PREME IMPORTANCE.

Many Bewitching New Creations Were Seen at the Horse Show Plaids Are Again in Favor,

New York, Nov. 22.-The society woman is the woman of the hour in Gotham.

This is only another way of saving that dress is the topic of supreme inerest in Gotham just now. All society came to town for the horse show this week and will remain for the opera next and the result is a be wildering array of smart gowns,

One of the most bewitching fashions of the day is the velvet shirt waist and separate bodice. The latter is carried out in panne; the former in corduroy. The cord in the corduroy is specially thick and heavy, lending an effect that is almost severe. A design which attracted much attention a few days ago was made to fit into the figure very simply but perfectly, with a decided blouse at the The only ornament which the boasted was eight immense white silk buttons placed in couplets a small distance apart upon the front.

The waist was worn with a skirt of black ladies' cloth fitted perfectly plain across the back and hips and circled with narrow bands of black taffeta. Straight down the center of the back of the skirt there was a row of black silk buttons extending from the belt line to the hem.

To complete this costume a smart sheperdess hat was worn. The hat was trimmed with one immense waving ostrich plume and this placed di-rectly across the crown from front to back, the quill being visible among the trimmings over the forehead, the end dropping below the brim in the Plaids have come into favor again this winter and are wresting from striped effects much of their popular-The effects are decidedly Scotch and the favorite color combinations are blue and green with a dash of red or white or turquoise here and there. Shirt waists made of plaid velveteen are confined at the waist with belts of corded plaid silk fastened with clasps of Kaiserzinn and there is a broad back piece of the same metal to extend the girdle in the fashionable "dip."

Corduroy velvet is used in many ways for many purposes this season, but in no fashion does it show off to better advantage than in hats. Some very swell effects are stitched so that the work forms right angles with the ribs of the fabric. They come in white, blue, gray, black and plaids and are the proper thing for the tailor-made girl's morning and outing The only permissible trimming is a knot of ribbon or a coque plume.

Panne velvet is used more for entire costumes than it was last year, and certainly nothing could be more elegant. It is graceful and pliable, while its exquisitely sheeny surface makes it at once one of the modes elegantes of the season. Maids and matrons alike realize the advantage of its rich effect and while it lends itself charmingly to all sorts of ornamentation, it is beautiful without one touch of trimming.

Brocaded with silk flowers of appli-qued with lace medaffons panne velvet is admirably suited for evening wear. One of the gowns which will be worn at the opening performance white panne brocaded with silk flowers, mg yellow biossoms that appear life-like, so eleverly are they imitated. inlet in the front of bodice and skirt is a panel of lace, while a cienture and a fold at the decolletage of pale cau de Nil satin give a charming color note. Another very handsome pattern of the black panne with insets of black Chantilly, with the pattern of the lace tollowed in green chenille. In the center of each medalion is an emeraid and smaller stones are scattered throughout among the embroidery.

Both block and white nets are used extensively in the designing of even or and house gowns. These are often built upon two foundations as if were, for between the net and the tus of chiffon. This is affected lend softness to the ensemble for there is a tendency to regard with disfavor the steady lustre of taffeta or satin one notices through the perforations in the net unless a foundation of dull surface is selected.

White net in its newest guise is embroidered in small flowers or delicate designs in pale colors. A simple gown particularly becoming youthful figures has a gored skirt shirred slightly all around the belt. There is a graduated flounce of lace around the foot and the sleeves and staped yoke are of the same material. the last outlined at the neck by lace insertions embroidered lightly with

Pale blue satin is used for another evening gown, trimmed with white tulie and violets. The flowers are grouped into generous sized bunches and nestled among the folds of the chiffon arranged around the foot of he skirt. The bodiec is generously rimmed with Irish point lace supplemented by the folds of chiffon on which the violets repose. There is no lack of novelties for the woman of fashion this season and some very striking ones are seen in the wrist bag which has grown into a necessity from a fad. The familiar suede and kid effects have given away designs of plaid and moire silks, nighty ornamented with jewels, emroldery or delicate hand-painted trimmings.
