ADVANCE IN CO-OPERATION.

English Working People Accomplishing Much Through Quiet Agencies—1500 Stores Owned by Laborers.
It is contended by some economists that while American working people make much the more noise as labor agitators, they are exceeded by the English in the amount of real amelioration accomplished through quiet agencies.
For instance, the English working classes are far more advanced in the line of co-operation than ours. The co-operative spirit is always a useful one. We have been expending much talk of late about co-operative movement to move coal to Boston in the face of the slowness of the local dealers and the extortionate prices of coal. Doubtless the English would have organized an independent coal company while we are talking about it.
It would seem that the resources of co-operation might be more generally utilized than they are among us, especially in these trust-ridden times. There are now over 1500 towns and villages in England that have co-operative stores, and they are all owned by consumers. The co-operative stores number over 2,000,000 and they are steadily pushing the idea into the wholesale and the larger industries.
The fact of co-operative stores does not in the least take from the interest in trades unions. Out of 14,000,000 wage-earners in England, over 2,000,000 are organized into trades unions. The two movements of co-operation and labor federation naturally move together in the great work of self-defense against the demands of capitalism.—Boston Globe.

A Costly Perfume.

Attar of Ylang-Ylang, which rivals the attar of roses as an exquisite perfume, and sells at $40 to $50 or more a pound, is the product of an Asiatic tree that reaches its highest development in the Philippine Islands. The tree grows to a height of six feet; when three years old it begins bearing long, greenish-yellow flowers, and at the age of eight may produce yearly 100 pounds of these flowers, blossoming every month. The attar is obtained by simple distillation of the choicest petals with water, no chemicals being used. Besides its value as a perfume for hair and toilet water, the product is prized among the natives as a medicine, being credited with curing toothache and numerous other pains.

"Well, well!" he exclaimed, as he tackled her first pot-ty, "where did you get this?" "I made it out of Mrs. Shouter's cook book," replied the young wife. "It's a —" "Ah!" he broke in, "this leathery part is the binding. I suppose."—Philadelphia Press.

S. A. LOWELL HOME

ASSISTED IN PROSECUTION OF JOHN CHRISMAN.

Sleigh Ride of 31 Miles—Prosperous Towns and Valleys of John Day—No Pests in Orchards of Grant County—Remarkable Mining Region
Judge Stephen A. Lowell has returned from Canyon City where he assisted District Attorney William Miller in the prosecution of John Chrisman for the murder of William Johnson.

Mr. Lowell left Canyon before the jury returned their verdict but before reaching home he was informed that a verdict had been reached finding Chrisman guilty of manslaughter. This will give Chrisman a sentence of from one to 15 years.
Mr. Lowell said that the defense fought very hard to save Chrisman's neck, and although it his opinion it was a plain case of murder in the second degree, the defense had many points in its favor.

Trouble of Long Standing.

The trouble between Chrisman and Johnson, which led up to the tragedy at Galena on the 3rd day of July, 1902, was of long standing. In February, 1898, the two men fell out in a saloon at Long Creek over a dice game and Chrisman hit Johnson over the head with a revolver, almost putting Johnson out of the business then. From that time until the murder was committed when the men would meet words invariably were passed between them. It was claimed that threats had been made by both on different occasions and on the day of the tragedy Chrisman swore that Johnson remarked that he was going to get a gun. The men had just had words and a little later Chrisman claimed he thought Johnson had armed himself and they again became involved when the shooting occurred, self defense being the plea.

Case Lasted a Week.

The case just lasted a week. The work of securing the jury was begun on Friday, the 28th of Nov., and the jury brought in their verdict the following Friday after being out nearly 24 hours.

It took nearly three days to get the jury and 48 men were examined before the 12 could be secured to sit on the case. Twenty witnesses were examined by the state and 35 by the defense, while 45 were subpoenaed by the defense.

C. W. Parish, of Burns; M. Duston, and V. C. Cuzad, of Canyon City, were the defendants attorneys.

Railroad to Canyon.

Mr. Lowell says that the people of Canyon and the other little towns in the John Day valley are much elated over the talk of a railroad from Sumpter, the present terminus of the Sumpter Valley road, into the valley.

Many and varied have been the schemes to build a railroad into the John Day valley, but heretofore nothing has come of them further than a little talk. Now it is thought that the present talk will develop something more substantial. The above belief is substantiated by the fact that the company, which hails from Philadelphia, has been doing some extensive investing in that section and has already placed considerable money in surveys and preliminary work. The company first negotiated for the extensive mining interests of the Cleaver Bros., formerly of this city, and after securing this group of mines at an enormous price men were put to work surveying and making estimates as to what the cost of building the road would be. All this work was done on the quiet.

This road will leave Sumpter, pass over the Burnt river and Strawberry mountains, into the John Day valley and down this valley tapping all the little towns along the route and one of the richest little valleys in the state.

A Great Fruit Valley.

This valley is noted for its products. Fruit is the main product of the farm although any kind of vegetables can be raised to perfection. It is also one of the richest mining countries of Eastern Oregon and the only thing which has kept it from developing is its remoteness from market.

No Fruit Pests.

Fruit pests are unknown in this valley. This is something unexplainable and which cannot be said of any other fruit country in the Northwest. Although all stocks have been bought in other places and taken in, giving the best of opportunities for the introduction of pests through the importing of trees, nothing has ever appeared to molest the fruit and a wormy apple was never seen in the valley unless taken in from some other locality. The country is not new, which makes the above facts noticeable. Canyon City began as a town in the early '60s, when the first stampede was made to this valley for gold. Since that the county has gradually developed and millions of dollars have been extracted from the hills and creek bottoms.

Big Dredger Running.

Mr. Lowell said the big Pomeroy dredger was still running near the mouth of Canyon Creek, on the John Day river. This is the first dredger to be operated in this country. It works the creek and river bottoms and works over the tallings of the old mills which have been run to extract the precious metal from the earth and rock, but which, in the crude states and olden times, would not save all the gold.

No Snow in Valley.

There was no snow in the valley when Mr. Lowell left Canyon City, although he encountered plenty on the way out. He enjoyed a 31-mile

Towns Prosperous.
"All the towns in the John Day country have an air of prosperity," said Mr. Lowell. "There is quite a noticeable activity in all of the valley towns and many of the business buildings are being erected of stone. Canyon City has a vast stone quarry near which is hard to out-class for building purposes and rock from this is being used very extensively."

An Appeal to the Young Men.
Young men, life is before you. Two voices are calling you—one, coming from the swamps of selfishness and force, where success means death, and the other, from the hilltops of justice and progress, where even failure brings glory. Two lights are seen in your horizon—one the fast fading marsh light of power, and the other the slowly rising sun of human brotherhood. Two ways lie open to you—one leading to an ever lower and lower plane, where are heard the cries of despair and the curses of the poor, where manhood shrivels and possession rots down the possessor, and the other leading off to the highlands of the morning, where are heard the glad shouts of humanity and where honest effort is rewarded with immortality.—John P. Altgeld.
