

BACKACHE.

Backache is a forerunner and one of the most common symptoms of kidney trouble and womb displacement.

READ MISS BOLLMAN'S EXPERIENCE.

"Some time ago I was in a very weak condition, my work made me nervous and my back ached frightfully all the time, and I had terrible headaches.

"My mother got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and it seemed to strengthen my back and help me at once, and I did not get so tired as before. I continued to take it, and it brought health and strength to me, and I want to thank you for the good it has done me."—MISS KATE BOLLMAN, 142nd St. & Wales Ave., New York City.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures because it is the greatest known remedy for kidney and womb troubles.

Every woman who is puzzled about her condition should write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her all.

MUCH BUNCO WORK

BY TIMBER CRUISERS IN EASTERN OREGON.

Proposed Timber Reserve Has Put a Check to Their Operations—Many Locations Made That Are Proving Unsatisfactory.

It is said that more unscrupulous work has been done in the matter of timber locations in the Inland Empire during the last year than in all the land and mining stock deals that have been made, says the Walla Walla Union. In other words, a man's chances of getting "bamfooled" in taking up a timber location were and are greater than when he undertakes to buy a piece of land he has never seen, or takes a chance on wildcat mining property. Much of this is due to natural mistakes on the part of the claim takers themselves, and the balance to the work of dishonest locators.

When the rush for Idaho's white pine had pretty well exhausted that magnificent belt of valuable timber, the myriad of claim hunters in the west began to look for greener fields, which they found for the most part in Eastern Oregon. Here in the immense stretches of forest in the Blue mountains and its spurs were hundreds of yellow pine claims untouched. The locator went first, dozens of these men threading the timber belt of the John Day and Baker and Union counties. Their advertising and the real merit of the district brought a rush, and at $100 to $400 per the locators made a mine of money.

These men have been vitally affected by the new Blue and Strawberry mountain forest reserve, which, by taking out 5,000 square miles or 3,200,000 acres of what is supposed to be mainly timbered land, queered the locating business permanently in that great area of country. Prior to this, however, much unscrupulous work had been done, and the real sum of it all is probably not found out yet. It is claimed that claim hunters were at times hoodwinked by false surveys, and located on quarter sections of rocky ground, instead of on yellow pine fillings, as they thought. In other cases locations were made where others had already proven up, or where squatters had prior right. In many cases after the proposed reserved area was withdrawn from settlement, locators went right on taking their hundred or two per claim from gullible city people, whom they assured that they were outside the reserve lines, or that the reserve was not going to amount to anything. Other modes of deception are alleged to have been practiced to the detriment of the seeker under the stone and timber act. Since the reserve was withdrawn from entry, however, there has been a great exodus of locators from the Sumpter and John Day districts, and the woods are no longer full of cruisers as before.

New fields now have to be sought, and it has become a difficult task, as timber is getting pretty scarce. The Wallowa country is a new favorite, a great deal of splendid timber existing in that district, though there is no immediate prospect of getting transportation for it. Crook county timber is about all gone; Klamath and Rogue river timber in Southern Oregon is reported in the same predicament, while what there is left in Idaho is generally so remote that a man has difficulty getting in to it.

The numerous holders of claims in the Blue mountains whose holdings have been included in the reserve will not be cheated out of their filings, but will not be allowed scrip for what they have. This scrip is saleable, or may be used to select timber elsewhere. In fact, scrip is now good as gold.

TO BUY LIGHT PLANT.

Unknown Parties After Possession of La Grande Business.

D. W. French, cashier of the Citizen's bank, has made the first payment upon an option for the purchase of the La Grande Electric Light and Power Company's plant at that place. The property will be given into the hands of the purchasers December 22, providing the consideration is paid into the hands of the present holders. The company is controlled by Solby and Joseph Palmer and J. D. Kennon.

Mr. French stated this morning, in answer to a query regarding the matter propounded by a Herald reporter, that he was merely the agent of outsiders and that he was not at liberty to disclose their identity at this time; that he had made a payment upon an option but this did not signify his backers would secure the plant, though it was their aim. At La Grande rumor has it that the parties to the transaction are those who recently acquired the property of the Grande Ronde Lumber Company at Perry.

ARRESTED FOR BIGAMY.

Tony Morak Wanted at Walla Walla By Sheriff Kees.

Tony Morak, well known in Portland, having worked for some of the railroad companies and also as a bartender, is in serious trouble because of too many wives. He was arrested last night on a telegraphic warrant from Sheriff Kees, of Walla Walla, where wife No. 2 is now located.

Morak admits that he was rather hasty in his second marriage, which occurred September 22 in Walla Walla, but says he thought he was doing nothing wrong, as he intended securing a divorce from his first wife. In fact, divorce papers have been filed in the state court, October 1, although as no divorce has been granted, Morak is undoubtedly guilty of bigamy as charged.

The warrant received by Sheriff Storey last night was as follows: "Walla Walla, Wash., Oct. 7.—Arrest Joseph Morak for bigamy. I hold warrant. His residence is 335 First street. S. R. Harrington, attorney, Bulkey block, can give information. A. F. Kees, sheriff."

Morak was found tending bar and was immediately taken into custody. When seen this morning he talked freely concerning his trouble. He claims that he was married to his first wife in 1898 and that about a year and a half ago she deserted him for a life of more variety. Since that time he met Bertie Shipp in Portland, and fell in love with her, as he says. Thinking it would be all right, he went with her to Walla Walla, where she became the second Mrs. Morak. Wife No. 2 remained in Walla Walla with a sister while Morak came to Portland and instituted divorce proceedings against his first wife on the grounds of desertion. He attributes his arrest partly to his attorney, for he had some difficulty with the lawyer in regard to his fee, but, at any rate, his trouble became known in Walla Walla, and a warrant was issued, charging him with bigamy.

A second dispatch was received this morning from Sheriff Kees, asking if Morak would go to Washington without requisition papers, but this he refuses to do. Hence the case will be carried out along the regular lines.

Russian Rate Conference.

London, Oct. 8.—A dispatch from Odessa says that an important conference of Russian and European railway and steamship officials was commenced in that city today in an endeavor to arrange a through continental tariff by the Siberian and Chinese Eastern railroads. One of the chief difficulties in arranging a satisfactory rate through Siberia and Manchuria is the high cost of keeping up the new road and its large initial cost. But the Russian officials hope to be able to overcome this and establish rates by which the Far Eastern road will become accessible to all.

Hanna Challenges Johnson.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 8.—In his speech at Steubenville today, Senator Hanna challenged Tom Johnson to debate on the tariff, the subject to be discussed from a strictly economic standpoint and with no reference to monopolies. Senator Hanna's challenge was delivered to Mayor Johnson at Wooster and he immediately replied that he would accept the challenge and would debate the subject in any way or at any time that Senator Hanna might name. Mayor Johnson will be in Cleveland from October 17 until election.
