DOGS POISONED

SPORTSMEN'S ASSOCIATION WILL INVESTIGATE.

Large Reward Offered for the Arrest and Conviction of Guilty Person—A Serious Offense.

The dog poisoner has again resumed business in Pendleton. Yesterday three canines were found dead in the vicinity of West Alta, Webb and Thompson streets and one was found dead today. This would indicate that the poison is being distributed in that locality but so far there is no clue to the guilty.

This is the second time poison has been placed in the city and several valuable dogs suffered by some wanton degenerate within the past six months and the Pendleton Sportsmen's Association has interested itself in the matter and offers a reward for the arrest and conviction of the guilty person.

Following is the notice which they have issued, which has been signed by 11 members of the association:

Pendleton, Dec. 3, 1902.—We, the undersigned members of the Pendleton Sportsmen's Association, hereby agree to contribute the sum of $10 each on demand to be used as a reward for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties poisoning dogs in the city of Pendleton: F. F. Wamsley, H. J. Stillman, F. W. Waite, J. V. Tallman, T. W. Ayers, F. X. Schemp, James E. Hackett, J. A. Ogg, Hoch Bros., F. J. Crawford, W. J. Sewell.

It is also stated that several more will donate money toward running down the guilty.

It is a very serious crime to place poison for the destruction of dogs. The statutes of Oregon make it a very serious crime and the least penalty is a fine of $50, while the penalty may be three years in the penitentiary.

It is the intention of the Sportsmen's Association to make an example of some one if they are caught.

OKLAHOMA DIVIDED.

One Faction Favors Single Statehood, the Other Favors Combining Oklahoma and Indian Territory.

Claremore, I. T., Dec. 3.—It is accepted as a foregone conclusion that the inquiry Senator Beveridge and his fellow-committeemen from the senate committee on territories have been making through Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona will precipitate a free-for-all fight on the statehood question when the bill comes up in the senate next week. The bill before the senate is known as the Tri-State bill and provides for the admission of New Mexico and Arizona to statehood and the creation of a single state out of Oklahoma and Indian territories. The Tri-State bill was the result of the efforts of Mr. Flynn, the delegate from Oklahoma, who felt so sure of its passage by the senate that he declined a re-nomination to the house, with the intention of being one of the first senators from the new state.

In both Oklahoma and Indian territories, however, there is a large element which is strenuously opposed to combining the two into one state. They favor single statehood and are working hard to promote their cause. Citizens of Oklahoma object to the joint statehood proposition on the ground that the Indian territory is far behind their territory in progress, development and civilization, while a large element of the Indian territory people are of the opinion that Oklahoma would have all the best of it in the combination deal.

The single statehood advocates of the two territories have decided to come together for the promotion of their plans. To this end a single statehood convention composed of nearly 500 delegates from each of the two territories assembled here today. The purpose of the convention is to frame a bill that will be introduced as a substitute for the omnibus bill, and which will provide for the making of a single state of the territory of Oklahoma and the Indian territory.

Badly Scalded Hand.

Thomas Jennings, who has been working in the restaurant in the back of "Jim's Place," is suffering from a badly scalded hand. He picked up a pan of hot grease Tuesday evening and spilled it over his hand and arm, which will lay him up for several days.

Judge Sears rendered a decision Tuesday in the Portland district court, for the plaintiff in the case of Wells-Fargo Co. vs. J. P. Christensen. The suit was instituted to recover a $500 balance on a note uttered by Christensen for $2500. It was brought out in the proceedings that during April, 1901, $2000 was paid by the defendant, leaving the balance, which has never been remitted.

A 75x100 foot annex is now being built to the Portland Woolen Mills at Sellwood.

THE SEWERAGE QUESTION.

Shall a Debt of $20,000 Be Incurred by the City of Pendleton,

Although Mayor Halley is not in the city, it is expected that the council tonight will take action on the sewer question. It has been announced that a special election would be called during this month when the voters and tax-payers of the city could decide whether or not they wanted to tax themselves for the establishing of a thorough sewerage system. The matter of drafting the ordinance calling for the election was put in the hands of City Attorney Carter several weeks ago, but since that time there has never been a full council meeting so that the matter has been laid over from time to time until now.
