indifferent citizen as often thwarts the aim of good citizenship, as the bad citizen.

—Judge W. R. Ellis.

TIMELY AND PERTINENT.

The Mariou county members of the legislature are making known their position on various important laws that will be presented at the coming session. It is a timely and wellchosen discussion. The people are victims of a great many surprises conferences, eleventh hour trades and postoffice grounds. people. This is why so much "deleg- crowned their lives, islation" is necessary. This is why it is necessary to go back, year after year and correct Di-timed laws.

There should be more discussion among law-makers, before meeting at the capital. Economy of time during the session of the legislature demands that the threshing process be done outside, among the people. Why are not all proposed laws taken up by the press and people as the fair apgon, but knows all about this proposed bill, and has expressed an opinion upon it. This is an ideal situation. This is the aeme of popular govern- nation ment. Open discussion is a sure cure for the habit of kicking. Press and people should talk before the session in the new club building in Pendleso the members can act intelligently ton should be but the task of a week during the session. If the representatives of the people hear no expression from them, how are they to judge the public needs?

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

A nobler theme more ably handled, was never presented to a Pendleton assemblage than the subject of good citizenship at the union Thanksgiving service last night. If there those of Great Britain are. was any doubt in the mind of the pessimist in regard to the deep and fervent love of good law, well executed, in the community, that doubt was dispelled in the noble sentiments expressed by Judge Ellis, Mayor Halley and Rev. Warner last evening. Embodied in the short addresses made, was the whole creed and constitution of a law-abiding God-fearing, grateful Christian people.

In less than two thousand words was set forth a platform that would suffice for all the nations in Christendom. Plain, broad, unassuming justice: righteous devotion to principle; citizenship active and awake to duty: gratitude, earnestness of purpose and infinite fraternity! This is the essence of freedom's creed; this is the basis of all good government. No need of courts or codes if the love of law and a better understanding of its aim were imprinted in the hearts of men. No need of prisons nor penalties, if every man would do the right. That is the cure for the sickness of the world; that is the key to the riddle of civilization. Just do the right. Nothing else is needed. That perfects man's work. That turns the wilderness of selfishness into a blossoming field of fraternity.

To induce men to do the right without coercion, without surrendering the dignity of liberty, is the whole aim, sould and mission of Good Citizenship.

Falsehood in journalism, as elsewhere, is deplorable and costly. William R. Draper, a brilliant newspaper correspondent of St. Louis, is now being sued for libel and damages by the editors of the Philadelphia North American and White Buffalo an American and White Buffalo and Oklahoma Indian, who was educated at Carlisle, Pa. Draper wrote a sensational story about White Buffalo's imaginary love affairs, and the subsequent murder of his sweetheart. The story made interesting reading. but Draper's trial will now furnish a story fully as interesting and full of sad truth

President Roosevelt bows to fate in a short, ringing speech on the oceasion of the visit of the British labor commission to Washington. The president said, when speaking of the question of labor and capital: "Whether you wish them or not, it is idle, in my opinion, to protest against the inevitable tendency of the times toward both corporation and union. It is worse than folly to take exceptions to either corporation novel is dying out. That's good or union as such. The line should news, and many tired readers of it or union as such. The line should be drawn on conduct.

BUSINESS SOCIALISM.

Pursuing a little farther the suggestion made a few days ago in these columns that consumers should in some manner combine to insist on reasonable prices and to resist the exactions of protected trusts or combinations, it is to be observed that conso wide-awake to their interests as retail co-operative societies in Great Their sales last year ex Britain. ceeded $250,000,000, and they divided upwards of $40,000,000 in profits. Some of these societies have but one store; some have several stores.

Some business "Napoleons" like Sir Thomas Lipton have tried to crowd out these co-operative stores, but so far without success. And it is asserted that co-operative trading has gained a position in Great Britain from which it can neither be shaken by individual competition nor by the 'trusts," as we understand that term.

There are various forms or phases of co-operation; the great department store came into existence partly in consequence of this demand for nec-essaries of all kinds at reasonable prices. Labor unions are themselves but a species of co-operation.

But what will check the greed of the 'trusts" and bring them to reasonable terms, more than anything else, is factories and mills that are practically owned by the consumers; that get their raw materials or manu factured goods at wholesale cost, and sell at a small profit.

In this country, as yet, individualsm is too strong, apparently, to ad mit of the successful working of such combinations of consumers, but the trend is in that direction, and we are likely to yet see this form of applied socialism carried out to a greater or less extent.

It seems that it will be necessary to check the increinate greed of such concerns as the steel trust, the salt trust, the biscuit trust, and a thous and others .- Portland Telegram,

A Secret Disease

Of all human diseases, that known as contagious blood poison, or the Bad Disease, has caused more misery and suffering and ruined more lives than all others combined. It not only wrecks the hopes and aspirations of the one who contracts it, but often the innocent are made to share the humiliation and disgrace of this most loathsome and hateful form of blood poison. Children inherit it from parents, and thousands of the purest men and varmen have been contaminated and ruined simply through handling the clothing of one infected with this awful malady, or drink- THE INNOCENT ing from the same vessel and SUFFER WITH using the same to ilet articles.
