AT THE FRAZER.

"The Convict's Daughter" Will Be Presented Tomorrow Night.

A powerful melodrama abounding with startling sensations, beautiful scenery, electrical appliances and wonderful mechanical effects and devices, with a strong acting company, constitute the main characteristics of "The Convict's Daughter."

The author has made the central figure that of a tramp—an escaped convict—innocent as far as crime goes, but unjustly sentenced for another man's crime, that of murder. He finally escapes from prison and becomes a tramp or "Weary Willie," as he is now termed. Colonel Gould's confidential bookkeeper, who is a villain at heart, discovers his identity and, by threatening to send him back to prison, compels him to become an unwilling accomplice to his villainous scheme of winning the hand, or ruining Colonel Gould's beautiful adopted daughter.

See this play at the Frazer tomorrow night.
Prices, lower floor, 75c, gallery 50c, box seats $1.

INDIAN SUPERSTITION.

Individual Execution for the Crime of Witchcraft.

The Indian murder case of Umatilla county, wherein Toy Toy and Columbia George were convicted of killing Anna Edna, an Indian medicine woman, has a parallel in an Alaskan incident which has just been disposed of by the courts.

Columbia George and Toy Toy, two Umatilla Indians, killed the medicine woman as the result of, or edict of an old tribal custom which doomed to death the false medicine man or woman, on the grounds of witchcraft. There was no doubt about the guilt of the parties, but the defense was made on the ground of the old tribal custom and its seeming fatality in the minds of the Indians. Anna Edna had doctored an Indian child, which afterward died, despite her skill. This was a certain evidence of witchcraft on the part of the woman and so the old custom was put into execution, and she was killed.

Last week Blind Isaac, an Alaska Indian, was found guilty of an assault with intent to kill, in the district court at Skagway.

Blind Isaac had been found guilty of witchcraft, by a council of the tribesmen. The penalty for this crime is death with the Alaskan Indians also. Shortly after hearing of this verdict by Blind Isaac, he met a party of his armed tribesmen and supposed they were coming to execute this old custom, which he well knew. Before learning of their intentions for a certainty, he opened fire upon the party, in the determination to defend himself. He was arrested for assault with intent to kill and has been found guilty. His plea is that he acted in self-defense in shooting at his intended executioners. The court ignored the finding of the tribal council as evidence that his life was in danger.—Oregon Daily Journal.

NEEDS OF OREGON.

Learned Democratic Editor Says Some Wise Things.

With our state entering upon a new era of development there is urgent need of a better business program being put into operation for our state government.

Washington is developing rapidly, and in Governor McBride the people seem to have a leader who is laying the groundwork for greater things. He will carry the legislature with him to make the corporations the servants instead of the masters of the people.

Oregon, with a state tax of over 12 mills, needs a complete reconstruction of its state system of raising revenues.

1st. According to the republican platform, all state officials should be put on a flat salary and save $50,000 a year.

2d. The insurance tax should be extended to all untaxed franchises, so as to yield about $150,000 a year revenue.

3d. All idle school funds should be loaned out and made to yield at least $25,000 revenue a year.

4th. With the initiative and referendum in full operation the legislature would be held down about $250,000 a year on appropriations.

A program like this would make a change of $500,000 a year to the good, and that much money would stay in the pockets of the taxpayers.

Then it would be possible to reduce the state taxes. These objects are worth fighting for at the special session and at the regular session.

The fight for these changes must be made. It was well started at the conventions in the last campaign, and was given a great impetus by Governor Chamberlain in his campaign of the state.

The people are being educated along these lines and will demand these reforms with greater earnestness until they get them.

Public men will be raised up who will quit trifling with playing personal politics and who will strike telling blows for these reforms.

If Governor Geer would master the situation in Oregon along these lines and place them before the people he would strike a blow for progress and put Oregon to the front.

This state is between Washington and California and has a hard position in the race for development. The people would back Governor Geer in a fight for any of these reforms as they will back Governor McBride in Washington.—Salem Statesman.

MISS IDA M. SNYDER

Treasurer of the Brooklyn East End Art Club

MENSTRUAL irregularities are generally the beginning of a woman's troubles. With the vitality at a low ebb, the blood weakened, the digestion disordered, she goes about pale-faced, hollow-eyed and haggard, a piteous contrast to the blooming health of her former self. But over 1,000,000 women have found health again by taking Wine of Cardui.

Miss Ida M. Snyder.

As a regulator of the menstrual periods Wine of Cardui has never been known to fail. It has seldom failed to restore perfect health, even in the most persistent and aggravated case of weakness.

Miss Ida M. Snyder, of No. 535 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., has used Wine of Cardui and she says it helped her into a new life. Health to Miss Snyder is worth a great deal. She is an attractive young woman with intellectual attainments and she occupies the position of Treasurer of the Brooklyn East End Art Club. This position marks her as a person of intellect, culture and refinement and it speaks highly of the respect and trust her fellow women have in her. She writes:

"In consulting my doctor he advised me to take Wine of Cardui and I have every reason to thank a new life opened up to me with health, and it only took three weeks to cure me."

You may secure the same as Miss Snyder, if you take Wine of Cardui is the companion medicine of Wine of Cardui and it is a bowel regulator which assists in effecting a cure. If you take medicines according to directions relief and cure is simple. Some are cured quickly and others later because the disease has run its course. Remember how Miss Snyder had of Cardui and has health. The medicines are offered you to take.
