeles founded the institution about three years ago, since which time he has picked up the little unfortunates from nearly every county in the Southern belt. I visited the "Home" and found Mrs. Robinson the matron, not only willing, but anxious to answer all the questions I could possibly propound, together with a great number that I couldn't.

They are anxious to find homes and shelter with respectable people for the little fellows, as it is a heavy burden upon the scant resources of the institution to feed and clothe so many unproductive souls.

The matron informed me that every mother's son of them possessed an appetite equalled only by a Nanny goat, or a grind stone, and that it required untold quantities of the plainest kind of provender to satisfy their cravings. As the food and clothing supply is altogether a matter of charity there need be no surprise at the larrier sometimes becoming empty.

While I was talking to the matron, little Chester Gardner, the innocent victim of a triple tragedy caused by drink, whereby he became deprived of both parents and a grandmother, was holding a pet cat on his lap and relating in detail his dumb friend the horrible deed as it had been photographed on his memory.

Say, I'm a hardened old sinner, accustomed to deeds of violence and horror, but that little fellow's account of the killing of his mother while she was on her knees begging for mercy from a drunken self-degraded husband, touched me in a way that little rivulets of water trickled down my face, and I swore in the presence of the good old matron that I would never touch the stuff again or allow any one else to, if in my power to prevent.

The institution will be removed to Avery, over on the electric line from Los Angeles to Long Beach, where they will have more room, and where the county will establish a public school, and provide a teacher solely for the benefit of the "Home."

Provision has also been made for a machinery hall, where the boys will be instructed in various branches of mechanical skill. Farming and dairying are also taught, so the boys when they approach the age of maturity, will be self-sustaining.

If I hadn't nearly a "baker's dozen" of my own, I would go over and select a half score of the most promising youngsters and rear them to manhood's proud estate, to the best of my ability.

We are having quite a rantantorous time over politics just now. Our friends on the other side of the firing line are considerably mixed as to leadership and a great many bitter dissensions have crept into their ranks, which will certainly cause shrinkage in their usual majorities.

In the first place the row started over Governor Gage's attempt at re-nomination, and the war has gone merrily on until it has penetrated every nook and cranny in the whole state. Charges and counter-charges of bribery and manipulation come thick and fast, while nearly every political leader seems to have a knife sheathed in his boot leg with the handle in easy reach where, at an instant's warning, he can thrust it between some one's ribs.

On the other hand, the democrats are "hand in glove" with each other, with not a single man out of step, or a cross eye, and will make a clean, but valiant fight, and if some of their men don't hit the high places so long occupied by their opponents, then I am neither a gun, nor a son-of-a-gun.

William E. Smythe, the well known irrigation agitator received the democratic nomination for congress in this district. Mr. Smythe is an able exponent of irrigation and as this country stands in urgent need of some sensible legislation along this line, I would not be surprised if William pulled down the plum.

D. W. M'DANNALD.
