GEORGIA SHERIFF

ON HIS WAY TO MOSCOW AFTER NEGRO.

Speaks of His Country and His Trip—Highly Pleased With Pacific Country.

Sheriff W. W. Sutherland, of Coffee county, Georgia, accompanied by E. L. Tanner, assistant cashier of the Citizens' Bank of Douglas, Ga., is in town today on their way to Moscow.

They are after Will Brunner, colored, who shot K. White, a white man, down in cold blood in August of 1901. Brunner had no cause for shooting White, who was a peaceable citizen and after the negro killed White he fled to the West. He was traced for several miles by the officers and surrounded in a house, but managed to make his escape to the brush and after receiving a volley of shots from the officers, succeeded in making his escape.

That was the last heard of the negro until recently he went to Moscow and made statements which implicated him with crime. He was then arrested by the chief of police of Moscow and confessed to being the murderer of a man in the South. Sheriff Sutherland had been camping on the negro's trail for the past several months and the officers of Moscow having been notified of the crime and being given a description of Brunner, they wired the sheriff of Coffee county stating that they had the man wanted. Sheriff Sutherland and Mr. Turner started immediately after him and have been eight days on the road.

Mr. Sutherland was asked what would be done with the negro when he got him back to Georgia, and he replied that he would undoubtedly be hanged according to law. He did not state that the fellow might be strung up by the infuriated mob, but as this is usually the procedure with such fellows in the South, this is the kind of a reception the negro may receive.

In speaking of his trip and what he thought of this country, Sheriff Sutherland said:

"We left home eight days ago and have had a very pleasant trip. We are in no hurry and are looking over the country we go through and expect to remain here several days and take a thorough look over this country to see what it is like. Our man is in jail and as I have the requisition papers for his return, which need only be signed by the governor, we will not hurry to start back."

Sheriff Sutherland said he was not very well impressed with the appearance of the country of which they traveled until they arrived on this side of the Rockies, but was highly pleased with the appearance of things on this side. He said that the negroes were very aggravating to the whites in Georgia, as they were always committing some crime since their advent from North Carolina to the turpentine fields of Georgia. All the way from 500 to 2000 are brought from the hills of North Carolina each winter to work in these fields as the white men cannot stand the work. These negroes are usually the scum and criminals who cannot stay at home and are run out by the infuriated whites.

Sheriff Sutherland and Mr. Tanner are typical Southerners. They cannot bear the negro and say if the people of the North had to live with them they would change their attitude of sympathy to hatred. The sheriff is a staunch democrat and has served as sheriff of Coffee county one term and has just been elected to serve a second.

GOLCONDA MINE.

Great Ore Body Opening at 300-Foot Level.

A great ore body is opening on the 300 level of the Golconda. The north drift on the east vein entered the area of the rich shoot some time ago, and at first it appeared that the values were to be found in a relatively narrow streak. At the point of last intersection, by cross-cut from this drift, the vein is 15 feet wide, and on both walls is very fine quartz. The whole of the vein is not pay ore, but the heavy streaks on the walls are widening till it seems that most of it will be shortly. The width of the ore at that depth and the rapid improvement with the north drift afford the best example of what the Golconda is to be at a depth. With the great enlargement of the ore body observed between the 200 and 300 as an index, it is quite certain that on the 400 and 500, when the north drifts progress some further, the ore body will be of proportions never seen in the Golconda before.—Sumpter American.
